FRENCH PANICKY AS MONEY CHAOS SPREADS MISERY

Bitter Political Struggle Under Way as Result of Continuing Decline of Franc

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, March 10.—The fall of the franc is creating consternation bordering on actual panic among the rank and file of the French populace. In all circles of French life the subject dominates everything else. Prince and peasant are affected alike.

Unlike the phlegmatic Germans, the French are an excitable race. Like all Latins they react quickly, even violently, to every crisis. In Paris these days everyone is nervous and irritable. Every additional rise in foodstuffs, every slump of the Bourse and every new move adds to the impelling fear of impending disaster.

SAVINGS SHRINK

The persons chiefly affected are those who, after long years of hard work and economy, retired on modest incomes from investments, chiefly in government bonds. These persons in France constitute a large class. Some have undoubtedly been exporting their capital, but, as this is illegal and, for persons without international financial affiliations, is difficult most of them have been obliged to sit as if paralyzed, watching their hard-earned capital shrink day by day, and contemplating the arrival of the month when, despite advanced age and interrupted business connections, they may once more be obliged to try to earn their living.

Formidable foreign buyers from many quarters have flocked to Paris and reports from the provinces show large foreign purchases of live stock and manufactured products in the village markets. In Paris many firms refuse to fill large orders, preferring to keep their stocks for higher prices.

Politically there is an increasing tension, accentuated by the nearness of the elections and the bitterness of the electoral campaign between the Left and the Right. It is more and more apparent that the real issue is a man—namely, Premier Poincare, whom the Right supports definitely and the Left opposes definitely.

Since the fall of the franc the Left argues that Poincare has brought ruin to the country and should resign at once. From the other circumstances the Right argues that Poincare is trying to divert the country from the ruin caused by general fear that the Left might win in the elections and plunge France into a state of anarchy and sheepish pacifism in a selfish world.

In the Senate Finance Committee the motion to the Poincare proposal of financial reform continues. Eventually the bill will be brought before the chamber by Premier Poincare intends then to make the question of confidence in him, so that if he fails to receive the Senate's support may resign. Some observers here feel that the franc has now reached its low-

FORD POWER PLAN WINS

House Approves Shoals Grant

McKenzie Bill Authorizing Acceptance of Offer is Passed 227 to 142

Opponents, Outnumbered, Fight to Last Against Terms of Measure

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals, pending before Congress for more than two years, was approved today by the House.

By a vote of 227 to 142 the McKenzie bill, which would authorize acceptance of Ford's bid, was passed and sent to the Senate, where there is uncertainty as to what action, if any, will be taken on it at this session.

Continuously before the House for a week, the McKenzie measure was approved virtually in the form in which it was reported by the Military Committee, which had been informed by Mr. Ford that he would take over the government's nitrate and power project on the Tennessee River under the terms embodied in the bill.

RESIST AMENDMENTS

To the last, advocates of the Ford offer resisted attempts to modify the proposed contract. Amendment after amendment, aimed at the heart of the bill, was thrown out by decisive vote, and as passed the measure carried less than half a dozen changes, all of minor importance which proponents of the bill were willing to accept.

Attached to the bill, however, was the Madden amendment, approved by the Military Committee, which obligates the govern-

"Well, I—eh—" I begin, the bashful.

"Sure!" butts in Shapiro. "You don't think too much of that, do me? 'At showed me you could—'at's all. You want to remember K. AGREEMENT ON SOLDIER BONUS BILL

Definition of Veterans to be Compensated Settled by Committee

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The same definition of veterans entitled to a soldier bonus as was carried in the bill passed last session was agreed upon today by a subcommittee of the House Ways and Means Committee in drafting the new measure. Work will be started tomorrow on framing the paid-up life-insurance policy provision which forms the basis of the new bill. Under definitions agreed upon, men and women who served in either the military or naval forces at any time after April 5, 1917, and before November 12, 1918 would be eligible to the bonus. The committee previously had agreed to exclude from the benefits of the bill officers who ranked above captain in the Army and Marine Corps and senior lieutenant in the Navy.

Framing of the insurance provision of the bill is expected to entail considerable study by the subcommittee. Several propositions have been presented, including proposals for endowment policies running from twenty to thirty years. The basis on which their values would be figured, however, is problematical. The old bill provided for an adjusted service credit of $1 for each day of home service and $1.25 for overseas service.

BROADCAST MONOPOLY IS OPPOSED

Hoover Sees Control in Single Corporation as Calamity

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Secretary Hoover in a statement today said it would be "most unfortunate for the people of this country" if radio broadcasting should come within the control of any single corporation, individual or combination.

The Commerce Department, over which Mr. Hoover presides, has charge of the issuance of licenses for broadcasting. He emphasized his desire not to "express any opinion on particular issues" involving the subject which recently have been brought before the courts and the Federal Trade Commission in litigation in connection with patents on broadcasting devices.

"I can state emphatically that it would be most unfortunate for the people of this country, to whom broadcasting has become an important incident of life, if its control should come into the hands of any single corporation, individual or combination," he said. "It would be in principle the same as though the entire press of the country was so controlled."

NEGRESS CONVICTED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, March 10.—After a second trial Annie Taylor has been found guilty of manslaughter in the killing of John Allen in Phoenix last November. The couple, both colored, had come to the city together, but had separated. She charged that Allen had broken into her home and that she shot in self-defense.

DENBY AGAIN MARINE MAJOR

Retiring Secretary Re-commissioned with Impressive Ceremony; High Tribute Paid Him by Associates

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Edwin Denby surrendered his Navy portfolio today but retained a connection with the naval establishment of which he has been the chief for three years. When he left the Secretary's office late in the day he was again Maj. Denby, fourth-class, Marine Corps Reserve, with a renewed pledge of loyalty to the flag on his lips.

"You see they cannot force me entirely out of the Navy," Mr. Denby said smilingly. "I am still on the pay roll. I draw $1 a month."

Departmental affairs were turned over to Acting Secretary Roosevelt until such time as Mr. Denby's successor is nominated and confirmed. There was nothing to indicate that President Coolidge had as yet determined definitely on a man for the post.

The former Secretary will leave for his home in Detroit Wednesday afternoon, returning to Washington about March 20. A homecoming reception awaits him as evidence of the confidence of his fellow townsmen. Detroit will be put to it, however, to make that homecoming more striking than was the farewell extended to him today by the commissioned and civil personnel of the Navy Department.

DESK LADEN WITH FLOWERS

Mr. Denby began his last day in office with flags draped about the big room, his desk laden with flowers wishing him bon voyage on behalf of "Comrades of the Navy and Marine Corps on duty in Washington," and with high officers of the department gathered to witness his recommissioning in the Marine Corps reserve. He held the rank of major when selected by President Harding to fill the Cabinet post.

Standing beside his desk Mr. Denby repeated in solemn tones the oath administered by Maj.-Gen. Lejeune, commandant of the Marine Corps, which reunited him with the service in which he spent the war years.

As the general and recommissioned reserve officer shook hands the Marine band in the street outside played, "Semper Fidelis," the "always faithful" march of the Marine Corps.

Chief Clerk F. S. Curtis, who has been in the office of the Secretary of the Navy for thirty-three years, presented Mr. Denby with a memorial signed by hundreds of the civilian personnel of the department. It read as follows:

"To Hon. Edwin Denby:

"We, the undersigned civilian employees of the Navy Department, submit to you this declaration of our high regard and steadfast confidence and our appreciation of your uniform justice and considerate courtesy in all your acts as Secretary of the Navy.

"We beg to express our hopes and prayers for your future happiness."

Mr. Denby, visibly affected, responded with a short address to the department clerks, assuring them that he had valued highly their faithful and loyal services.

The retiring Secretary broadcast this message to the Navy, Marine Corps and civilian personnel of the naval establishment wherever they may be located:

"Good-by and God bless you."

[Signed] "EDWIN DENBY."

PRAISES REPORTERS

At his last conference with the newspaper men who have been daily in touch with him during his Cabinet years, Mr. Denby took occasion to express his feeling as to that relationship.

"I would like to express my personal feeling about the press and the men of the press," he said. "I just want to say that during my three years as Secretary of the Navy I have not at any time had the slightest suspicion of betrayal of confidence, I have nothing but the deepest appreciation and friendship for the men of the press."

Mr. Denby called on President Coolidge during the day to take his official leave.

LEGISLATURE CALL URGED

Committee on Foot and Mouth Disease Sees Need of Session to Meet Emergency in State

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 10.—The committee of bankers and others named to raise an emergency fund to meet the expenses of the campaign against the foot and mouth disease epidemic in California, resolved at a meeting here today "that the Legislature should be called at the earliest possible moment to meet the emergency."

Legal counsel has been retained to determine the constitutional aspects of a special session of the Legislature called for such a purpose, and to prepare necessary bills providing for the indemnification of cattle owners whose stock was sacrificed to check the plague and for meeting obligations of the emergency otherwise. Efforts to raise an emergency fund up to $500,000 are being continued by the committee, it was announced by Sam H. Greene, head of the California Dairy Council, who is chairman of the committee. Subscribers would be reimbursed through legislative appropriation, according to the present plan.

While it was announced today that tomorrow would see the last of the infected herds under ground, it was reported also that the infection had broken out anew in a herd of 1000 hogs near San Leandro. This report could not be confirmed by the experts in charge late today. San Leandro is well within the original infection area.

SOURCE IS TOLD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OLYMPIA (Wash.) March 10.—Strict observation should be maintained in all the seaports of Washington State to guard against the bringing in of the foot and mouth disease by ships sailing from oriental, South American and English ports, Dr. L. C. Peiton, State Veterinarian, declared here today.

As near as can be ascertained, the disease was brought into California from the Orient or the Philippines, by naval transports,

MORE DEAD ARE FOUND

Hope for Miners Abandoned

Rescuers Expect to Complete Search for Explosion Victims Today

Utah Governor to Appeal for Funds to Aid Survivors of Disaster

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CASTLE GATE (Utah) March 10.—Belief was expressed tonight that perhaps late tomorrow all of the inner recesses of Utah Fuel Company mine No. 2 will have been penetrated and the fate of all of the 173 miners entombed in the three explosions Saturday will have been determined. Little or no hope was held out that any of the men in the mine were alive. Forty-two bodies had been recovered up to 7:30 p.m.

The number of men in the mine when the blasts took place had been given out as 175, but the mine officials today reduced that number by two when they rechecked their lists.

Many theories have been advanced as to the probable cause of the explosions, but nothing official has been made public.

There has been one casualty among the rescue crew. George Wilson of Standardville, Utah, was overcome by gas on Saturday afternoon when he went in the main entrance and was dead before he could be brought out.

RESCUERS RECOVER

Several of the rescue men were rendered unconscious Saturday and yesterday, but they all have been discharged from the hospital here to which they were taken.

Gov. Charles R. Mabey of Utah, who reached here late yesterday from Salt Lake City, visited the mine late today with company officials and announced that tomorrow from the Capitol he probably would issue a nation-wide call for funds for relief work among the families of the miners here. Carbon county educational authorities estimate that on an average, each of the married men caught in the mine had five children.

Picked rescue crews worked in the escape-way of the mine today and tonight, aided by hundreds of electric lights, continued the task of removing the dead.

American Legion men have taken over the policing of the immediate vicinity of Knights of Pythias Castle, which, with the Y.M.C.A. building, has been turned into a morgue.

The Legion men also have assumed the task of notifying relatives of men whose bodies have been recovered and identified.

STREET CROWDED

Soon after daybreak today, the one street of this little coal mining town was crowded with automobiles carrying rescue workers to the mine from neighboring coal camps.

There were many pathetic scenes. Young mothers carrying small babies were frequent visitors at the morgue or fuel company offices seeking word of loved ones.

Despite the great disaster that has overtaken Castle Gate the people here, and is it estimated that not a single family but what is affected, have conducted themselves exceptionally well. There has been no confusion.

Throughout today a crew of seventy-five labored in the Castle Gate cemetery, located in the canyon and at the very portals of the mine, digging individual graves.

It is believed that many of the bodies already recovered will be buried here although some of them will be sent to other parts of the State for burial.

The school house at Castle Gate has been converted into a bunkhouse for mine rescue crews and the teachers, their pupils excused until further notice, are taking part in relief work.

Candler Victor in Suit Brought by Mrs. Byfield

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

DECATUR (Ga.) March 10.—A jury early today awarded a verdict in favor of Walter T. Candler, Atlanta capitalist, growing out of a $100,000 suit brought against him by Mrs. Clyde K. Byfield. She charged that Candler attacked her on the steamer Berengaria during the summer of 1922.

Mrs. Byfield was led from the courtroom sobbing.

John M. Slaton, leading counsel for Mrs. Byfield, announced that the verdict would be appealed on the grounds that the judge's charge did not cover several points for which a request had been made.

Neither principal made a statement concerning the verdict.

POMERENE AND ROBERTS LEAVE TO FILE OIL SUITS

Receivers for Naval Reserves to be Asked Pending Decisions in Fight on Leases

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Special government counsel in the oil lease cases left today for Wyoming and California, to initiate this week the court fights looking to the recovery of the naval oil reserves in those States from the Sinclair and Doheny interests.

Meantime, the oil committee will resume its public hearings tomorrow under plans calling for an inquiry into several new phases of the question after it has wound up its investigation into the affairs of Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, as they relate to the oil matter.

Receivers to take charge of both Teapot Dome in Wyoming and naval reserve No. 1 in California pending the outcome of the annulment suits will be asked of the Federal district courts in the two States. In addition the court at Cheyenne will be requested to issue a temporary injunction to prevent further extraction of oil in the Wyoming reserve, where the wells already have been shut down.

WILL IMPOUND REVENUE

No injunction to prevent production in the California reserve will be sought, but the court will be asked to restrain the Pan-American Petroleum Company from drilling any new wells. Also it will be requested to impound the oil revenue from this reserve during the litigation.

Government counsel explained that it was not possible to stop "gusher" wells from producing and that some provision would have to be made to take over the property under a Federal receivership and for an accounting after the cases have been decided in the courts.

The government's bill for cancellation of the Doheny leases in reserve No. 1 will allege that they were made in consideration of "promise of great reward" and it is understood that there will be allegations of fraud in the case of all of the leases.

Both the Sinclair and Doheny interests will contest vigorously the government's annulment suits. Harry F. Sinclair and six attorneys left Chicago today for Cheyenne to join issue with government counsel, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, at the initiation of the litigation.

FIRST STEP UNCONTESTED

Preliminary steps in the litigation against the Doheny interests at Los Angeles probably will be unopposed, an arrangement having been made between counsel for the government and the Pan-American Petroleum Company on the request for the impounding of royalty revenue and a receivership. Also the request for an injunction to prevent the drilling of new wells probably will be uncontested.

The Doheny company will fight the annulment suit, however, and will take the ground that the executive order issued by President Harding transferring the reserves from the control of the Navy Department to the Interior Department is not an issue; that ample authorization for the leases was contained in the act of June 4, 1920, sponsored by former Secretary Daniels.

The litigation will not serve to stop work on the No. 2 naval fuel station at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, being constructed under the lease of December 11, 1922. E. L. Doheny, through his counsel, Frank J. Hogan, advised President Coolidge today that since the government has stopped further payments on this project, he personally has guaranteed his company against loss for continuing this work.

PROJECT NEARLY DONE

This project, similar to No. 1 storage plant at Pearl Harbor, which was completed and accepted by the government recently, is estimated to be 70 per cent completed and experts for the Doheny companies have reported that because of the peculiar nature of the construction work it probably would be a total loss if it were to be abandoned at this time.

In a statement issued here tonight on behalf of the Pan-American Petroleum Company, reiteration is made of the testimony of E. L. Doheny before the oil committee that the government is $3,627,100 in arrears in payments on the two projects. Of this sum, $1,590,991 is on account of the completed plant.

Rebel General Is Ready to Quit

Figueroa Sends Envoys to Obregon With Offers of Surrender at Once

De la Huerta Reported to be Planning to Come to Los Angeles

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

MEXICO CITY, March 10.—President Obregon's prediction that twenty days would see complete pacification of the country was brought a step nearer fulfillment today when two representatives of Gen. Romulo Figueroa arrived here and, according to the War Department, offered the general's unconditional surrender.

Figueroa revolted when he was removed from the post of military commandant in Guerrero, surrendering a few days later, to revolt again in December when the rebel movement of Adolfo de la Huerta was started.

HUERTA COMING HERE?

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, March 10.—The newspaper El Universal Grafico states that Adolfo De la Huerta has written to his friends here telling them to pack his personal belongings and ship them to Los Angeles, where he intends to take up his residence within a few weeks. The newspaper affirms that the information comes from an official source. De la Huerta is now supposed to be at Frontera and would reach Los Angeles via either Galveston or New Orleans.

SHIP BRINGS STORY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN DIEGO, March 10.—How Mexican agrarians, co-operating with revolutionary forces have driven Spaniards and other foreigners from their estates, how stores were looted and the Federal radio station at Acapulco was dismantled was related today by officers of the United States destroyer William Jones. The vessel arrived here this afternoon.

The William Jones, first of San Diego's destroyer units to return from war maneuvers in the Caribbean, touched at Acapulco to ascertain what had become of H. A. Pangborn, American Vice-Consul at the Mexican seaport. No word had been received from the State Department representative since February 18.

Vice-Consul Pangborn, the destroyer officers were informed, was safe on shore, but had been prohibited from sending any dispatches.

AMERICANS RESPECTED

The Federal wireless station, located on a high hill back of Acapulco, had been dismantled by the revolutionists and the apparatus confiscated and later used in the field by the rebels. The station was boarded up but the antennae were not disturbed.

Officers of the destroyer report that three forces surround Acapulco. These consist of the agrarians or peasant force, which has been promised land by the Federal government, and, failing to get it, are driving out landowners. The second force is that of the revolutionists under Gen. Figueroa and the third a Federal force. Severe fighting has taken place inland between revolutionary and Federal forces, but the former still

NO TAX RELIEF THIS MONTH

House Finds Action in Time Impossible; Plans for Reduction by June to be Rushed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The movement to obtain immediate action on the proposed 25 per cent reduction in income taxes payable this year was revived in the House today, but as quickly turned down.

Republican leaders decided that action could not be obtained on a resolution before the 15th inst., when first installments are due.

Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee, meeting with Representative Longworth, party leader, agreed, however, that if the revenue bill, already passed by the House and containing this provision, meets with any delay in enactment, a separate resolution to make the cut effective before June 15 would be pressed.

The action again places in the hands of the Senate the problem of tax reduction, and the Senate Finance Committee in its consideration of the revenue bill will tomorrow take up the section which provides for the cut in 1923 income taxes.

Most of the administrative sections of the bill were gone over today without change by the committee. Upon winding up these details of the measure, the various tax schedules will be taken up. Secretary Mellon will be asked to present estimates on the amount of revenue necessary to be raised, and his opinion on the rates required to obtain such revenue. Chairman Smoot has expressed the opinion that the bill as passed by the House fails by $100,000,000 of raising sufficient revenue and has declared many of the tax rates will have to be raised.

If the provision to make the 25 per cent reduction on 1923 taxes effective is finally agreed to as carried in the revenue bill, deductions in taxes due in the other three installments will be allowed to make up for the full payments made on the 15th inst.

ANOTHER DELAY FOR DAUGHERTY

Hearing on Attorney-General Will Open Thursday

Doheny Denies Giving Aid to Rebels in Mexico

Says He Lent Obregon Large Sum to Crush Revolt

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—More sifting of evidence preliminary to opening hearings on the Daugherty investigation occupied the special Senate committee today. There was at the same time a lack of any development from Atty.-Gen. Daugherty or other administration quarters affecting his Cabinet status. No explanation was given of the consideration a few days ago of eligibles to succeed the Attorney-General, and administration leaders who have been urging his retirement admitted that they were at a loss to understand why eligibles should be considered without action resulting sooner.

The Senate committee has perfected its plans for investigation of the Attorney-General and his administration of the Department of Justice to the point where hearings, scheduled to begin Thursday, are expected to continue thereafter uninterruptedly for an indefinite period.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, in charge of the prosecution of the inquiry, is daily seeing many visitors and preparing the early course of the hearing. Leonard Wood, Jr., son of Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood, candidate in 1920 for the Republican Presidential nomination, attempted to see him today, but unsuccessfully, and may confer with him tomorrow concerning reports that oil influence figured in the 1920 Republican convention negotiations. Wood has been summoned to appear before both the Daugherty and the oil committees.

WITNESSES ARRIVE.

Mexican revolutionary affairs now are definitely scheduled to be the subject of initial consideration by the Daugherty committee. Some of the witnesses subpoenaed in the Southwest already have reached Washington, and are being interviewed by Senator Wheeler and Chairman Brookhart.

Senator Wheeler today withheld comment on a statement by E. L. Doheny, denying reports reaching Senator Wheeler that the California oil magnate helped finance anti-Obregon revolutionists. The Montana Senator explained, however, that the committee was concerned primarily with the Cantu revolution in Lower California in 1921, but thought that the committee's inquiry in this affair might lead into the affairs of the present revolution.

Senator Wheeler announced that a subpoena had been issued for Gaston B. Means, now under two indictments in New York in connection with liquor withdrawals and alleged attempted bribery of Mr. Daugherty and his aides in New York. The subpoena also calls for papers, diaries and other documents of Means, who formerly was a Department of Justice agent.

DOHENY AIDED OBREGON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 10. — Edward L. Doheny, denying the charges of Senator Wheeler that he, with Sinclair and other interests, had financed a revolution against the Mexican government, said today that he had loaned $5,000,000 to the Obregon government, which enabled it to put down the rebellion.

Doheny said Wheeler's statement was made with reckless disregard for the truth.

"I would have been a fool to finance gun runners into Mexico," he said. "Senator Wheeler's statement, as reported in the press, that he expects to show that E. L. Doheny and others furthered a revolution against the Obregon government in Mexico is absolutely false, just as false as his previous statement of February 19 that Messrs. Sinclair, McLean and I had held meetings in the apartment of Atty.-Gen. Daugherty."

LEAVE TO START OIL LEASE SUITS

between the government and the Pan-American company, the company is performing the tank construction at cost and without profit, subject to government supervision.

It receives its pay in royalty oil from the California reserve. There now is in plant No. 1 at Pearl Harbor 1,500,000 barrels of naval fuel oil, and an additional 2,700,000 barrels of oil would be placed in plant No. 2 under the terms of the contract.

STOCK DEALS FEW

Upon concluding the McLean phase of the inquiry, the oil committee will take up the reports of the accountants who have been examining books of brokerage firms in Washington, New York and Cleveland.

Senator Walsh said that Atty.-Gen. Daugherty and Senator Elkins, Republican, West Virginia, were the only government officials who were shown to have had transactions in Sinclair oil stocks. Both Mr. Daugherty and Senator Elkins have issued statements concerning those dealings, declaring them to have been wholly independent of the Teapot Dome lease.

With the accountants' reports on the brokerage books disposed of before the end of the week, the committee will be ready to turn to other phases of the inquiry, including that developed by the statement of Leonard Wood, Jr., that oil interests had approached his father, Maj.-Gen. Wood, at the Republican convention in Chicago in 1920 with proffers of support if he would appoint Jake Hamon Secretary of the Interior, if elected.

This matter is under investigation by some members of the committee including Senator Walsh.

Unless there are unlooked for developments the committee hopes to conclude its investigation this month.

CAILLAUX IN FIGHT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

[Copyright, 1924, Public Ledger.]

PARIS, March 10.—The shadow of Caillaux again looms across the French political horizon at an hour when the fortunes of the third republic are at a low ebb.

Yesterday in Montpelier his appearance before the federation of young anticlericals was greeted with cries of "Long Live Caillaux —the future renovator of our finances." Several thousand persons from all the radical Socialist organizations in south France frantically cheered the proscript ex-premier as he explained his plans for "freeing France from the vassalage in which she drags out her existence under the flags of the pound and the dollar."

M. Caillaux arrived from Mamers, his village of exile, early in the morning and was conducted on foot to the auditorium by hundreds of young militants. The hall was packed to capacity, hundreds remaining outside, where Caillaux later made a second address. Undoubtedly, according to press reports, this man whose health was supposed to have been shattered by his long imprisonment and subsequent trial for treason, has fully regained both physical and mental vigor. He is reported to have delivered one of the greatest speeches of his life and, in measured, calculating terms, laid down a program for French financial salvation which already is re-echoing in portions of the press and which is bound to have a considerable effect in the discontented provinces.

URGES CONCILIATION

He asserted that above all, France, whose geographical position has enfolded her to the extent of modifying her situation among the world powers, must now "obstinately follow a policy of understandings, or, at least, partial accords with her neighbors, real courage now is necessary to orient the nation toward a peace conciliation as rapidly as possible."

The speaker then criticised the fiscal reforms by the Poincare government, declaring that the 20 per cent increase in taxation would make heavier the load on small taxpayers, whereas if the present tax on revenue—of which he is one of the promoters—were properly applied, the government would be able to present a properly balanced budget.

The governmental press naturally scoffs both at the speech and at the possibilities of Caillaux's influence on forthcoming parliamentary elections but at the same time there are definite indications that the present regime is now facing a crisis from which it may be unable to escape before the elections.

One political writer sums up this view by saying: "Apparently France will soon arrive at the relay station where her destiny changes horses. But Caillaux never will be permitted to seize the reins."

FRANC SINKS FARTHER

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, March 10.—The French franc sank to a new low level this evening after a temporary sharp improvement during the day, attributed to the government's announcement that there should be no further loans or inflation to justify pessimism regarding French finance.

The franc was worth 3.554 cents, the dollar being quoted at 28.13 and the pound at 119.80 when curb trading stopped, as compared with 34.05 and 120 respectively early in the morning.

Premier Poincare and his ministers, together with the officials of the Bank of France, took all possible steps to prevent further depreciation of the currency. The Paris newspapers describe at length the government's new show of vigor, but only the Intransigeant displays enthusiasm.

It regards the ministry's decisions as a rallying cry for patriotic co-operation and sacrifice, and it is confident the country will agree that the devastated regions must wait for the thirty billion francs needed to finish the work there, in order to avoid the borrowing of more money.

The Temps on the contrary criticizes the government for saying it will abandon the "policy of loans," asserting that there is no such policy, and maintaining the reconstruction of the devastated regions is a sacred obligation, loans for which have long been countenanced.

"France never defaults on her obligations," says the Temps. "The sum of thirty billion francs remains to be spent; it will be folly to expect it from taxation. It would not be less monstrous to regard as a policy of loans the demands for credit made solely to make good Germany's default."

GAINS SHORT-LIVED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 10.—Erratic fluctuations in French and Belgian francs and in demand sterling, which rallied briskly, then lost their gains and later resumed their advances, today reflected the struggle of the French government to deliver its currency in the face of a continued "foreign offensive."

Heavy buying from Paris brought about a rally of almost 30 points at the opening of the market, but the gain virtually was canceled when speculative selling was renewed from other continental capitals.

Late in the day the quotations worked back to near the early level.

French bankers increased their purchases of the franc and began to dump sterling on the market, forcing the British demand rate down to 4.26.

Speculative selling of the Belgian francs drove the rate down from 3.30 cents to a new low record of 3.06⅝, from where it rallied at the close to 3.15 cents.

Reports were circulated in Wall street that the French government might attempt to sell $50,000,000 treasury bills in this country, using the proceedings to stabilize the market.

POSTAL RATE CHANGED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—International postal money orders payable in France and Belgium will be based on a rate of conversion of 4 cents instead of 5 cents for each franc, beginning March 12, under an order issued today by Postmaster-General New, because of the depreciation of both French and Belgian francs.

To Aid France, Capetown Man Cancels Bonds

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PARIS, March 10.—Premier Poincare has learned that France has one firm friend who is willing to pay for the privilege. The Premier today received a letter from J. H. Astrop of Capetown, South Africa, dated January 22, which was shortly after the franc began to tumble.

The letter notified M. Poincare that Mr. Astrop had instructed his London bankers to cancel 47,000 francs' worth of French bands and said he was making the French government a present of that sum as a protest against "speculators."

Mr. Astrop added that he hoped others would follow his example.

The South African told M. Poincare that his wife was drowned when a German submarine torpedoed the vessel on which she was returning home.

MEXICO CITY, March 10.—The occupation of Puerto Mexico by a Federal column under Gen. Juan Dominguez is announced by the War Department. The port was reported taken without resistance, the rebels withdrawing and dividing into small bands.

Gen. Pedro Gabay has left Mexico City with 500 cavalry for Ixmiquilpan to push operations against Marcial Cavazos, who is said to be attempting to intern in San Luis Potosi.

SINGER'S FAMILY IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. John McCormack and Daughter Hurt in French Wreck; Four Die

[BY RADIO AND EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

[Copyright, 1924, by the Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, March 10.—Four were killed and twenty-five injured at daybreak this morning when the Calais-Mediterranean express, the Blue Train, so called because its coaches are painted a royal blue, going down the Rhone Valley, with every berth crowded with Englishmen and Americans seeking a holiday on the Riviera, jumped the track outside of Lyons, the first sleeper turning over.

Three English persons and one French army officer are dead and half a dozen Americans are among the injured in the Lyons Hospital. Americans suffering the severest injuries are Mrs. John McCormick and her daughter.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moore, Cambridge, Eng.; Col. Falbe, London, and Lieut. Candron of the French Levant army.

The train was rolling along at sixty-five miles an hour when it was derailed at a switch. The first sleeper crashed into the dining-car, but the other sleepers kept right side up.

Doctors and nurses were rushed from Lyons. Many were slightly cut and had their hurts bandaged and continued to Monte Carlo, Nice and Cannes.

The Mrs. McCormack and daughter mentioned in news dispatches from Paris as among the injured in the railroad wreck are the wife and daughter of John McCormack, the famous singer, who is now in Los Angeles on a tour. Mrs. McCormack and her 15-year-old daughter, Gwen, left Mr. McCormack at New York when the latter started on his concert tour. They went to England and were on their way to Monte Carlo when their train was wrecked. According to a cable to Mr. McCormack from the American Consul at Paris yesterday the mother and child suffered only minor bruises in the wreck.

Political interest in Colorado tonight turned toward Colorado Springs, where the Republican State convention meets tomorrow to name delegates-at-large from Colorado to the Cleveland meeting. Gossip at Colorado Springs tonight indicated that the entire Colorado delegation of fifteen would be instructed to vote for President Coolidge's renomination.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) March 10. Approximately 100 head taxes, or $300 per day, are being collected at the port of Laredo, Tex., alone, from Mexican laborers entering the United States to obtain employment, Capt. W. H. Hanson, district deputy immigration inspector, who has just returned from a visit to that station, said.

Attempts to enter this country illegally are on the increase, he said, charging that 110 Mexican aliens were either excluded or deported for failure to comply with the immigration laws governing their entry between February 24 and March 1.

Mexican immigration officials are co-operating with the United States in checking the European alien problem along the border and within the last few weeks the Mexican authorities have scattered the large European alien colony which has been in Nueva Laredo for some months, awaiting opportunity to slip across the river into Texas.

Gov. Hunt Welcomes State Post Officers

Disabled Veterans' Relief Also Viewed

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, March 10.—Buron R. Fitts of Los Angeles, appearing as representative of the national commander, was the principal speaker at today's meeting of the officers of the Arizona American Legion Posts. He dealt especially with the adjusted compensation bill, reading a telegram from the commander in which it was stated that passage of the measure now seems assured. Though no disposition was shown toward favoring a cash bonus, the convention today devoted most of its time to the bill now in Congress.

Gov. Hunt, in his welcoming address, declared himself in favor of adjusted compensation.

QUESTIONS ASKED

The convention today started a drive on Arizona members in Congress, and has dispatched telegrams demanding expression of their exact position on the pending legislation. Statement was made by past department Commander Andrew P. Martin of Tucson, that Senator Ashurst and Representative Hayden already have demonstrated their friendship; that Senator Cameron is doubtful. Replies from the three are expected tomorrow.

Tomorrow's session is to be devoted mainly to the disabled veteran and to plans that have been made for his relief. The principal speaker is to be Mulford Winsor of Yuma, president of the State Senate and leader in the fight for ratification of the Colorado River contract, in this opposing Gov. Hunt. The Legion heretofore has supported the compact.

Smith, wife of the late president of the New York Central Lines, was due to arrive in Chicago at midnight tonight after her special train over the Santa Fe system had clipped approximately twenty-four hours from the regular running time of seventy-two hours from the Pacific Coast.

Another special train was ready for Mrs. Smith at Chicago, according to New York Central executives here, which will bring her directly to the Smith country home at Chapaqua, Westchester county, about 9 o'clock tomorrow night. Mrs. Smith's trip, practically from coast to coast in seventy-two hours, is said to be one of the fastest on record.

SHIP COMPANY HAS LOWER NET INCOME

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 10.—Net income of $184,015 in 1923, compared to $277,166 in 1922 was shown today in the annual report of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, which report stated that the operation of vessels under the American flag continued to be extremely difficult on account of high operating costs. The company operated twenty-two steamships during the year, handling aggregate cargoes of 1,180,460 tons.

Gale Carter, president, expressed hope that general conditions shortly would permit increased freight and passenger rates, which he asserted, were warranted in view of prevailing costs.

"We are, however, hopeful of the future," he said. "We believe that the country is more and more realizing the necessity of maintaining the American merchant marine and that this must inevitably result in the adoption of, and the carrying through, of a sound and helpful national policy."

REED TROUNCED IN HOME STATE

Senator Again is Repudiated by Missouri Voters

Has Only 350 Ballots Out of 1158 for Convention

Backers of McAdoo Assert He Will Take Standard

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, March 10.—Missouri's delegates to the Democratic National Convention in New York will be instructed for McAdoo, it is asserted by C. C. Oliver, McAdoo's Missouri campaign manager. Practically all the uninstructed delegates will favor McAdoo, the Californian's backers believe.

Ed A. Glenn, Senator Reed's campaign manager, declined today to comment on the probable action of the State convention which will be held at Springfield on April 15.

Oliver, in his statement declares: "Incomplete reports received at our headquarters up to 4 p.m. Sunday from the various Democratic county conventions over Missouri already indicate the election of 518 delegates favorable to McAdoo. This is only sixty-two votes short of the majority of the State convention. The complete returns doubtless will increase the McAdoo strength considerably.

MAJORITY IS SEEN

"We feel sure that McAdoo will be supported by the majority of the delegates in the Missouri State convention."

The action of ward and township conventions at mass meetings throughout the State on Friday in repudiating Senator Reed for the second time in four years, was indorsed by county conventions held Saturday.

According to reports of county conventions twenty-six counties with a total of 156 delegates to the State convention instructed against Reed; four counties with fourteen delegates instructed for Reed and seven counties with thirty-six delegates instructed for McAdoo.

As near as it is possible to determine Reed will have about 350 of Missouri's 1158 delegates to the State convention in Springfield. This includes the St. Louis wards, but does not include some of those which are contested. McAdoo's managers are claiming 518 delegates and believe they will receive more when the final reports are in.

"DISGRACE" AIRED

Apparently, however, neither Reed nor McAdoo will be able to control the State convention. Charles M. Hay, one of Reed's most active opponents today issued a statement in which he charged P. J. McNamara, committeeman from the Twenty-sixth Ward with "disgracing the Democracy of that ward."

He charged that at the mass meeting in that ward McNamara and his followers locked the doors on the anti-Reed Democrats while they proceeded to elect delegates to the State convention favorable to Reed.

Hay said that when the antis were finally admitted at 8 p.m. they were told by McNamara that the meeting was adjourned. He said that the anti-Reed men ignored McNamara's statement and proceeded to elect delegates. According to Hay there were only twenty-four Reed men present and the anti-Reed forces numbered more than 200.

LEGISLATOR IS FREE ON BOND

Representative Knutson to Face Serious Charge

Arrested by Virginia Police on Side of Highway

Accusation Heatedly Denied, Explanation Given

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Representative Harold Knutson of Minnesota made bond of $5000 today on serious charges entered against him by the Virginia highway police. He was released from jail at Arlington, Va., where he had been held since his arrest last night on the outskirts of Washington.

Bail in the same amount also was provided by LeRoy M. Hull, 29 years of age, an employee of the Department of Labor, who was arrested with Representative Knutson. Police who made the arrests said they found the two men in a parked automobile.

The case will be heard on the 18th inst., continuance having been granted when the two were arraigned today and asked that they be permitted to employ counsel before pleading to the charge against them.

Representative Knutson, who is serving his fourth term in the House, was Republican whip during the last session.

"MISTAKE" ASSERTED

In a statement tonight Mr. Knutson said in part:

"I am the innocent victim of a terrible mistake. The facts are these:

"On Sunday evening I left the Willard Hotel and met L. M. Hull, whom I had known quite well during 1917 and whom I had seen but once since he returned from France after the Armistice. I invited him to take a drive and we drove over to Virginia in my car.

"Shortly after passing Arlington Mr. Hull found it necessary to leave the car and I drove into the first sideroad where I stopped, and as Mr. Hull stepped out of the car I turned out the lights. In a minute or so I got out and stood on the other side of the car. Suddenly I saw another car approaching. I hurriedly got into my own car and called to Hull to do likewise, which he did.

"The oncoming car was brought to a stop beside my car. Two men, who, I later learned, were deputy sheriffs, jumped out. One, flashing a light into my car, demanded to know if I did not know that it was against the law to park alongside the road. I replied that I did not, but that if I was violating the law I would move on.

SUFFERING TOLD

"At this point the officers said we were under arrest. One of the officers got in my car and the other took Mr. Hull in his car. On the way to the County Jail I had my first intimation of the heinous and revolting charge that was to be placed against us.

"Upon my arrival at the jail my request to call up my aged mother and some of my colleagues was denied and we were kept in a crowded cell for fifteen hours, during every moment of which I suffered the most indescribable mental agony but throughout the long night, though half dazed at the enormity of my situation, I was sustained by a consciousness of my complete innocence.

"I shall not rest until I have received a complete vindication and if there is still such a thing as justice in this world that vindication will be speedily forthcoming."

BY HENRY WALES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PARIS, March 20.—Two billion gold marks ($500,000,000) annually over a short period of years until Germany has recovered economically, is the figure for reparations which the experts' committee, headed by Brig.-Gen. Charles G. Dawes of Chicago and Owen D. Young of New York, will suggest in their plan.

This will be a round figure and will include such amounts as the German government may have to disburse to German mine and factory owners to repay them for the delivery of materials in kind on the reparations account to the Allies. A part of this will cover coal and coke deliveries to France, Italy and Belgium and they will supersede the accords made at Duesseldorf last November which expire on April 15.

A sliding scale will be recommended so that as Germany's financial and industrial situation grows better the amount to be paid eventually will be $5,500,000,000 gold marks ($875,000,000.) The existing accords for deliveries in kind such as the Lubersac, Rathenau and Loucheur agreements probably will be renewed.

The Dawes report probably will be ready by the end of next week. On Monday the first committee will receive McKenna's report and these recommendations will be drafted to fit the proposals of the Dawes committee.

German State monopolies will be checked and controlled by Germany with merely formal Allied supervision. If the revenues from alcohol, tobacco, matches and sugar do not total 2,000,000,000 gold marks ($500,000,000,) the balance must be made up from other items in the budget.

This will avoid the using of an irksome, cumbersome and expensive control of Germany's finances which will be sure to arouse antagonism in Berlin.

What Would This Monarch Think?

Ancient monarchs set more store by the quantities of gold hoarded in their treasuries than by the power and extent of their dominions. And yet they hadn't one-tenth the uses for gold that exist today.

Imagine Alexander the Great, who at one time controlled practically the entire gold supply of the world, taking a stroll through our Ladies' and Men's Gold Jewelry Departments. Besides a modern adaptation of every ornament ever displayed at his court, he would see cigarette cases, safety razor sets, vanity cases, memorandum books, mirrors, bobbed-hair sets—scores of articles all made of gold, or gold-mounted, which even his most gifted soothsayer never would have foretold.

You, yourself, may make some interesting discoveries here. Come in for a visit!

Honduras Revolutionists in More Victories

Overtures of Other Nations Are Spurned

All Americans Reported in Safety

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Honduran revolutionists have rejected overtures made by several Central American republics to restore peace and government in that country.

This development, reported today to the State Department by its representatives in Central America, caused officials to take an even more pessimistic view of the Honduran situation and to abandon hope that an adjustment between the contending candidates for the Presidency would be effected soon.

Vice-Consul Purdy at Tela reported that the Consulate was fired on Saturday during a five-hour engagement in which the revolutionists compelled the de facto government forces to evacuate.

Gen. Zelaya, leader of the revolutionists, assured the Consul that American interests would be protected.

Rear-Admiral Dayton, commanding the cruiser Denver, was reported to have left Tela Sunday, returning to Puerto Cortez and to Ceiba. The detachment of American marines which had been landed at Tela departed on the Denver.

Capture of Ceiba by government forces under Gen. Cisneros was reported in other consular advices. The city was practically without defense and was taken after some street fighting.

Americans and other foreigners at Ceiba took refuge in the consular compound and were guarded during the fighting by marine detachments. None was injured.

CHICAGO IS COVERED BY SNOWFALL

Four Inches Reported With More to Come; City on East Edge of Storm

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, March 10.—Snow—yes, Chicago has four inches of real snow. The downfall began late Saturday night, continued intermittently all day Sunday and is still going strong.

The snowfall is to continue tonight, with slightly colder weather tomorrow in the lake region, with generally fair weather over the remainder of the district, according to the official weather forecast. Falling barometers all over the West indicate that the flurries will pass by tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Chicago is busy digging itself out. Still, according to Prof. Cox of the Weather Bureau, snow at this time of the year is by no means unusual.

Eight hundred men were put to work early today clearing the loop streets. The fall will cost the city about $20,000, according to W. J. Galligan, in charge of street cleaning.

Illinois is at the extreme edge of the snow belt, according to forecasts. The present disturbance is a western affair, running from Kansas across Missouri on to the lakes.

LOCKS HIMSELF OUT OF JAIL

Trusty Did What He Was Told; Wins Freedom Temporarily

BOSTON, March 10.—When Sherman Ryan is told to do a thing, he does it. That's one reason why he was made a trusty at the Essex County Jail in Salem.

Ryan was told to lock the back door of the jail, leading out to Bridge street. He locked it—on the outside. Then he went away from there, not being able to get in again.

Later, they located him in bed at the home of his stepfather in Newburyport. They brought him back to jail and locked the door again—on the inside.

ADDITIONAL FORCES SENT TO SZECHWAN REPORTED LOOTING

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PEKING, March 10.—Consular and other advices indicate that Wu Pei Fu's campaign for forceful reunification has actively been launched, with important developments pending. Additional forces sent to Szechwan with the command of the northern general, Wang, are reported to be looting after the retreat of Szechwan troops. Missionaries in the affected area are reported to be safe.

Troops also are entering Kwantung Province from two points for the delivery of a final blow to Dr. Sun, who has been undermined at Canton. Dr. Sun threatents to launch a Communistic government at Canton, where an American destroyer remains.

The American Consul at Foo Chow reports the sudden return with reinforcements of the northern general, Sun Chuang Fang, compelling the flight of the Foo Chow garrison southward.

CHAMBER TO GET DATA ON RAILROAD

NEVADA PUSHING PLAN FOR QUICKER SERVICE TO LOS ANGELES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FALLON (Nev.) March 10.—Data gathered regarding the proposed Hazen-Los Angeles Railroad will be submitted Tuesday evening by a committee before the Fallon Chamber of Commerce, and the subject of broadgauging a small section from Mina to and through Owens Valley, in Nevada, will be opened for discussion. Findings of the chamber will be submitted to other commercial bodies of Northern Nevada.

It is understood that plans for a shorter route to Los Angeles over the stretch proposed to be improved is attracting the attention of Lovelock, Winnemucca, Battle Mountain, Ely and other stock-shipping points of Nevada. Live stock could reach the market at least eight hours earlier over a road south through Nevada, it is said.

Yearington and Susanville, (Cal.) organizations already have taken a stand favoring such improvements. Support of the local chamber was asked last fall.

SAN RAFAEL, March 10.—A warrant charging embezzlement was sworn out late today for George Lister, agent of the American Railway Express Company at Sausalito, south of here, who disappeared today with a consignment of $14,000 in cash to the Bank of Sausalito, according to police. A search warrant also was issued, to be used later in a search of Lister's home, north of Sausalito.

Officials of the express company said Lister had been agent at Sausalito three years and that he had borne an excellent reputation.

The Truth about the Gland Treatment

The Institute of Biological Therapy has been receiving from fifty to one hundred requests each day for their booklet entitled "The Truth About the Gland Treatment" which indicates that the public is greatly interested in glandular therapy.

All the desirable results to be obtained from gland operations can be realized by the use of properly prepared gland substances.

Rejuvenation alone is not the only benefit derived from glandular treatment. Are you all run down and feel that you are slowly but surely slipping? Your mental ability, perhaps, is impaired and you experience fits of melancholia. Nervous irritability with functional derangements of the digestive organs, such as: indigestion, dyspepia, acid stomach, gastritis, and constipated bowels, Impotency, and among women, obesity and various female complaints? These conditions and many others can result from glandular derangements.

The wonderful results obtained through this form of treatment is in itself evidence so strong that suffering humanity should not hesitate to take advantage of this modern method of restoring health.

The Institute of Biological Therapy has invested thousands of dollars in its equipment in order to properly and successfully practice glandular therapy. Only pure unadulterated glandular products are employed.

Consultations are free and conducted privately. A lady attendant is always at hand. General information and terms, which are reasonable, will be made known at the Institute. No detention from business. If you are unable to call in person, write for our booklet "The Truth About the Gland Treatment." It is free and will be mailed to any address upon request.

BY CHARLES WEST

A. Rankin, playing on his home course, won the medal round of the Pacific Coast seniors' championship yesterday at the Midwick Country Club by turning in a snappy 84. REDLANDS TEAM FORFEITS MEET

The Occidental wearers of the B.V.D.D. suits will win their scheduled track meet with Redlands next Saturday without any competition. The Baptist institution deemed it a matter of wasted time to journey over to Eagle Rock and be entertained by the Tiger tracksters so they begged to be released from the engagement. Redlands has experienced a lot of bad luck this year and their material is comparatively new and inexperienced. The Tiger aggregation is mighty strong and should cop the conference championship.

Negotiations are under way to bring the Santa Ana and Fullerton junior colleges to Occidental Saturday to take part in a triple meet with the Tiger varsity.

VILLA TO SEE FIGHTS AT VERNON

World's Flyweight Champ to Watch Bouts at Doyle's Tonight

Frankie Grandetta and Young Nationalista will have an added incentive to do their best tonight in Jack Doyle's Vernon arena because Pancho Villa, world's flyweight champion, will be at the ringside to watch them perform. Pancho is somewhat of a business man and has been told that both these youngsters will some day be in there facing him and he likes to know that he must meet in defense of his title.

Grandetta and Young Nationalista will therefore work extra hard in the last half of the double windup carded by Matchmaker Hayden Wadhams.

In the other half of the final sketch Billy Kennedy and Eddie Macey will also strut their stuff before the eyes of Joe Burman, Chicago star, who may go out of his class in Los Angeles a little later on to take on some of the local talent. Kennedy is favored to win tonight by reason of his recent performance when he stopped Bud Hamilton and Tommy Compagno, a pair of the toughest youngsters on the Coast.

With this certainty of action in the double wind-up, Mickey McMinn, Brooklyn middleweight, will tackle Young George in the special event. They are both fair punchers and this event should be productive of something of more than usual interest. The boys have trained hard for the mill, anticipating more action in the Doyle pasture if they can produce the desired result.

Frankie Smith will take on Morrie King as a sort of anticlimax to the other feature events. Smith has a big following around Vernon and there are many who believe he will stop King in this show. At any rate the ringsiders are going to see a humdinger of a battle as Smith has been going fast since his return to active participation in the boxing game a few weeks ago.

The balance of the card follows: Louie Garcia vs. Eddie King, 125; Toby Montoya vs. Jack Ryshall, 120; Battling Ward vs. Jimmy Marco, 135.

MIDWICK SQUAD TO LEAVE

Local Poloists Depart Soon for Annual Championship Tournament at Coronado

Having completed a most successful local season, Capt. Carleton Burke and his Midwick Country Club poloists, holding the lead in the number of interclub matches won this season, were today preparing to depart for Coronado, where they are to compete for the Pacific Coast championship. Play in the tournament is scheduled to start Saturday, with more than a dozen prominent polo squads of the Coast entered in the competition.

Midwick will be represented by a high-goal team, which is rather generally regarded as the best-balanced squad the locals have presented in some years. In the scoring positions the Purples have the redoubtable Eric Pedley and Teddy Miller. Pedley's play has been steadily improving all season and the same goes for Miller. The former is the more skillful player, while Miller makes up in aggressiveness and good horsemanship what he lacks in polo technique.

Arthur Perkins and Carleton Burke handle the defensive berths to perfection, the back-hand shots of the former being the delight of nearly all spectators. Burke, who is rarely caught out of position, directs the play of his team with the coolness and precision of a field general. The team-play of the locals has been splendid of late and if they hold together there is every reason to believe that they can cop the championship which they relinquished to Del Monte last year.

It looks as if the hardest competition will come from Riverside. The Mission City team now has Fred Prince, star eastern player, in addition to Fred Roe and Harry East, the dangerous duo which appeared here earlier in the season. Prince has slipped into Capt. Max Fleischmann's position at back. C. B. Albright plays No. 1 position for Riverside.

Even with Prince in the lineup the Mission team didn't make a very good showing against the Del Monte Cardinals, losing the first match and taking the other by the margin of a single goal. Midwick will have the advantage of having played together longer when the two squads meet at Coronado and right now are favorites to register their third straight win over the strong Riverside outfit.

BOWLERS IN CLASHES AT ANGELUS ALLEYS

Play in the sixth round for teams of the first division battling for the bowling doubles title of Southern California and the B. H. Dyas Company trophies will be put on tonight at the Angelus Academy alleys.

The matches are scheduled for 8 and 9 o'clock and some lively competition is looked for. The sixth round of the schedule for the second division will be played Thursday night. Five more rounds will remain to be played after this week's competition.

Sprint Champ Returns Home for Training

Charles Paddock, holder of numerous sprinting records and generally acclaimed as the "fastest human," will arrive back in Los Angeles tomorrow morning from a lengthy lecturing tour to begin training for the coming Olympic tryouts.

Paddock was originally scheduled to return this morning but stayed over a day longer than expected on his way home. Paddock injured his ankle some months back and it is not certain whether the ankle will allow Charley to regain his old-time speed and tape-busting ability.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SEATTLE, March 10.—Confirmation of an announcement in the autumn that Charles Paddock, known as "the world's fastest human," will run in the University of Washington's annual relay carnival May 3, has been received, it was announced today. Fear that Paddock might not appear here arose when it was noticed that the University of Southern California is to have a track meet the same day.

BOWLERS MAINTAIN LEAD IN TOURNEY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, March 10.—Leaders in the high ten standings in the American Bowling Congress were unmolested here today. The only two changes were, C. Marks and F. Schumucher of Buffalo, rolling games of 474, 408, and 392 for a total of 1275, which puts them fifth in the doubles standings, and Otto Stein, Jr. of St. Louis obtaining 1900 for fourth place in the all-event standing.

MAY 12 PREAKNESS DAY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BALTIMORE, March 10.—Monday, May 12, has been selected for Preakness day at Pimlico, the Maryland Jockey Club announced today. This is five days before the Kentucky Derby. One other big feature remains to be fixed by the club, the $25,000 Dixie stakes.

TROJANS MEET SAGEHEN TEAM

Rival Track Squads Clash at Coliseum Saturday

Local Cinderpath Artists Have Edge on Pomona

Performance of Maxwell in Hurdles to Feature

BY BRAVEN DYER

Having once started the practice of taking on their ancient track enemies the U.S.C. athletes are not going to rest content with merely taking the scalp of the Occidental Tigers. Saturday afternoon Coach Eugene Nixon is to bring his Pomona College cinderpath artists to the Coliseum with bright chances of the Trojans doing a little more wild-animal slaying. It looks as if the Sagehens will get somewhere in the neighborhood of 50 points, provided Lady Luck doesn't get too intimate with the Trojans.

The last time the two teams met Andy Gump was still courting his present spouse, and that's some time ago, if close inspection of Andy's missing hair, chin, etc., is made. Inasmuch as the Sagehens and Tigers are expected to battle it out for the Southern California Conference championship, and the latter lost to the Trojans, the outcome of Saturday's meet shouldn't be much different than the tale of the Oxy-U.S.C. encounter.

STRONG IN HURDLES

While the Pomona team does not have Oxy's strength in the track events it does possess some mighty sweet hurdlers and a couple of weight men who are liable to get into the money. The hurdle races look like the big dishes of the afternoon's program, with Bob Maxwell, stellar Pomona stick-jumper, scheduled to furnish most of the thrills. Maxwell did the lows Saturday in the really phenomental time of 23 3-10s., the fastest any man has been able to negotiate the distance in these parts for some six years.

No local athlete has done better than 24 flat for so long that any time announced under 25 flat is considered worthy of prolonged applause. Maxwell has yet to meet serious competition in the lows and that's what he'll get Saturday when he runs up against Kenny Grumbles, U.S.C. sensation, who is credited with 24 4-10s. for the low-barrier event. The Pomona hurdler runs every race as if he were out to break a record. He never loafs. He is practically certain to bust the Coast record of 23 3-10s., which he holds jointly with Strehle of Pomona and House of Stanford, and there seems to be no logical reason why Saturday's meet shouldn't be the time to do it.

DYE GOOD IN HIGHS

In the highs the Sagehen made his best time last Saturday, when he did 15 3-10s., although the race he lost to Daggs at the A.A.U. relays is thought to have been a bit faster, inasmuch as Daggs won in 15s. flat, with Maxwell right on his heels. Leighton Dye, Trojan athlete, ran a beautiful race at Oxy Saturday, finishing in 15 2-10s. Maxwell has not been pushed in his past two high hurdle races, and just what he can do against Dye is problematical. Coach Nixon thinks his man will win both races. Maxwell is a hard worker, and will also run the 100-yard dash against the Trojans in addition to his two hurdle races. His best time in the century is 10 1-10s., which should make Yale Martz and Starr hurry to win.

Paul Stroud and Mike Ellwood should have a battle royal in the mile. Ellwood took second to Nick Carter last Saturday, and probably did the race in something like 4m. 37s. Stroud has yet to get below 4m. 40s. this year, but has not been pushed at any time.

Percy Niersbach should have clear sailing in the half-mile, for after Stroud has run the mile he won't be fresh enough to trim the Trojan star. Nixon figures if Stroud can beat Ellwood and get five points that's better than running only one race and losing to Niersbach. The Sagehen will run both events, anyway, and should get a second out of the half.

Roland Clark and Earl Merritt may be able to get a couple of points out of the weights, the former in the shot and the latter in the discus. Clark does better than 40ft.

THREE-CUSHION CHAMP LOSES TO SPIELMANN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

CHICAGO, March 10.—Robert Lord, who is defending his championship in the national amateur three-cushion billiard tournament was defeated today in his first game by Otto Spielmann, Chicago, 50 to 41. The game went 79 innings.

A. J. Harris defeated C. E. Patterson, 50 to 45 in 78 innings.

STERN AND ESCOBAR IN HANDBALL CLASH

Dr. Arthur Stern will defend his title of Y.M.C.A. handball champion when he meets Ira Escobar this evening at 10 o'clock. The game will probably be a battle from start to finish as both men are masters of the game. Dr. Stern has held the title for four years and is favored to win, though there is a strong possibility that Escobar might pull the unexpected.

SAINTS TO MEET OXY GRID TEAM

Santa Clara University Will Battle Tigers in Coliseum October 18

Fred McLain, graduate manager of Occidental College, announced yesterday that the Occidental football eleven will meet the Santa Clara stars at the Coliseum next fall. The game has been scheduled for October 18. Although the Tiger institution has not shown up so well the past few years, Oxy is favored to do better next season due to the presence of Coach Nicholas and Assistant Coach Smith, who have been secured by the college to handle football.

The Eagle Rock institution is handicapped by the graduation of a number of stars such as Spangler and Argue, but with an abundance of new material from the present frosh class the team should be stronger than ever.

Redlands University had this date with the Tigers, but accommodatingly postponed the encounter to permit Oxy to schedule the Santa Clara game. Occidental will play Redlands on the latter's gridiron October 11, by the revised schedule.

DAN O'LEARY READY FOR WALKING STUNT

Announcement was made yesterday by Thomas Gibson, assistant manager of the Lincoln Park skating rink, that he has picked Leo Glasbrenner, Elton White, and Ernie Bartlett to compete in the race against Dan O'Leary, 33-year-old champ walker, at the Lincoln Park rink tomorrow night.

The skaters will endeavor to go three miles in a relay while O'Leary is walking one. They can make the three miles in less than nine minutes so O'Leary will have to travel at a rate better than 6 miles an hour to win. The starter will send O'Leary and the skaters on their way at 10 o'clock.

CHAMP TO RISK TITLE BUT ONCE

Titleholder Leaves New York for Los Angeles

Spalla or Rojas Favored to Get Crack at Jack

Firpo Also Passes Up Battle With Harry Wills

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 10.—The probability that Jack Dempsey will defend his world's heavyweight championship only once this year and on that occasion against a South American challenger, loomed today out of a series of developments in the year's prospective fight program.

Though a return match between Dempsey and Luis Firpo has been regarded generally as a foregone conclusion, there now is a possibility the giant Argentine's ambition may be shelved in favor of other Latin contenders. On top of an agreement for a series of bouts here with Quintin Romero Rojas, Chilean heavyweight, promoter Tex Rickard announced he had signed Erminio Spalla, Italian holder of the European heavyweight title, who was knocked out by Firpo in fourteen rounds.

SPALLA AND ROJAS COMING

Spalla and Rojas both are expected in the United States within a month, according to Rickard. The promoter plans to test them against several American heavyweights, after which, if successful, they may be matched to determine which shall challenge Dempsey. Rickard asserted he had the consent of Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, to a fight in the fall with either Spalla or Rojas.

The prospect that Dempsey may be idle until fall developed after Kearns rejected a $500,000 offer from Providence, R. I., promoters representing the veterans of foreign wars, for a match on July 4 with Harry Wills at Cumberland, R. I. These promoters, John Griffin and James J. McGinnity, who asserted they had obtained previously Kearns's tentative assent to the match, declared they came pre-

McGraw Opines That Cincinnati Reds Will Give Giants Most Opposition for Penna

BOSTON BRAVES MAY SURPRISE

Pete Thompson Impresses in Cleveland Workout

Wolfer Reports to Beavers at Stockton Camp

San Francisco Seals Leave Boyes Springs Today

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 10.—Manager McGraw of the Giants is of the opinion that Cincinnati will offer his team the greatest opposition in the race for the National League pennant, and that the Yankees should repeat in the American League without serious competition.

"Pittsburg may be troublesome if Carson Bigbee is able to play steadily," he said yesterday at Sarasoto, Fla., the Giants' training camp. "I would not be surprised to see Boston finish this season in the first division either ahead of the Cardinals or Cubs. Brooklyn will need new infield strength to improve soon."

McGraw announced that his contract had three years to run and that he might direct the destinies of his team after that period.

McGraw recruits beat New Orleans, 14 to 12, in their first exhibition game of the year at New Orleans yesterday.

The Brooklyn club had a day of complete rest.

CLEVELAND, March 10.—Cleveland American League players got their first workout at Lakeland, Fla., today. Pete Thompson, California collegian at third base, and Max Park, Pittsburg semi-professional at short, made favorable impressions.

The weather was the coldest at Lakeland in several years.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The plan of campaign for the training of the Washington ball club at Tampa, as announced by Manager Harris upon his arrival here with the veterans from Mat Springs, calls for the conditioning separately of the Yannigans and the regulars.

Right fielders Johnson, Mogridge, McGreev, Mc-Grimes, Zachary, Russell, Brunet and Schacht have been assigned to the first team.

BEAVERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

STOCKTON, March 10.—"Ike" Walter, regular outfielder and leading man for the Portland club last season, reported in camp last evening and donned uniform for the first time today. Walter was delayed a week on account of business in Portland. Manager Kennedy announced that the lineup for the regulars and Yannigans will battle Wednesday.

SEALS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 10.—San Francisco Seals broke Boyes Springs camp tomorrow afternoon and will arrive at home at 7 o'clock in the evening.

"The Sailor," the train de luxe of the Northwestern Pacific, will delay its departure from the Bohemian county for forty minutes in order to permit of the champions having their full workout and not a game of baseball.

There was no game today at Boyes.

In view of the game of Sunday it was decided to shift plans. Instead, when the baseball athletes devoted themselves to pedestrian, field, jar signals, hoosits and the like. The wind of March was going full blast and was altogether too much for a real game of ball.

There will be secret practice at Recreation Park Wednesday and Thursday and the preliminary baseball season will be in full blast on Saturday when the Seals play the Kansas City Blues the first of an eight-game series for the minor-league championship.

OAKS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MYRTLEDALE, March 10.—The path of the benevolent butler was made a little easier today for Ivan Howard, their manager, when it was announced that there will be no more road work. Indeed, the boys today got a chance to bark up the other tree in the shagging line.

A baseball game was attempted in the afternoon, but the wind turned into a hurricane and the boys played logs and ten, spelled and with the bases.

One less plate was set for the evening meal, due to the departure of Fred Kane, an apple-by youth, who was released.

SEATTLE INDIANS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, March 10.—Red Kindler's Seattle Indians, recruits and regulars alike, partook under a blistering sun in a two-hour workout today, the first of the spring training season. Forty strong, the athletes broke into the camp a hour, but when Red called things to a halt he could not distinguish between the rookies, which excited, fast across the street in the railway yards, and the puffing of the Indians.

Kelleher was pop-eyed for an hour trying to cut a fling on who was who in his camp and was calling for secretarial assistance when Vean Gregg suggested marking the players with letters of the alphabet. A scrawl which brought a kind remark from Kelleher that he—or no alphabet with four letters until the athletic banker sweary, it was a hot workout with the battery squad fooling the regulars with curve shots, another event which caused hoots from the Indians.

Vean Gregg had a day of hard luck. Every ball he threw to George Brucker, the San Diego catcher, was promptly sent sailing over the left field fence. Brucker's hitting was the star of the day and sent Killefer back to the bench smiling.

Vernon Walter and Big Jim Bagby, the vets, looked good on the mound. Garren Staniland, the ex-Big beaver, and "Whoosie" Hall moved slowly and the recruits ravaged the ball deftly. Killefer has a big job of cutting down coming, as he has a host of batterymen and fielders, many of whom are likely looking kids. Clif Brady, the Bakersfield infielder, and Elmer Bowman, another Western Leaguer, impressed today.

The personnel of Red's gang includes: Catchers Gregory, Brucker, Red Baldwin, Teddy Cutler Gibbs, Lewis, Pettitgill, Pitchers Staniland, Wyatt, Leder, Gruez, Pipp, Sutherland, Carl Williams, Plummer, Dell, Danielson, Bagby, Meechan, Perry Hall, Bill Rumsey, Fred Hildebrand, Infielders Prune, Welch, Ted Baldwin, Brady, Blamey, Burke, Taylor, Bowman, Wall, outfielders Barber, Hilded, Lane, Burke, Osborne, Hedges, Bogart, Assell.

BEES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

FRESNO, March 10.—Howard Lindmore, infielder, secured from Los Angeles in the trade for Pitcher Elmer Myers, reported to Manager Duffy Lewis today and will start spring training work tomorrow with the Salt Lake club.

In 121 games with the Angels last season Lindmore lapped the ball for a .295 average. He is expected to be the regular middle bag guardian on the Salt Lake roster this summer.

After the 6 to 4 reverse yesterday of the hands of the Fresno Japanese, Manager Lewis had his nine out for a protracted drill today and wound up with a six-inning game between the regulars and yannigans.

Catcher Wachtsehl, a rookie, is showing nice form in the workouts and is being closely watched by the Fan skipper. Lewis thinks he has several likely prospects in camp this spring.

Sports of 1924

BY FEG MURRAY

Suzanne can wield a wicked cue, but her pocket billiard game, unlike her tennis game, is handicapped because she has to keep one foot on the ground.

And speaking of pool, one naturally thinks of Johnnie Weissmuller, who breaks a swimming pool record every day or so. He likes his water hard as well as wet and is always among the first out on the steel runners each winter.

Lastly, our old pal and fellow-Californian, Earl Thomson, the fastest hurdler who ever lived, is good on another kind of "sticks" and skis about a bit while not busy coaching at Yale. "The ski's the limit," says Earl.

TILDEN LOVES MERRY ENGLAND

Has Fond Memories of First Match at Wimbledon

Tennis Power Shifts from Isles to America

Champ Says a Few Nice Words About Britishers

BY WILLIAM T. TILDEN

Tennis Champion of the World, 1920-21; Champion of America, '20, '21 and '23.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—When one turns to the tennis countries of the world, exclusive of America, one must consider first the collective group known as the International Federation.

The balance of power rested in the hands of England, France and Australia until the inclusion of the United States in 1923-24. This body shaped and interpreted the rules, laid down the policies of international competition and organized the world's championship titles. England, by virtue of her old prowess, the traditions of Wimbledon, and a little skillful politics, ruled the International Federation with complete mastery.

Some years ago, when England was considering the removal of the All-England Club, at Wimbledon, from its old site to the new grounds, she persuaded the International Federation to award the grass-court championship of the world to the All-England Club in perpetuity, on the strength which award the All-England Club sold twenty-five-year bonds to its members and erected the new stadium and new club at Wimbledon. This was done with full knowledge that the United States refused to recognize the world's championship title and declined to join the International Federation until England waived her claim to the world's title in perpetuity.

FRANCE INTERESTED

France, interested far more in the hard-court championship of the world (which she was awarded) than in the grass-court event, was an apathetic listener to many discussions. Australia, although sympathizing with America, was in no position to force the issue. So England maintained her position until America finally succeeded in breaking the hoodoos which had pursued her players for twenty years at Wimbledon, and won the event herself. This was followed by the victory of Gerald N. Patterson of Australia, who put the final nail in the coffin of the world's championship title by announcing that he did not consider himself world's champion unless he won the American championship as well.

Pressure, accumulating over a period of two decades, became too great for even British reserve to withstand, and with the 1923 world's championship, England agreed to allow the title to lapse until some satisfactory agreement should be worked out in the International Federation. In accordance with this compromise, America joined the International Federation. It seemed almost poetic justice that the last world's championship should be won by America, for little Bill Johnston crowned himself hard and grass-court champion of the world by winning both the St. Cloud and Wimbledon tournaments in 1923.

TENNIS IN ENGLAND

There is much to be said on both sides of the question of the English Tennis Association and its foreign policy. No one can deny that England is the father of lawn tennis in the world. The game may have been conceived in France, yet it is England which has developed it, spread its gospel, carried its banner and refined its traditions. No one can or desires to deny the glories of Wimbledon, the old Wimbledon, which, also, is no more. In its historic turf, S. W. Smith, Renshaw, Pim, Eaves, Gore, the Dohertys, Parke, Brookes, Wilding, Larned, Wright, McLoughlin, Colbert, Williams, Kingscote, Patterson, Anderson, Johnston and scores of others have played their game, won their fame, and shed the glory of sportsmanship. No tennis player can fail to love, honor and revere the old Wimbledon.

It was but natural that the group of men who aided in making old Wimbledon what it was, the mecca of tennis, the holy of holies of the game, should jealously guard its place and its titles. One can only admire Maj. McNair, Gore, Roper Barrett, Hickson and the other leading spirits of the reactionary group for their gallant attempt to hold for Wimbledon every shred of its glory. No one has ever loved Wimbledon and its traditions more passionately than I. It seemed to me, from the moment I played my first match on the old center court, that something within that I had never known I possessed came forth to sweep me on to victory in spite of myself. "The Ghost of Wimbledon," the spirit of sportsmen of turf, whispered in my ear and I became a part of the traditions of Wimbledon.

THE MAKING OF A GOLF CHAMPION

Chapter II—I Get a Pro. Baseball Offer

[Copyright, 1924, United States, Canada and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.]

BY WALTER HAGEN

Former American, British and French open champion, twice American titleholder, and present holder of the North and South open and the Florida open and Texas open

They say some men are born with a feel for the out-of-doors in their blood. I guess I was one of them. The idea of one day giving up my sports—my golf or baseball—and settling down, as most men must do sooner or later, to a stuffy office job, was about as popular with me as the measles. At this particular period in my career I had been alternating between golf and baseball. Every other Saturday and Sunday I pitched for one of the local teams and had acquired no small reputation as a twirler, due, no doubt, to the fact that I was able to throw a ball with either arm. Often in the midst of a game I used to alternate my delivery, which was very confusing to opposing batters.

One Saturday, after the game a stranger approached me, asked my age—I was just 18 at the time—how long I had been playing ball, and several other questions. I had no idea what he was getting at until he informed me that his name was Moran—later manager of the Philadelphia National League club, but then acting as a scout for his team—that he was looking for promising material for his organization, and that he would like to have me consider an offer to join them.

Needless to say I was greatly astonished and flattered by the proposal and promised to give it careful consideration. I stayed awake all that night, going back and forth over every argument and angle of the situation. I finally got it down to this: I might do well as a professional ball player, but at best the ball player's life is a short one. A golfer is often at the height of his career long after the ball player has been forgotten.

GOLF WINS AND FRIENDS JIBE

Furthermore, I had to admit that I was not exactly a brilliant batter and probably never would be. In my anxiety to knock the cover off the ball I usually struck out. At golf it was different. The little golf ball always waited patiently on the tee while a fellow swung at it, and there was no such thing as constantly fanning the air.

So, after considerable debate with myself—and somewhat to the disgust of my friends, who felt sure I was making a big mistake—I decided to stick to golf. I must say I have never had cause to regret my choice, for my path has since led to the greatest honors the game affords.

Once my decision was made it occurred to me that riding two horses at once was a rather shortsighted policy, so I determined to drop my baseball entirely, much as I loved it, and devote all my energies to golf. My chance came shortly after that, as I was made assistant pro at the club, and this gave me more opportunity to play. After work there was always a round; if we did not have time for eighteen holes, nine would do. I began to see that there was just one right way to play golf, and a good many wrong ways, and I made up my mind to learn the right one.

My game improved rapidly and I played with the boss a great deal. He taught me a lot about golf, but one day when I was feeling pretty cocky I said to him: "Well, it's getting near quitting time. I feel like giving you a trimming tonight."

He turned toward me with a wry smile.

"Hagen," he said, "there are a lot of things about golf you don't know, and no matter how good you get there will always be things you don't know. It's that kind of a game. It happens that I can beat you any time I want to, because I know two particular things that you haven't learned yet."

TWO LESSONS IN ONE GAME

And he continued with a sound lecture on modesty and its analagous virtues that, I have never forgotten. Incidentally he accepted my challenge, and smarting considerably under the criticism, I went out determined to beat him.

That nine-hole match with Al Christie still stands out, above all the intervening years of tournament play—as the most profitable contest in my whole career as a golfer. I played as I had never played before. My drives went sailing down the fairway far ahead of Christie's, but always when it came to playing the approach to the hole he was on the green while I was still chopping away in the bushes. When I did manage to reach the green I was invariably short of the pin while Christie invariably lay nicely on the other side of it. By the time we had finished nine holes, in the late dusk of a September afternoon, I was thoroughly subdued, angry, repentant and grateful.

That game taught me two things which, as Christie averred, I had not known: First, that while I could drive a ball a great distance I had very little control over it, with the result that my opponent's shorter drives always landed him in a more advantageous position to play his mashie shots. Secondly, that, while I was playing carefully up to the pin, he was taking advantage of the full length of the green and, while generally landing on the far side of the hole, was always in a closer position for his putts.

This taking advantage of length on the green is one of the things every golfer should learn, and one that a great many do not understand. In playing a mashie approach shot always remember that you have exactly as much room to land, on the far side of the pin, as you have on the near side. While your shots will at first seem extremely audacious you will find, in the long run, that you are making a better average on your ensuing putts.

SETS HEART ON BIG TOURNEY

This demonstration of two essential defects in my game caused me to spend several weeks at hard practise until I felt I had mastered them. Announcement had been made in the meantime of the National Open to be held at Buffalo the following fall, 1912, and I made up my mind to enter. I went to Al Christie with the idea and he promptly dashed cold water on it, telling me I wouldn't stand a chance and naming over, for my benefit, the imposing list of entrants, which comprised most of the great British and American luminaries of the golf world. But I went to Buffalo.

THRONG IS DRAWN BY CAR SALON

Enclosed Model Exhibit at Biltmore Proves Popular at Initial Showing

The first annual enclosed car salon drew crowds all day yesterday at the Biltmore. From the time the doors of the foyer and ballroom opened until they closed at 10:30 o'clock, both rooms were thronged with visitors. Manager Burt Roberts estimated that between 3000 and 4000 took advantage of the opportunity to inspect and compare the latest styles in enclosed cars.

The Biltmore salon is one of the most beautiful motor car exhibits ever staged. The salon, with huge baskets of roses separating the glittering cars and with rose and amber floodlights supplementing the illumination from the great cut-glass chandeliers, is a splendid setting for a motor car display.

It was an all-night job getting the cars in place and contrary to the original plans the exhibits will not be changed each night but will remain during the three-day duration of the show.

It is a mystery to an outsider how the thirty-five cars were inserted in the Biltmore through the only apparent entrances.

The salon will continue today and tomorrow, opening at 10 o'clock in the morning and continuing until 10:30 o'clock in the evening. An elaborate musical program is a daily feature of the salon.

Pancho Villa Vacations in Los Angeles

Pancho Villa, who won the flyweight championship of the world by knocking out Jimmy Wilde in seven rounds, is vationing in Los Angeles, having arrived here yesterday accompanied by his manager, Frank Churchill, Churchill's wife and Pete Sarmiento, a Filipino bantam. The party is stopping at the Rosslyn Hotel.

While on the Coast, Villa will meet his wife, who arrives in the United States from the Philippines soon. Villa will not fight at either Vernon or Hollywood, but Churchill says that the champ may appear for Tommy Simpson in Oakland with some good Coast flyweight or bantam.

Sarmiento, who recently defeated Ernie Goozeman in Milwaukee, will probably be seen in action in local rings. The Villa party will remain in Los Angeles about a week.

ARIZONA RIFLEMEN WIN OVER POMONA

TUCSON (Ariz.) March 10.—University of Arizona has won a rifle match with Pomona College, 3745 to 3626. HAWAIIANS LEAVE FOR CORONADO

Poloists From Honolulu Depart Today for Tourney in South

The polo players representing the Hawaiian division, United States Army, leaves today for Coronado, where they are entered in the Pacific Coast championship polo tournament starting on the 15th inst. This team has given a good account of itself all through the preliminary games, their aggressiveness and rare sportsmanship having made them very popular with the fans wherever they have appeared.

Their unusually good riding and clever teamwork enabled them to hold their own with the higher rated outfits, they being especially effective at defensive play. In the four games they played the strong Midwick team, they won two, tied one and lost one, being the only team in the schedule to twice defeat the local riders.

The players are all officers of the Eleventh Field Artillery Brigade stationed at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, which outfit is under the command of Gen. Grote Hutcheson, who is now in California on leave of absence, and who will be on hand at the Coronado tournament to see his men perform. Gen. Hutcheson is a lover of good horseflesh and a true sportsman and no doubt his example and direction have had much to do with the showing made by his command.

IVAN PARKE LOSES APPRENTICE STATUS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW ORLEANS, March 10.—Ivan Parke, the Deico (Idaho) lad who forged his way to the front rank of American jockeys last season, lost his five pounds apprentice allowance at midnight last night, and when he donned his riding togs at Jefferson Park today it was as a full-fledged jockey.

Parke won his first race March 9, 1924 at Tijuana, and under the rules lost his apprentice allowance one year from that date. Track followers have figured that the loss of the "bug" would make no difference to a rider of Parke's caliber.

VERNON TIGERS ARE GUESTS AT THEATER

Alfred Kaufman played host to the entire Vernon baseball squad at the Grauman Metropolitan Theater Monday night. Bill Essick and his athletes, chaperoned by one Howard Lorenz, secretary extraordinary, swooped down upon the beautiful theater along about 7:30 last night and filled about thirty-five opera chairs of the first order.

Creatore, the great orchestra leader, batted a home run with the boys through masterful direction, while the feature photoplay, "Iceboud," made all of them forget "charley horses," sore arms and the training grind.

Spalla is the youngster who at meet, taking a total of fourteen rounds the other Buenos Aires with Luis Spalla is evidently better feat than the Argentine victory.

The fact that it took Rickard long to stew Spalla away with him toward another crush at Dempsey, Rojas, the heavyweight, is on his way even while Firpo is taking at home and abroad.

They are going to give Berlenbach, the clever middleweight, some tougher competition at last. Jack Delaney of Bridgeport is selected to meet K. O. exponent for twenty in Madison Square Garden tonight.

DELANEY CAN HIT

Delaney can hit and is enough to make Berlenbach a few. Allowing that Berlenbach has had a lot of soft opponents is not any question but that Delaney is one of the greatest boxers has come up in years. Delaney a quarter of a century, but shown yet, however, whether he can "take it."

Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute bantam, who the other night Milwaukee, gave Patsy Di... trimming, now will do battle Frankey Genaro, or Bud Genaro and Taylor have been fore.

Weekly Health Talk

by J. Barclay L. Severns

IRRITABLE

ARTICLE LXXXIX

There are very few who have escaped this common complaint in some form or other. It is often spoken of as a natural complaint, but that is not true; it is unnatural to be irritable. When one does become irritable over little things, it should act as one's barometer, at that very moment one should take warning, and call a halt.

When you become irritable over something, look back a few years or months and see if this same thing would have done so then, if not, look out, your nerves are getting the best of you. A normal, self-poised person will not become irritable over anything.

Because you have no organic disease, and are eligible for life insurance; do not allow that to mislead you to the extent of neglecting your health. It is customary for people who are blessed with good health to forget the laws of nature, but if broken will inflict a penalty in the way of poor health or sickness.

TREATED LIGHTLY

It is these little warnings that are treated lightly by most of us, and are considered of no consequence. They may not be at the start, but if not checked, will grow more rapidly than weeds in the garden, and more difficult to get rid of.

Nervous wrecks are on the increase, and most of them could be avoided if this condition was checked at the start. It will be a blessing when humanity is taught how to prevent disease rather than being experimented on after this wonderful, perfect body has been abused through ignorance, indifference or both. The Chinese have used this method for hundreds of years; they pay the doctor yearly to keep them well—and we call them heathens!

If there was as much as one-thousandth part the neglect on the part of the electric, telephone or telegraph companies regarding their wiring system—(their control and distribution of current as there is by the human being regarding his own nervous system, there would not be enough public halls to hold the indignation meetings caused by the wrath of the people at large. Yet the network of nerves running through every part of your body is the model from which all of these systems were taken from. Are these public, commercial systems of more importance than your health? The only indignation meeting a human being has about his own telegraph system is with his family physician because he cannot correct overnight what he has been years neglecting.

TRIFLING WORRIES

The first step in neglect of the nerves is when one allows himself to become irritable over trifling thing, which is really insignificant it would not be noticed by a strong, healthy person. If some jaywalker steps on your heel, do you "knock down the collar?" If so, how many hours does it take you to get over it when a clerk serves you first who came in after you? When you allows you to wait? When you crowds by you at a ticket office and takes the seat you were going to get, or the children are making a noise when you are trying to read the paper? All of these are the first signs of weakened nerves, and instead of allowing yourself to become irritable you should be thankful that you are kind enough to give way to others before you have trouble with them. That is the time to hold your indignation meeting with yourself right then and there, and adopt a method of living, check up on the method of living, check up on the way you are doing that you were doing a few years ago when things would not have irritated you.

Eyes are often responsible for excessive reading or many times improper conditions; headaches, nervousness, and irritability are often caused by the rapid pace at which we live. People who go about their waking hours in a state of nervous tension very often go to bed with their heads full of thoughts, and the bed clothes are pulled over them; they let go of themselves, and in addition of tensioning nerves, add terrible waste of energy, and thereby enjoy both of these conditions, not merely because of the saving of energy that would be wise to waste, but because they better control which enables them to better control which enables them to thereby enjoy both of these conditions, not merely because of the saving of energy that would be wise to waste, but because they

All hungry—and thirsty—aviators are urged to rush down and buy their tickets for the flyer's dinner to the round-the-world flyers, which will be held Thursday evening at the Elite. Nearly 300 flyers have signed up for the event, including one general, half a dozen colonels and a whole herd of majors, captains and lieutenants. Warde Fowler, who was once sporting editor of The Times and later belonged to the famous Ninety-fourth "Hat-in-the-Ring" Squadron overseas, says that the best part of the dinner will be the fact that there won't be any speeches. There will be much music and entertainment, however. Anybody who wants to get in on the big doings, which will be a good old-fashioned get together, had better get their tickets from Fowler at Fowler Brothers' book store today.

DERBY DAY IS COMING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

TIJUANA RACETRACK (Mex.) March 10.—Derby Day is coming.

Western turfdom is on its toes, for a Derby at any racetrack in the world is one of the outstanding events of a season. With $10,000 added money and all entrance and starting fees going into the awards, the Tijuana Derby of Sunday, March 16, will be the richest event for three-year-olds the west will have during 1024. The distance is 1 1-8 miles.

A Derby is really the piece de resistence of any race meeting. Turfdom always pours out its thousands for the running. It's the cream of the season for the race fan has intently watched the previous performances of the candidates. It always draws the best horses of eligible age and the best in patronage. It calls socially, summons the flotsam and jetsam and for the day this three-year-old event makes for a truly democratic attendance.

The Tijuana Derby, included in the list of six big stakes which are carded for the present season at the border course, has steadily increased in value each year. It had $7500 added last season and was won by Blane Seing, racing in the colors of William Daniel, a Chicago millionaire. Previous to this it was of less value, being built up with more added money and better horses at each running so that March 16 will see it with $10,000 added money and what many consider the best field of three-year-olds ever facing a starter on a western course.

There were seventy-one nominations for the Tijuana Derby and included are the thoroughbreds carrying the colors of well-known patrons of the turf such as Mrs. Payne Whitney, A. B. Spreckels, Rudolph Spreckels, Benjamine Block, Col. W. E. Applegate, Col. R. L. Baker, Com. J. K. L. Ross, Harry Payne Whitney and others.

OUR 1924 OLYMPIC TEAM

BY BOYD COMSTOCK

Coach Citrus Union H. S., National champions 1912. University of Southern California, Coast Champions 1913-14, Field Coach Yale University 1923, Author A. G. Spalding's new series of Track and Field Books.

The 1924 Olympics will list the same team and relay events used in the 1920 games, and in accordance with the former policy will not include all of the relays that approximate the distances commonly seen in the various American relay carnivals.

The recognized Olympic events include a 400-meters relay (each man to run 100 meters,) a 1600-meters relay (each man to run 400 meters,) and a 3000 meters team race (3280.87 yards.)

In the 1920 games, the American team included our four best sprinters—Paddock, Scholz, Murchison and Kirksey. They completed the course in 42 1-5 seconds and established a new world's and Olympic record. France was second, with Sweden, Great Britain, Denmark and Luxemburg in the finish order given. The previous record of 42.3 seconds was made by Germany in 1912.

It seemed at that time that this combination would stand as the best short distance relay organization of all time, but we are not so sure of this at the present time. Granting that we will have the services of Paddock and Murchison, and both men seem to be in shape to duplicate their former victory, we need only concern ourselves with the other two positions, and we have in Lever, McAllister, Hussey, Goodwillie, Washington, Bowman, Lovejoy, Jones, LeConey, Wilson, Clarke, and Lloyd (of Southern California) a group of experienced sprinters with records that will approximate the marks set by Scholz and Kirksey.

TWO FACTORS

In this event there are two factors to be considered, the first being the actual sprinting ability of the quartet and the second having to do with the passing of the baton. The latter phase is all-important for a single ill-considered move may definitely handicap any team to such an extent that winning is impossible.

For this reason it is essential that every probable member of the team should have a working knowledge of the sprint pass. With increasing distance the passing factor becomes less important, for the loss of a yard or so at the transfer point will not materially lessen the chances for a win. A great many coaches figure on the safety factor in passing on the theory that a safe pass is preferable to a hasty "running pass" and in the preliminaries, especially, when it is most important to qualify.

An inexperienced relay runner is quite apt to "foozle" a pass under the most favorable circumstances and under Olympic conditions, with three or more teams in the running, there is strong possibility of such a mishap. For this reason the coaches will favor the selection of those men who stand up under the excitement of competition.

In the longer relay races the members have the "pace" question to think about, and it is essential that the runners shall possess sufficient poise to counteract any desire to hastily regain lost ground. As a general rule the quarter-milers are best equipped to pass the baton because the mile relay is a standard event and the actual transfer is scheduled as a part of his training schedule. On the other hand the sprinter type is more interested in his start and sprinting form and he has a tendency to overlook the technicalities of the transfer.

CERTAIN TO PLACE

Lever is almost certain of a place on the 400 meters team, and it is quite likely that Clarke, or one of the experienced collegiate performers will be selected to fill in the fourth position. This seems to be an obvious line-up but naturally is subject to change.

The 1600-meters relay was first scheduled in the London games, in 1908, and the 400-meters event was added in the following meet at Stockholm. A team race was used in 1900 at Paris and at the St. Louis meet in 1904. England won the first event and the New York A. C. team won the second.

The London 1600-meter race was won by the American team in 3m. 27 1-5s. The same event was again won by the American team at the Stockholm games. The time of 3m. 16 3-5s. made a new world's and Olympic record. France was second in 3m. 20.7s. and Great Britain was third in 3m. 23.2s.

In this latter meet—1912—the 400-meter event was won by England with Sweden in second place. The winning time was 42.4s. To offset this unexpected loss America won the team race with nine points, with Sweden in second place with fifteen points and Great Britain third with twenty-five points.

AMERICA WINS

In the 1920 internationals, America won the team race with ten points, with Great Britain second with twenty points and Sweden third with twenty-four points. Great Britain won the 1600-meter relay with a fair mark of 3m. 22 1-5s.; South Africa was second, France was third and the American team was fourth.

The American team was composed of Eby, Meredith, Emery and Shea. This defeat was an unexpected reverse, for the American coaches believed that we would win easily. There existd at that time the general belief that the team did not represent our best talent, but it must be remembered that only one of the Americans—Shea—was able to place in the 400-meter race and at that time Shea was considered to be the best 440 man in this country.

He won the nationals in 1917, 1919 and 1920 and was a consistent performer in the several collegiate championships. The criticism was principally directed toward the remaining members of the team, for it was believed that Schiller (of Southern California) was a better performer than Eby because the latter was an 880 man and also because Schiller had shown exceptional speed in the preceding meets; the selection of Meredith was bitterly protested because Meredith had failed to show his old-time Olympic form in the 400 meters. It was thought that Driscoll, one of our greatest quarter-milers, was the most eligible man for this position.

QUALIFIED EXPERTS

It must be conceded, however, that the American coaches were qualified experts and that they were in a position to make the final choice. The selection of any team is not based entirely upon the actual "time" ability of the available men, for a number of our best point winner's have been indifferent relay runners.

Furthermore, such a selection must always be based on the condition of the performer at a particular time. Meredith has always enjoyed an enviable record as a campaigner and as an individual who has been able to come through in a pinch. As a matter of fact, several of our record-breaking relay teams have been largely composed of men who lacked the ability to star in the individual events.

The election of Eby was largely due to his success in the 800-meter Olympic event, in which he placed second to Hill.

Most of us have a tendency to applaud when a certain selection produces an unexpected win and we are just as liable to criticise when an opposite result is obtained.

The American coaches are forced to take a chance and the average college coach will admit that it is impossible to conduct a track team on any other basis. There are so many things to be taken into consideration that it becomes impossible to estimate in advance the outcome of any track-and-field event. The American system is not infallible and we may expect a reasonable number of mistakes in any Olympic meet.

DEMOCRATIC BODY

The American Olympic Committee is a democratic body and there is no disposition on the part of its several members to play politics. The coaches are selected in the same unbiased manner that is typical of the American tryouts. It is obviously impossible to include the entire collegiate coaching system and for this reason an attempt is made to elect the outstanding sectional figures. The remaining coaches may be equally proficient in the coaching profession or, for that matter, superior to the chosen representatives, but it is probable that in a majority of cases we will have the services of our most representative experts.

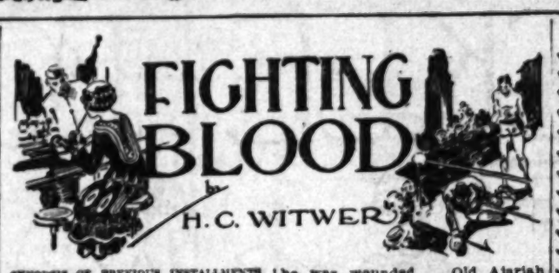
HAUGDAHL WILL RACE DE PALMA

Daring Motor Pilots Agree on Terms for Match Event at Ascot Sunday

Financially a match race between Ralph De Palma and Sig Haugdahl for next Sunday afternoon is on. The daring racing pilots and George Bentel yesterday agreed on terms for what is looked on by racing fans as having the "makings" of one of the most sensational speed duels ever staged. Bentel agreed to hang up $15,000 for the race, $10,000 to go to the winner and $5000 to the loser, with the privilege of the drivers taking 45 per cent of the gross receipts. Thus the speed demons demonstrate that Jack Kearns and Jack Dempsey must look to their laurels as financiers. Bentel believes the attraction will draw between $40,000 and $50,000. Other details, such as number and distances of heats and what car Haugdahl is to drive, were not settled up to last night. In fact, the car situation is likely to cause Bentel a few gray hairs before he irons out the wrinkles. De Palma is firm in a determination to use his 122-inch Miller, agreeing that Haugdahl be allowed the privilege of driving any car up to a 300-cubic-inch motor. Haugdahl declares that De Palma's seeming generosity does not mean much, as there is no 300-cubic-inch motor in the world today as fast as smaller cars, and he further claims there is no 183-inch motor as fast as De Palma's 122-inch Miller. Consequently, Sig is putting Bentel over the jumps in an effort to secure the him a car of the identical sized motor that De Palma drives with such success.



SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

Gale Galen, who tells the story, is a sock-jerker at Ajariah Stubbs's drug store at Drew City, near New York. He is a rival of wealthy "Rags" Dempster for the affection of pretty Judy Wilson, daughter of his landlady. Spence Brent, son of the town magnate, is his friend and champion against those who mock him because of his job. One evening he has an argument with a stranger and knocks him out, later discovering to his horror that he has floored Knockout Kelly, a champion fighter. Nate Shapiro, Kelly's manager, makes him a proposition. The proposition sounds good, but he doesn't accept until he learns what Judy and Spence think about it.

ROUND TWO

Looking Ahead

Well, I ain't been back on the fountain a half hour when Spence comes in for a egg chocolate malted milk. I serve him my troubles with the drink.

Much to my surprise, Spence don't go wild over the idea of me becoming a pug. Somehow, he says, it seems to him like a step down, not up, for me to pick out prize fighting as a life work.

"Not so good, Gale!" he says. "Not so good. And—Judy won't like that!"

"Look here, Spence," I says. "I've simply got to make some move which will get me from behind this soda fountain into something worth while! I happen to be big and strong, and that lets me out. What else can I do, outside of being a fighter, with the education I got? D'ye think I want to be a soda jerker all my life?"

"But why get excited over it now?" grins Spence. "You're only 18, so am I. We've got our whole life before us and lots of time to choose a career. I'm not giving the future a thought until I leave college, and I'm not entering Princeton until next year. Why, we're going to play around a whole lot yet before—"

"Where d'ye get the we stuff?" I butt in with a bitter laugh. Spence, with a millionaire father, classing himself with me! "Did it ever occur to you, Spence, that they's as much difference in our positions as they's miles between here and the moon? You should annoy yourself about the future, with the bank roll you got in back of you! Not that I begrudge you a nickel of it, Spence, you know that. But it's different here. I got to make my own future, and I got to make it now! I ain't going to Princeton next year, or any year; I'll have to take my view of college by hearsay. As for the playing around, fine—when I get somewhere. Right now, work, hustle, study, what's going on around me—for that'll have to be my Princeton—till I find out what my particular trick is and then I'll go to it!"

NO THANKS

"Atta boy!" says Spence, slapping the counter. He's already changed to my way of thinking, like he usually does. "More power to you! Well, that's fine! The first time you box in New York I'll bring the whole gang over to root for you, and I'll be cheer leader!" Then he gets serious and leans over the counter. "Listen, Gale," he says. "If you're not going to box for six months yet, and this Shapiro will only furnish your board and lodging until then—er—well, of course, there's a lot of little things you'll want, and—er—say, I have almost a thousand dollars of my own and I can let you have it—now don't get so red in the face, this would be strictly a loan and you can pay me back when—"

"That's fine of you, Spence," I cut him off. "And I'll never forget it, don't think I will. But I—I got some money from—from my grandfather in Kansas City the other day, and I'm sitting pretty as far as jack is concerned."

Spence gives me an odd look, gut I don't flick a muscle.

"Oh, did you?" he says. "Well, I'm glad to hear that. But if you—er—if your grandfather ever refuses you, let me know. See you tonight!"

I don't get a nickel from my grandfather in Kansas City. I ain't got no grandfather. Both of 'em is dead, and I don't think either of 'em died and went to Kansas City. But I don't want to begin borrowing from Spence or nobody else. I don't want nothing gave to me; all I wanted was a chance to make it myself.

THE WAR HERO

Spence has hardly went out when Lem Garfield, head and only clerk in The Elite Haberdashery, comes in for his daily dissipation. Len's an incurable frosted-chocolate addict, and he admits I compose a wicked soda. I generally put everything in his drink but the day's receipts, and only charge him a thin dime, because, if they's one fellow I felt sorry for it's Lem Garfield.

Lem was in the same boat I was—he's hungry for education, too. The only difference between me and Lem was that disappointment had Lem licked. He'd quit trying. I'll quit trying when I'm dead!

Lem was born in Drew City and at 23 he's as gloomy and hard boiled as a guy of 80. He's sore at the wide, wide world, and I don't blame him. I'll tell you why. When the war was throwed open to all comers, Lem didn't wait to see if his number would win a free trip to Europe in the draft raffle; he throws up his job, hauls off, and enlists. Drew City got hysterical and give him a send-off which would of satisfied Babe Ruth.

As Lem himself says, the day he was born, the day he started for camp, and the day he stepped off the train coming back from the war was the three biggest days in his life! On the last two days mentioned Lem could of married any girl in Drew City, took any job, borrowed any amount of money, even robbed the First National Bank, and he'd of had everybody's good wishes. He was what is known as "hero," and Drew City went double cuckoo over him. Especially when he come back from France, wounded and with a Croix de Guerre on his chest, pinned there by a big French general on the Account Lem goes crazy and captures a German machine-gun nest all by himself.

That got in all the papers, put Drew City on the map, and Lem in the hospital. Now Lem was back of the gents' furnishing counter again, ignored and forgot. Even the kids don't pester him no more to see his medal or where he was wounded. Old Ajariah Stubbs says Lem ain't got no push in him. He had some push in him when he went through them Jerrys, didn't he?

"They ain't nothin' in bein' a hero!" says Lem bitterly, sipping his drink and opening up on his favorite subject. "What good did all them cheers do me? I'd ruther been gave one good job with some kind of chances for advancement in it than a million of them 'Hurray for Lem Garfield's.' Ben Hawkins, Joe Keen, Ollie Yerks, and them fellers got out of the draft on one excuse and another—Vince Neil, for example, on account he's got flat feet. As if that made a difference—we didn't have to dance with them Jerrys! But what I mean is this: all them fellers stayed home, tuk advantage of us boys bein' over there fightin' for 'em, and grabbed up all the good jobs. Ben Harkins was gettin' ten dollars a week in the bank when the draft tuk Matt Hamilton, the payin' teller. Ben managed to get himself married—hardly lived with her since—and got exemption. Now Ben's payin' teller and poor Matt's livin' in New York, workin' today and lookin' for work tomorrow. Matt got gassed. And that's the way it goes. A feller says anything about it, and they tell him: 'Forget it. The war's over!' As whosthis says, you'll find gratitude in the dictionary!"

IT'S ALL WRONG

"But they made a big fuss over you when you first come back, Lem, didn't they?" I says. I'll never ask Lem that no more. The next second I felt like I had struck a match back of the fountain and immediately seen Ajariah Stubb's drug store go up in flames!

"Yeah!" snarled Lem, setting his glass down on the fountain with a click. "Yeah—they made a big fuss when I come back, over themselves! Mayor Gedge declares a holiday, Drew City is covered with flags and buntin,' all the lodges, Eddie Granger's Vesper Band, and the fire department parades, and the richest men in town was on the welcomin' committee. I never heard so many long-winded speeches in my hull life and everybody learns the entire words of 'The Star-Spangled Banner' for the fust time. They was two pages in the 'Sentinel' about me, and my pitcher and everything. Two weeks later they forgot I ever come back!"

"D'ye think they made all that fuss for my sake? Like fun! It give 'em a chance to be important for one day, and they snatched at it like the fust trout of the season after a fat fly. Them lifelong orators got a chance to orate and strut around wearin' 'Reception Committee' badges, high hats, and swollowtail coats, and that's why they done it! Is any of 'em interested in me now? No. Only to come around and ask me will I vote against the bonus and not ask my country to pay me for fightin' for it. Well, I don't want no bonus—I'm willin' to make my own way and aluss was. I'm agoin' to study law by mail. I've aluss had a hankerin' to be a lawyer, and Judge Tuckerman thinks I'd make a good one. If Drew City was really so all-fired proud of me, why didn't they give me a chance to make suthin' out of myself by fixin' so's I could go to law school?"

Well, I don't know about gratitude, but it did seem to me that Lem had a real kick coming. Maybe he has got a bent for law and would make a lawyer. They's no question, but that he loves to argue, and I often heard old Ajariah snort that Lem's "wuss than a Philadelphia lawyer!" Ajariah meant that to be a knock, but for all anybody knew, Lem would make good at it. But how was he going to find out?

Me and Lem was like two fellows without legs and both crazy to be runners. Artificial limbs would help us, but we ain't got the price, and there you are!

Lem argues that thousands of fellows in college is as out of place there as we'd be in Buckingham Palace. Fellows who's talents runs in entirely different directions from anything they're studying. Master plumbers wasting four years jamming their heads with French and Latin, useless to them and to be quickly forgot when they get out. Further authors getting their brains dulled by law, first-class authors studying medicine, boss salesmen grinding away at civil engineering. Whilst on the other hand, says Lem, fellows which would make crackerjack lawyers, doctors, civil engineers, etc., is wasting their lives in gent's furnishing stores, plumbers' shops, soda fountains, offices, and like that. Why not limit college education to them which deserves it, instead of making it a rich man's way of getting his son off his hands for four years? They ain't half enough colleges now, claims Lem, to take care of the mobs which descends on 'em every year. State universities is snowed under by refugees from the high schools, and private colleges is swamped. So why not go through these millions and weed out for college only the ones which is actually going to benefit by it.

ENTER THE LAW

We're well warmed up to matters and Lem's addressing me like he really is a District-Attorney, and I'm a jury, when there is a interruption in the shape of Constable Watson.

He marches right up to the fountain, glaring at me from under his bushy white eyebrows. I got a feeling that I am right on the brinks of having a lot of bad luck, because day before yesterday I liked a run over him with our delivery flivver.

Pomona Ball Players Out in Full Force

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CLAREMONT, March 10.—With the opening conference game only a month distant, Pomona's crew of varsity baseball men are out in full force preparing to defend the Blue and White's hopes to retain the conference pennant in the Sagehen cup case. Over twenty men have answered the call and are receiving daily instruction under Coach Carl Peter Schott, who assumed control of Pomona's baseball hopes this week.

Although early in the season Schott has been practicing one of the classiest looking infields that have graced the local lot in the last few seasons. With Rud Frater, captain, and Don Hilsonger looking like first-class initial baggers and Sid Beachamp and Marvin Miller showing at second and Hutton Miller, Afook and two or three others looking like a million dollars at second and third only the brightest of prospects are looming for the Sagehen infield. Dick Worden is fielding and doing some clean handling of the ball at short and should cinch a place on the Pomona nine.

Lynn Wiggins, substitute catcher last year, is out of the game this season and his place is being well taken by Dug Lowell, star behind the bat man for the frosh team last year. Lowell is also one of the hardest hitters on the Sagehen squad.

Track Fans Get Line on Citrus Teams

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, March 10.—Track fans got an inkling of how the Citrus Belt League big meet in April will go Saturday when Redlands, Riverside and San Bernardino met in a triangular meet which Riverside won by a score of 65½. Riverside had 50⅛ and Redlands 21 points when the meet was finished.

Some fast time was made in the half. Carnahan of Riverside ran it in 2m. 7 3-5s., which is not bad; Cook of Redlands being a close second. Adams of San Bernardino stepped the century in 10s. Redmond of Redlands took the high hurdles in 16.4s. and Kipt of Riverside the quarter-mile in 55s. Adams of San Bernardino won the 220 in 22 3-5s and Newell the low hurdles in 25.4s. Lazono of Riverside stepped the mile in 4m. 54s. San Bernardino took all four places in the pole and Patton of Riverside heaved the shot 42ft. 6in. Patton also took the discus with a throw of 112ft. Maxwell of Riverside took the high jump with 5 ft. 10in. Patton the broad with a leap of almost 20 feet. San Bernardino won the relay.

pared to advance $250,000 to Dempsey as a guarantee, but the champion's manager turned down the proposition because of a prospective motion-picture engagement.

This movie work, Kearns said, might keep Dempsey busy for eight or ten weeks this spring, thus jeopardizing the prospective return match here in June with Tom Gibbons. Kearns declared he had made no agreement for a Gibbons bout, but Rickard, who has obtained the St. Paul boxer's consent to terms, professed his desire to go ahead with this match.

WILLS OUT OF LUCK

Firpo, through his American representative, William McCarney, was offered a match with Wills by the Rhode Island promoters, but the latter was informed the Argentine already had booked a summer exhibition program which would prevent acceptance. Wills, according to the promoters, had agreed to either match.

Dempsey left New York today for a western trip, declaring he had recovered from effects of the operation he recently underwent. He will stop off in Chicago for a few days before going to Salt Lake City and Los Angeles.

Wills arrived shortly after the champion's departure and announced his intention of resuming training, although the negro's chance of obtaining an important match this season has dwindled rapidly.

SENATE AGAINST FERTILIZER BILL

Proposed Fund Defeated by 34-to-28 Vote

Action First Expression on Farm Aid Plan

Parent Measure May Meet Same Opposition

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10. — In the first record vote of the session a farm relief measure, the Senate today defeated 34 to 28 the proposed appropriation of $5,000,000 to be used in financing fertilizer purchases.

Party lines were not discernable in the result, southern Democrats and eastern Republicans joining in opposition to the proposal which was denounced as "Communistic in theory" and entailing an unwarranted intrusion of the government into an already highly competitive business.

The appropriation was proposed as an amendment, offered by Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, to the Norbeck-Burtness bill which would appropriate $75,000,000 to finance diversification of crops among "one crop" farmers.

Objections made to the Harris amendment were laid also against the parent measure.

PARTY LINES BROKEN

The Norbeck-Burtness bill was still the unfinished business of the Senate when adjournment was taken.

Opposition to the fertilizer item was voiced from both sides of the chamber on the ground that it was unconstitutional. Democratic Senators, generally, also referred at the same time to the Fordney-McCumber tariff which they asserted was responsible for the existing agrarian situation.

Practically every Senator on the floor participated in the debate.

Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, declared the amendment was an attempt to put the government in a new line of business and predicted it would fail to prove of any value. He raised the same objection to the Norbeck-Burtness bill itself.

TARIFF ATTACKED

"There is one way we can help the farmer," he continued. "That is by removing the tariff wall behind which every large industry, robs and fattens upon his purse.

"Senators who now urge aid for the farmers include some who have assisted in placing a tax upon everything he buys and at the same time refused him the slight protection of foreign competition in that market. That tariff tax is unconstitutional and would be so declared if its purpose were written on its face."

Senator Ralston, Democrat, Indiana, said he agreed with the arguments against the Norbeck-Burtness bill, and the Harris amendment, but would vote for them "in the name of humanity." As a member of the Agriculture Committee, he said, he had been impressed by the evidence of the "deplorable situation of the Northwest wheat farmer."

The Indiana Senator ridiculed the contention that the bill was unconstitutional.

"This measure runs counter to my political convictions," he said, "but I cannot help remembering that the same Senators now opposing it, failed to speak against the present tariff which certainly constitutes special aid for special interests."

Ohio Farmers are Amazed at Our Seven Yearly Cuttings of Alfalfa

A Little Fact-Talk by S. C. Sorensen

MANY substantial farmers from the good old "buckeye" State are now located in The Imperial Valley. Some of them are here, in and around Calipatria. A good many others, we conscientiously believe, will sooner or later follow the lead of their farmer brothers and come down here to live, when they learn of all the good things of life that are here waiting for them, minus the weather discouragements to which they have been accustomed.

IT is pretty hard for a short-season farmer from one of the splendid Middle-Western States to realize that down here in Calipatria we work in our fields all the year around without even a coat on. And it is still harder for him to believe our statements concerning the productivity of our soil. Take Alfalfa, for example. Alfalfa is the foundation of all stock and poultry production in Imperial Valley. It is the best roughage for fattening cattle. It is an excellent feed for chickens. . . . We get seven cuttings and winter pasturage here in The Calipatria district. At the present time Imperial Valley has more than 300,000 acres planted to alfalfa, milo maize, barley and wheat, cotton and other crops.

OUR Calipatria farmers—all transplanted back-East men who selected this spot on account of its many decided advantages—are harvesting real bumper crops of alfalfa and are averaging one and a quarter tons to the acre. Also they are getting from 18 to 30 sacks of barley to the acre and a ton of milo maize from the same land the same year. This may seem an extravagant expectancy—to the farmer who is not used to such crops—yet facts bear out each of these statements.

THERE are so many wonderful opportunities down here for the industrious, intelligent farmer that we Calipatrians—just farmers like yourselves—have organized into a big co-operative family. We are doing this modest advertising and paying for it out of our own pockets, because we want to present the facts to other farmers who would never hear about Calipatria if we didn't tell them.

THE soil of Imperial Valley is exceedingly rich—very much like the Valley of the Nile. We have glorious sunshine almost every day in the year. Mother Nature works with us—not against us. We have a splendid little city—Calipatria, with up-to-date stores, churches, schools, garages, picture theaters and fraternal organizations. Our products ripen earlier than those of most other sections, giving us top-notch prices from close-at-hand markets.

WE not only make a good living but we have a very wonderful future ahead of us and we want you to help us realize that great future.
We ask you to investigate. We will be glad to give you the honest facts. THE CALIPATRIANS——

FOES OF M'ADOO HAVE NEW PLAN

Uninstructed Delegation to be Asked of Voters

Change is Decided Upon as Copeland Drops Out

Ex-Treasury Chief Talks; Leaves for Georgia

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

BAKERSFIELD, March 10.—An uninstructed delegation to the national Democratic convention will oppose the McAdoo delegation in the primary election in May, according to the latest plans of those who are not in sympathy with the McAdoo movement. The idea of pledging the opposing delegation to Senator Copeland has been abandoned on advice from him to Charles A. Barlow that he is not a candidate and that he favors Gov. Smith of New York for the nomination. The wire from Senator Copeland follows:

"March 6, 1924.

"Washington,

"Hon Charles A. Barlow,

"Bakersfield, Cal.

"Newspapers report that friends of mine in California, including yourself contemplate presenting my name in your Presidential primary. I am sincerely grateful to you and your associates for your kind intentions, but greatly as I appreciate your interest and the honor which you do me, I must ask you to withhold my name or withdraw it if already presented. Gov. Smith of my State is my choice for the nomination.

[Signed] "ROYAL S. COPELAND."

The forces in opposition to the McAdoo indorsement now are preparing petitions for a ticket of uninstructed delegates and these will be ready for circulation in a few days.

McADOO BREAKS SILENCE

William G. McAdoo replied yesterday for the first time to the offensive against his Presidential candidacy which is led by influential California Democrats and was started after he had received the indorsement of the Democratic State Central Committee. Immediately after his statement was issued he left for his birthplace in Georgia, where he said he will "deliver a few speeches in connection with the Georgia primary."

"It is not my purpose," he added, "to make a personal campaign in all primary States."

The burden of his statement was that those who oppose him in California may read in the Missouri returns of Saturday, last, what awaits them here, and that "The American people will not be diverted from the grave issues before the country, nor from those guilty of betraying the public trust, by wanton attacks upon the character of honorable men." The text of the statement follows:

"The crushing defeat administered by the Democrats of Missouri to Senator Reed on Saturday is a stinging rebuke to him for the indefensible campaign of calumny and personalities he directed at me. The same kind of a campaign of calumny is being attempted in California. It will not succeed. The American people want the serious issues of the day discussed from the standpoint of statesmanship and patriotism, and they will not be diverted from the grave issues before the country, nor from those guilty of betraying the public trust, by wanton attacks upon the character of honorable men.

"SELFISH INTERESTS"

"The Democrats of California realize fully the difference between a progressive Democrat who has always stood for the principles they represent, and those who have consistently antagonized and denounced Democratic candidates, Democratic measures and the Democratic administration, when we had one. The opposition here as elsewhere is directed by powerful and selfish interests, determined to destroy the progressive candidates, because if they can succeed in eliminating them, the election of a reactionary candidate is regarded as certain.

"Wall street is trying to nominate both the Republican and Democratic candidates. It will never be permitted to dominate the Democratic National Convention. The progressive forces of Democracy will win this fight.

"I refuse to be a party to a campaign of personalities, but I enter with joy into the fight to bring the government back to honesty, to secure universal disarmament and world peace, to solve the farm problem, to secure cheaper and more efficient railroad transportation, to restore the genuine Democracy of credit which prevailed under the Wilson administration, to administer the government in the interest of all the people, and to drive special privilege out of power everywhere."

OUR FRIENDSHIP FOR JAPAN SEEN

Shown in Loan Subscription, Hanihara Says

More Than Mere Commerce Transaction

Declares Immigration Only Friction Point

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 10.—Successful flotation of the Japanese reconstruction loan in the United States was more than a commercial transaction, Massanoa Hanihara, Japanese Ambassador to Washington, tonight declared at the annual dinner of the Japan Society. Rapid oversubscription of the loan, he said, was an emphatic expression of the American public trust and friendship for Japan. The loan ranked next in order, and possibly in equal importance, to the aid tendered Japan immediately after the earthquake disaster, he added.

"I am told there are some criticisms, here, as well in Japan, as to the terms of the loan," Mr. Hanihara said. "According to these critics the terms could or should have been made more favorable to the borrower. I am not familiar enough with affairs of the money market to pass any judgment on the soundness or unsoundness of such criticisms.

BOUGHT AS INVESTMENT

"But suppose for the sake of my argument, terms were not altogether such as might have been desired; that matters little. From my point of view the important fact is that the Japanese loan, of no inconsiderable amount, was negotiated here and was oversubscribed by the investing, not the speculating, public of this country.

"I, for one, am satisfied that Japan has received friendly consideration in this transaction."

The actions of the American people since the Japanese earthquake, the Ambassador asserted, added to the many good reasons for friendly co-operation between Japan and America, so that at the present time the relations between the two countries were thoroughly cordial.

TALKS ON IMMIGRATION

The one outstanding question on which there was any likelihood of friction was that dealing with Japanese immigration to the United States, he declared. This was not a question of immigration, as that question was generally understood, the Ambassador asserted, but more a question of treaty rights. It was a question of whether the Japanese as a nation and not as individuals, he continued, were entitled to that respect and consideration by other powers, which they by common consent accord to each other and which form the basis of amicable intercourse among the nations of the civilized world.

The Ambassador said he carefully refrained from alluding to the immigration bill now pending in Congress, but was sure that with the confidence and good will evidenced on both sides of the Pacific, whatever difference or difficulty might arise between the two countries would be settled in a manner fair and satisfactory to all concerned.

CANADA EXPECTS NEW IMMIGRATION RECORD

EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN ARRIVALS EXCEED LAST YEAR'S

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MONTREAL, March 10.—The years is looked for this year. Already the arrivals are running away ahead of those for the same months in 1923, those from European countries being especially large. The inquiries from prospective settlers in the United States are also numerous. The Minister of Immigration, Hon. J. A. Robb, expresses the opinion that there is no danger of an oversupply of labor.

An increase of 105 per cent in immigration to Canada is reported during the ten months ending January, 1924, as compared to the corresponding period ending January, 1923. During the last ten months 129,022 immigrants of all nationalities have entered Canada. In the same period in 1922-23 only 62,849 persons entered the country as immigrants. Of the immigrants coming to this country in the last ten months 65,171 were British, 78,129 were Americans and 45,721 were from other countries.

FORMER KLAN CHIEF FINED IN MANN ACT

EDWARD Y. CLARKE PLEADS GUILTY TO WHITE-SLAVE CHARGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

HOUSTON (Tex.) March 10.—Edward Young Clarke of Atlanta, former acting imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, pleaded guilty today in Federal Court to a charge of violating the Mann White-Slave Act, and was fined $5000 by Judge J. C. Hutcheson, Jr.

The Clarke plea dropped like a bombshell into the courtroom, which was crowded with spectators anticipating a stiff legal battle.

Clarke previously had entered a plea of not guilty.

The charge involved a young Houston woman. It was alleged that Clarke had transported her to New Orleans in February, 1921.

WALTON ARRAIGNED, PLEADS NOT GUILTY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) March 10.—J. C. Walton, former Governor, pleaded not guilty to charges of diverting public funds, embezzlement and preventing the meeting of a legislative body when arraigned in justice court today. No date was set for his preliminary hearing. T. P. Edwards, alleged to have been his personal chauffeur and to have been paid out of funds appropriated for the State Health Department, entered a plea of not guilty to diverting public funds. Both were released on $1000 bond each.

PAPER PRODUCTION GREAT

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

OTTAWA, March 10.—Newsprint production in Canada reached a high water mark in 1923, with a total output of 1,263,000 tons, according to a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This was an increase of 181,000 tons, or 16 per cent, over the 1922 output, and 455,000 tons, or 56 per cent greater than that of 1921. The total value of the Dominion's exports of paper in 1923, it is shown, was $93,770,957, compared with $74,825,593 in 1922.

HISTORY AIDED BY MONUMENT

Casa Grade Typical Spot of Desert Scenery

Advanced Architecture Seen in Abandoned Walls

Buildings in Arizona Once Four Stories High

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The Casa Grande National Monument consists of 480 acres of land in the south-central part of Arizona, at an altitude of 1412 feet, and is a typical spot of desert scenery, being level ground on the floor of the Gila Valley, covered with a growth of mesquite, creosote and salt bush.

The Casa Grande, or "Great House," is a burnt out, dismantled group of solid adobe walls of a great building which was at one time four stories in height. The standing walls are six feet thick at their base. The first recorded European to visit this section was Father Eusebio Francisco Kino, builder of the Tumacacori Mission, who passed here in 1694 and wrote a description of the ruins, which then must have been standing more than two centuries in about the same condition as they are found today. In addition to the great building there are many ruins of other prehistoric dwellings, the whole indicating a remarkable record of advancement in the architecture of these early builders up to final abandonment.

EVIDENCE REMAINS

The history of the rise and fall of the civilization which built and inhabited the Casa Grande ruins is only conjectural, but the ruins themselves present much evidence to the student.

Undoubtedly, when these people came into the valley they were nomads, but the opportunities for a settled life devoted to agricultural pursuits must have appealed to them. Their first step was the construction of an irrigation system, the remains of which are still plainly visible. Then came the problem of housing and, finally, the need of defensive construction for protection from their enemies. The multistory house, of which the Casa Grande is the highest development, was probably evolved as a defensive measure. As a watchtower it must have proved a good investment, for from its top a guard could cover the country within a radius of ten miles. This was a great advantage, for if the enemy could be sighted at ten miles, he, being on foot—the horse was not yet on the American continent—would need nearly two hours to get to the village, which gave time to get runners out into the fields and gather forces for the defense.

When the valley people were at their most prosperous stage there probably were between 5000 and 15,000 of them in the Gila and Salt River valleys. They farmed extensively, raising cotton and corn; made baskets and pottery of a good quality; used stone, wood and bone tools; used sea shells for decorations and ceremonies, and in general may be said to have lived in the late stages of the Stone Age. No useful metal implements have been found.

DECIDE TO LEAVE

It is probable raiding Apaches became too strong for the valley dwellers and year after year they lost a larger percentage of their crops and a larger number of warriors than they could afford to lose, until at last they decided to abandon the country. This began possibly 700 or 800 years ago. The improvement in wall construction, as indicated by the ruins, was probably developed over a period of not less than 1200 years, so the beginning of this civilization antedates Christianity.

The national monument can be visited from the Casa Grande station on the Southern Pacific Railroad. Automobiles may be hired for the trip. Motorists traveling the Old Spanish Trail and Bankhead Highway between Tucson and Phoenix leave the highway at the town of Florence, going southwest to the monument. Mr. Frank Pinkley, superintendent of southwestern national monuments, has his headquarters at Casa Grande and visitors are not only welcome, but are shown about the ruins, so that one gains a comprehensive idea of this important and interesting prehistoric monument.

Those who have used it ask:

"What makes it clear away a rash so quickly?"

Physicians say: "Because Resinol sinks deep into the pores and starts the skin again acting normally."

STUBBORN rashes, eczema and skin disorders—itching, unpleasant, embarrassing! For years this simple treatment has been used successfully on irritations that in many cases nothing else seemed able to relieve.

In a few days often they would vanish—the itching stop, the clear, clean texture of the skin be restored.

Thousands of users have wondered at the quickness of its action. Yet physicians who prescribe it say there is no mystery. Deep down under the surface, where many salves and remedies fail to reach, are the tiny cells and nerves that cause the trouble. These Resinol reaches. Even a light application sinks deep into the pores, attacks the root of the disorder, and starts the skin again acting normally.

At first distributed only through doctors' prescriptions, Resinol Ointment has today become in thousands of homes the first remedy applied to any sort of skin affection.

If you have today any spot, rash or eruption on your skin, apply Resinol. It is absolutely harmless. It will not irritate the delicate texture of an infant's skin, or even raw exposed flesh. Get a jar at your druggist or send for a free trial sample to Dept. 18, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Wall Street Blast Story Is Retraced

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 10.—Ralph Thurber, who last week "confessed" in a London prison that he and a number of others named by him were responsible for the Wall street bomb explosion of September, 1920, has eliminated himself from the explosion syndicate. This was made known today in a telegram to Dist.-Atty. Banton from Gov. Smith, transmitting a note from the State Department at Washington, in which the American Consul General in London reported Thurber's recantation.

Thurber now states he testified falsely as to personal participation in the explosion, but still maintains that statement to other persons and circumstances is correct.

WOMAN'S DEATH LAID TO DRUG SMUGGLERS

KNOWLEDGE OF BORDER RING BELIEVED REASON BACK OF ATTACK

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) March 10. That her daughter, Mrs. May Conley, 26 years of age, wife of Corp. Charles M. Conley, Eighth United States Cavalry, Fort Bliss, El Paso, Tex., was slain because she knew too much about a border ring of narcotic smugglers, was the statement of Mrs. Rosa McReynolds of South San Antonio.

Mrs. Conley died in an El Paso hospital last Monday after being found wandering in a demented condition on the streets of Juarez, Mex., with her clothing torn and her purse looted. The theft was to give the theory that she had been doped and robber, according to the mother.

Mrs. McReynolds declares the daughter had told her the names and gave her the information before she left San Antonio.

MURDER SUSPECT IS RETURNED TO MEXICO

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NOGALES (Ariz.) March 10.—Victor Martinez, alias Manos Arriba, 19-year-old gunman, who is asserted to have led a band of robbers responsible for numerous depredations in cities on the West Coast of Mexico, was turned over to Mexican authorities yesterday after his arrest here several days ago. He is wanted on charges of murder and burglary at Guaymas.

SENATOR DENIES HE SLANDERED BARUCH

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

BOSTON, March 10.—State Senator William S. Youngman denied in the Senate today that he had slandered Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier, as the latter asserted in a letter made public here last week. The Senator said he had been misquoted in newspapers and had not accused Mr. Baruch of making money out of the bodies of soldiers in the war.

SMUGGLERS OUTNUMBER NAVY CRAFT

Officials of Coast Guard Admit Rum Runners Touch Southern Coast Easily

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NORFOLK (Va.) March 10.—Figures made public by the Coast Guard Service at Norfolk show 270 vessels are engaged in smuggling rum from foreign shores to America. This is virtually as many ships as there are listed on the active list of the United States Navy, and several times more than all the vessels in the Coast Guard Service.

Coast guard officials say that while they know 270 ships are rum runners, there are probably as many more than are not yet known. The ships in the rum fleet represent practically every nation on earth, with vessels flying the British flag predominating. Few American vessels are listed with the rum fleet, but a number of American motor boats are on the suspicious list for having engaged in attempts to land whisky from ships in rum row off New York.

Coast guard officials here say they are helpless to cope with the rum runners with the few vessels they have at present. Coast guard cutters are required to answer distress calls for ships in trouble at sea, must remove floating obstructions from the lanes of navigation and break up ice floes off the Grand Banks. They are also expected to catch rum runners. The coast from Norfolk to Florida is now patrolled by two lone cutters, the Yamacraw and Manning, and officials admit it is comparatively easy for rum vessels to land cargoes anywhere along the beach between these points.

AVERS AMERICA HAS MOST LAWLESSNESS

EDUCATOR SAYS YOUTHS, NOT WAR VETERANS, ARE OFFENDERS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, March 10.—America was called the most lawless nation in the civilized world, with both property and life less safe than elsewhere, by Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, principal of Andover Phillips Academy, Mass., who spoke last evening at the Sunday Evening Club on the subject, "Youth and Law."

"I am not now speaking as a prohibitionist, for I never have been one," said Mr. Stearns. "I am speaking as a simple American citizen who has had much to do with young people.

"The statement has been made on certain high authority that the persisting lawlessness was produced by the returned soldiers who had been taught in the Army camps to commit murder. This is an unqualified lie. The young people who are breaking our laws are between 17 and 21. They were mere children when we were in war."

TELEGRAPH DAMAGE LIMITATION UPHELD

SUPREME COURT OVERRULES AWARDING OF ACTUAL LOSS SUFFERED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Liability limitations fixed by telegraph companies in the transmission of messages were today sustained by the Supreme Court.

The question grew out of the failure of the Western Union Telegraph Company to deliver to J. A. Czizek at Oakland, a telegram filed at Boise, Idaho by T. J. Jones. The company sought to limit its liability to $50 as provided in the contract printed upon telegraph blanks.

The lower Federal courts held that the contractural limitation was not applicable because the telegram had not been transmitted, and awarded to Czizek the loss he had suffered through failure to receive the information contained in the message.

COST HEAVY FOR ALIEN HOSPITAL PATIENTS

NEW YORK PAYS MORE THAN $3,000,000 IN 1923 FOR THEIR CARE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 19.—Alien patients in civil State hospitals cost the taxpayers of New York more than $3,000,000 last year, according to statistical report of the State Hospital Commission made public yesterday.

The report says that of 41,302 patients in the hospitals in 1923, 17,810, or 43.1 per cent, were foreign born. Of these 7370 had been naturalized.

The aliens constituted 25.3 per cent of the number of patients in hospitals. Of the 6900 new cases admitted 3073, or 44.5 per cent, were foreign born, and of these 1576, or 22.8 per cent, were aliens.

MUSICIANS FIGHT IN VIENNA CAFE

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

VIENNA, March 10.—Professional jealousy between a trio of violinists and a jazz orchestra ended in a battle of bands in the Graben restaurant that wrecked the place and resulted in the discharge of the musical combatants. After a skirmish with fists, furious fighting ensued in which violins were unequally matched against banjo, saxophone and magaphone. Guests in evening dress fled in panic as ash trays, glasses and bottles hurtled across the restaurant. The place was strewn with neckties, shirt sleeves, smashed instruments and crockery.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX, March 10. — Dr. Floyd Sheldon Corgill, 29 years of age, is in custody here charged with having received property stolen in Hoboken, N. J., and with jumping a bail bond of $3500. He expresses willingness to be returned to New Jersey at once.

Answers to Food Questions

Answers to readers' questions regarding diet will be given by Winifred Stuart Gibbs, food specialist, writer and lecturer on nutrition. Questions should be accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope as only those of general interest will be answered in this column; others will be answered through the mail. Every effort will be made to answer questions promptly but we beseech the indulgence of our readers for any unavoidable delay. The number of letters received is large and each must take its turn.—Address: Winifred Stuart Gibbs, 37 West 39th street, New York city.

I am 18 years of age, five feet two inches tall and weigh 152 pounds. I should like to get thinner. Will you kindly send me a list of foods making the least fat.

M. E. J.

In the first place I suggest that you keep your normal weight in mind as your goal and work toward this gradually rather than to try to reduce too rapidly. You may know that your normal weight is approximately 117 pounds.

The first thing I advise is to see that your diet is made up of plain food with only a moderate amount of seasoning and a very small proportion of sweet. Omit tea and coffee entirely and plan your diet so that you have a well-balanced ration of a variety of foods to eat, these foods in small portions. This is far better for you than to try to keep to an old-fashioned diet list. The modern way of reducing flesh is to do just this—to keep the digestion in good order by a mixed diet.

See that you have plenty of fresh fruit varied with stewed raisins or figs and orange or date marmalade.

Eat meat only once a day and not more than four ounces at a time. If you like cheese dishes, these will help to give you the body-building food that you need and will make it necessary for you to eat larger portions of this type of food.

In order that your system may have a very important mineral salt, be sure that you have vegetables. Eat a green salad, one or two cooked vegetables in one day. These may be distributed among the meals as is most convenient. For example, a salad and one cooked vegetable at lunch and a cooked vegetable at dinner is a good way to advise these foods. In eating your salad, omit rich dressings like Mayonnaise and have a French made with lemon juice instead of vinegar.

The dessert should be very simple, either corn-starch pudding or custard pudding or gelatine or home-made ice cream. In cake, eat an occasional molasses cookie or plain cup cake.

You probably know that exercise and rest are just as important as food. That you plan this part of your daily program very carefully is necessary.

Take care of the bowels. Keep them open absolutely every day. This will help to keep your entire digestion in good order and will go toward restoring normal conditions.

For some time I have been troubled with looseness of the bowels. I am 41 years of age, height five feet three and weigh about 154 pounds. I would like to lose ten or fifteen pounds, but if I exercise too much it brings on this trouble. If I eat an orange between meals I feel the effects in an hour or two. Also, if I should walk home from downtown, which is about one and a half miles, that is apt to bring on an attack that lasts for two or three days. I have a normal appetite and have never been troubled with constipation in my life, would feel stronger if I were and could get more fresh air and exercise. I have tried boiled milk, etc., and nearly everything I eat has a loosening effect. This leaves me so weak. I would be grateful for any suggestions.

No doubt you have already consulted your physician and have ascertained that there is no organic trouble. If this is the case I will do my best to make certain suggestions, although they must all be looked upon as subject to change by the physician. As I have no medical knowledge, and, furthermore, as I am so far away from you I can only proceed upon the basis as outlined above.

My first suggestion is that you make very sure that your difficulty does not arise from undigested food. Frequently diarrhea comes from the fact that the colon or lower bowel is filled with a mass of undigested food. If this is the case, the reasonable course is to rid the bowels of the undigested mass by one or two enemas daily for a short time, and then to experiment carefully with just the foods that are best suited to the individual, building up the diet from these. Frankly, whether or not this is the case with you could only be determined by some one who is able to observe your symptoms closely and some one who has had experience in diet work.

On the other hand, if the irritation has become so settled that it is chronic, you should eat a bland nonlaxitive and soothing diet. In this case I suggest that you try gruels made from barley, corn-starch or arrowroot, oatmeal jelly; purees of potato, peas and other vegetables; jellies from agar-agar and other vegetable gelatins, malt sugar in place of cane sugar. Omit all condiments with the exception of a moderate quantity of salt. If milk causes trouble, try buttermilk with cornstarch or rice.

You may be interested to know that if you find it advisable to eat a large proportion of cereal gruels their good effect will come from the fact that the starch which they contain causes a growth of bacteria that are very healthful. These bacteria help to form healthful acids and also help to counteract the bad effects of the disease-making bacteria, those which are causing the diarrhea. This is the modern theory of treatment for certain forms of looseness of the bowels.

I have purposely left this suggestion to the last, as I think it probable that you may find that a simple diet of strained vegetable soups (not meat stock) and cereal gruels may be the very thing you most need. Certainly it is the simplest to try, and it cannot work any harm.

Could you tell me if my boy is undernourished? He is going on 6 years old, is 3 feet 8 inches tall, and weighs forty-six pounds. He has plenty of milk to drink, we have cereals with the milk, and I also use milk in cooking a great deal. He also has meat, potatoes and other vegetables. He seems to feel all right, but while his face is full, his ribs show very plainly. MRS. H. S. B.

Your boy is well up to weight, and unless he shows some of the other signs of undernourishment, such as pallor, flabby muscles, poor circulation, slow progress at school, or bad posture, I think you need not be troubled about his suffering from malnutrition.

Please give me a menu that is well balanced. Do you know anything that is good for a child who is constipated? For sweets he has dates, figs and brown sugar, but they do not seem to help him. MRS. S.

Unless I know the person for whom you wish the balanced menus I can not advise you properly. Is it for the little boy? And won't you tell me the age of the child for whom you wish the advice about constipation? You see, it is quite important to know the sex, age, etc., of a person before prescribing a diet. Write me again and I will gladly help if I can.

I have been ill and am very thin. Will you tell me what to eat in order to gain flesh? H. T. S.

Suppose you plan your diet list somewhat as follows:

Eat all fruits freely, especially figs, dates, alligator pears and ripe olives, if your digestion is good. Walnuts, almonds and peanuts and pecans also will make a good variety. Peanut butter may also be used. Drink whole milk and use cream, butter, cottage cheese and cream cheese. White and sweet potatoes and greens will also have a place of honor in your diet list.

In planning the meals you might try something like this: For breakfast an orange or one-half of a grapefruit, steamed wheat cereal with raisins and malt sugar, as well as cream. Buttered toast made from bran bread and a generous spoonful of bran added to the cereal. Cereal coffee, unless you feel that you must have real coffee.

For lunch a cream of vegetable soup made with equal parts of vegetable pulp and thickened milk. Also wheat bread and butter, fresh or canned fruit and two home-made cookies.

For dinner, potato soup, a broiled chop or moderate portion of broiled steak, a baked potato, bran bread and butter, mashed or creamed carrots, an apple, bread pudding, nuts and coffee.

These are only general suggestions, but they may give you some idea about your diet. It is only fair to tell you that you must watch your digestion closely, since undigested food will not give you the wished-for flesh.

If you are strong enough for exercise, I advise you to take a two-mile walk every day. I realize that this is probably too much for you at present, but if you begin with one-half a mile at a time and a little more each day, you will find that this regular exercise will go far toward helping you.

If you like milk I should advise two or three glasses a day, varying this occasionally with cocoa. Make the cocoa part milk and part water.

THREE-QUARTERS PAYMENT PENDING BILL OUTCOME IS SUGGESTED

House leaders have abandoned efforts to have a provision of the pending revenue bill relative to a 25 per cent reduction in this year's tax payments passed as a separate joint resolution before the first tax installment becomes due on the 15th inst., according to advices received at the office of the internal revenue collector.

As this leaves the situation the same as it was last year, taxpayers are being advised to file returns showing the full amount of tax due and to pay not more than three-fourths of the amount. This method, it is pointed out, will make it more easy to handle the 25 per cent reduction that will come with passage of the bill as it now stands.

ARTHURHOLT DENIES LOVE BALM CHARGE

FORMER DOMESTIC PLAINTIFF IN ACTION; $50,000 IS SOUGHT

In an answer on file yesterday in Superior Court, A. H. Arthurholt, said to be wealthy, entered a denial of charges made by Mary R. Flower, a domestic, in a suit brought against him for $50,000 heart balm.

Miss Flower, who asserted she entered Arthurholt's employ January 26, 1923, as housekeeper, said that he professed to love her and took advantage of the confidence she said she placed in him. She named Arthurholt as the father of a child born to her last October.

In a supplemental suit filed last week, Miss Flower asked judgment against Arthurholt of $50 a month for the support of the child.

Goekas and relieving them of several hundred dollars. Harold Frances Taylor, co-defendant of Loport, was arraigned and his plea continued to the 13th inst. Loport's trial was set for April 22.

Plan Inquest in Woman's Death; Relative Held

The inquest into the death of Mrs. Margaret Cronin, shot to death Saturday afternoon at her home at 1129 South Grand View avenue, will be conducted by Coroner Nance at 3 p.m. today at the Mark Pierce mortuary.

Bernard Bannon, brother-in-law of the slain woman, is held at the City Jail, charged with her murder. He is asserted by the police to have shot and killed his sister-in-law after she had stepped between him and his wife. The bullet which killed Mrs. Cronin, police believe, was intended for her sister.

Detective Lieutenant Hamilton, who is conducting the investigation into Mrs. Cronin's murder, stated yesterday that he found Bannon had obtained a permit to carry a revolver from the police Saturday morning, the day of the killing.

Wife Wins Divorce on Charge That Mate Threw Things

Testifying her husband threw the contents of a pitcher filled with milk into her face, Marie Bentley yesterday won a divorce in Judge Fleming's court from Clifford C. Bentley of El Segundo. Not only did Bentley throw the milk into her face, said Mrs. Bentley, but on the next day he followed with a cup of hot tea. This was too much, she said, so she decided to bring suit for divorce. Judge Fleming awarded her an interlocutory decree, the custody of an infant son and $25 a month alimony.

DIXON ENGAGEMENTS CANCELED BY ILLNESS

PENNSYLVANIA LINE OFFICIAL PREDICTS INCREASE IN BUSINESS

Illness that has deprived him temporarily of the sight of one eye has caused cancellation of the Los Angeles speaking dates of George D. Dixon, vice-president in charge of traffic of the Pennsylvania Lines.

Mr. Dixon arrived in his private car yesterday after two days spent in a hospital at Santa Barbara, where he became ill. He has been touring the Pacific Coast to observe agricultural and commercial conditions in their relation to eastern traffic. The business situation is sound and warrants expectation of an increase in every line this year over 1923, Mr. Dixon says.

LOSES HER BOARDERS

Wife Gets Divorce, Advised to Close Up Business

Mrs. Pierina Cottone obtained a divorce yesterday from George Cottone in Judge Ira F. Thompson's court, but lost her boarders. The husband accused her of paying more attention to the boarders than to him, and in the interests of the children involved Judge Thompson advised the wife to go out of the boarding-house business.

columns in the order that they are received. Please do not send stamped and addressed envelopes; send all requests to the above address and they will be answered to the best of our ability.

For the French crullers, place two cups of water, half a cup of good shortening and half a cup of butter in a saucepan; bring to a boil and while boiling stir in quickly two and three-quarter cups of sifted flour sifted two times, with half a level teaspoon of salt; beat briskly until a smooth paste is formed and take quickly from the fire. Turn into a bowl, cool slightly and beat in two cups of whole eggs and beat five minutes after the eggs are added. Place the mixture into a canvas decorating bag with a small star tube one-third of an inch in diameter at the small end. Cut sheets of cardboard one inch smaller than the diameter of the pot that the crullers are to be fried in; grease the pieces of cardboard and press on these the sheets, the cruller mixture from the pastry bag forming small circles. Let the formed crullers stand for five minutes and then turn them from the cardboard into the deep hot fat and fry a nice brown. Drain on a wire rack and when cold dust with sifted powdered sugar.

BEAN SPROUTS

D. F., Fullerton, sends a stamped envelope and asks that we send her a recipe that was printed in this department March 1 and wants to know how to cook bean sprouts.

Back numbers of The Times can be had from the main office of The Times or from the local agent. We do not send recipes to anybody.

To cook the bean sprouts, cover one pound of them with cold water and let stand five minutes. Place one-quarter of a pound of chopped fresh pork fat into an iron frying pan and fry a nice brown; drain all of the water from the bean sprouts, dry well and add to the hot fat; stir and cook for five minutes, be careful not to burn; add three tablespoons of Japanese soy and a seasoning of salt and pepper; cover tight and simmer for fifteen minutes. Japanese and Chinese dishes are the only ones that call for bean sprouts, but the Caucasian housekeepers have found them an excellent addition to the many other fine vegetable dishes that are served in this country.

PORK PIE

J. H. L., La Habra, asks that we give a recipe for a pork pie like the one Charles Dickens mentions in the second chapter of his "Great Expectations."

Pork pies as made in England require a great deal of skill in forming the pastry case or crust, as they are baked without any pan to hold them; the pastry must be worked while warm, and those who have had no experience in making pork pies should use a pan the size wanted for the pie for a mold; the pan should be filled with warm water so that it will be warm when the pastry is ready to be molded. We would advise that the housewife who has never made the pies line the bottom and sides of a mold with the pie pastry, fill with the pork mixture, press on the top and bake in the mold; unmold and serve hot or cold.

PORK PIE PASTRY

Place in a saucepan four ounces of finely chopped beef suet, two level teaspoons of butter, a small pinch of salt and one cup and two tablespoons of boiling water; stir and boil until the suet is dissolved and pour boiling hot into six cups of sifted flour and knead until a stiff smooth dough is formed; roll out to half an inch in thickness, cut a piece to fit the bottom of the mold, cut another piece to fit the sides; wet the edges of the dough with egg white and press together tightly. Fill with the pork mixture, wet top edge with egg white, place on the pastry cover, press edges together and bake, for a pie containing three pounds of pork, two hours in a medium oven.

PORK PIE FILLING

Cut two pounds of lean pork in three-quarter-inch tubes and season with one ounce of salt, two and a quarter ounces of black pepper, one teaspoon of ground sage and a few grains of Cayenne pepper. Cut one pound of fresh pork fat in three-quarter-inch dice and fill the lined mold with alternate layers of lean and fat pork, press down tight, cover and bake. Do not use any water or bones in the pie. Before baking the pie, cover about four pounds of pork bones with cold water, add half a bay leaf, half an onion stuck with three whole cloves, one stalk of celery, two branches of parsley, and one blade of mace. Bring to a boil and simmer for three hours; strain, cool, remove fat and when the pie is baked reheat the resulting jelly and pour into a small hole made in the top of the pie.

SPECIAL SALAD DRESSING

E. P., Los Angeles, requests a recipe for a special salad dressing that is served by one of the local restaurants. We do not know the recipe for this special dressing, but think the following will be good.

Rub a small cold bowl with a clove of crushed garlic, remove the garlic and mix in the bowl the yolk of one hard-boiled egg that has been pressed through a sieve, one raw egg yolk, one teaspoon of salt, half a teaspoon of sugar, one and a half teaspoons of paprika and one tablespoon of tarragon vinegar; rub and mix until a smooth paste is formed and then work in gradually one-third of a cup of cider vinegar and two cups of olive oil; mix well, store in a covered fruit jar in the ice box and shake well before using.

VELVET CAKE

F. B. H., San Bernardino, asks that we furnish a recipe for a cake made by her mother called vanity cake. This is the wrong name. While the cake was called by some vanity cake the proper name is velvet cake.

To make the velvet cake beat to a cream half a cup of butter and beat into it slowly one and a half cups of sifted flour and beat until creamy; beat in slowly the well beaten yolks of four eggs; beat smooth and add half a cup of cold water alternately with one and a half cups of sifted flour sifted with half a cup of cornstarch and three and a half teaspoons of baking powder; beat five minutes, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs and flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla extract and half a teaspoon of lemon extract. Bake in a buttered and floured shallow pan in a moderate oven and cover with a soft icing.

NEVADA FINISHING LINCOLN HIGHWAY

ONLY SMALL PORTION TO BE UNIMPROVED BY END OF YEAR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

FALLON (Nev.) March 10.—Arrangements have been made for completion of the Lincoln Highway through Nevada, with the exception of a twelve-mile stretch east of Fallon, and that portion of the route between Ibipah in the extreme eastern portion of Nevada and the Utah line, according to George W. Borden, State Highway Engineer for Nevada. By the end of the year there will be only a small portion of the road uncompleted, he said.

Three-quarters of a million dollars has been spent on the Lincoln Highway through Churchill county. An equal amount has gone into improvements in White Pine county. East of Fallon to the California State line beyond Reno the roadway is completed, with minor improvements yet to be made.

Equal advancement is being made on the so-called Victory route through Northern Nevada, with the exception of Wendover cutoff, in part of Utah. The Victory route, an extension of the Ocean-to-Ocean trail, connects Salt Lake and Reno.

THE REAL

Theodore Roosevelt

AS TOLD IN THE PRIVATE LETTERS OF

Maj. Archie Butt,

Aide and Intimate of "T. R."

Copyright, 1924, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

CAPT. BUTT TO MRS. LEWIS FORD BUTT

SUNDAY, WASHINGTON, D. C., February 21, 1909.

My Dear Clara: Events are passing now with kinétoscopic rapidity. Each day is so crowded that there is no time to do anything but take part in them and drift with the rapids which lie between this time and March 4.

The marvelous thing about it all to me is that the President is busier now than he has ever been before, and that he fills the public mind and eye to a greater extent at this hour, when he has less than two weeks to serve, than he did when he had four years ahead of him. I tried to find time during the last four days to record some of the interesting things which pass before me at the White House and have been unable to do so.

LONG WORKING DAY

I am getting up much earlier these latter days for the reason that the President has had to forego his usual program in the morning and come to his office an hour earlier in order to get through with the day's work. He has never allowed anything in the past to interfere with the morning hour, which he always devotes to Mrs. Roosevelt, either walking in the south grounds with her or sitting on the balcony or in front of the fire in the library when the weather is bad. But the press of engagements is such that now he is at the office before she is out of bed, and he works steadily until after midnight.

The household goods are nearly all packed, and there only remain the tapestries in the state dining room to go. A lot more guests will come this week-end, but most of them are Miss Ethel's friends and they remain over Sunday, and by Tuesday every one will have left except the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The Tafts are going to spend the night of the 3rd with them and early on the morning of the 4th Mrs. Roosevelt goes to Admiral Cowles's and later joins the President at the station.

Both the President and his wife these days are busy distributing souvenirs among their friends. He has divided his foils and hand sticks and gloves among the younger aids. He gave me a pair of spurs, evidently old Spanish silver and hand carved. The spur itself is made by the figure of a women designed very much like the bowsprit of the old-time vessels, her head ending with a helmet in which revolves the circular saw spur. He said they are over 200 years old and were given him when he was in the West. He has worn them some, but not often.

GIFTS TO CABINET

He gave Sims a signed photograph, and he has presented canes to the members of his Cabinet. I carried one to Secretary Wright, which had been made from wood taken from the Hermitage, and the cane he gave Secretary Newberry was made from wood from Alexander Hamilton's place. Some publication was made of it, and he was evidently very angry about it, for when he saw me at lunch yesterday he asked me if I could imagine how the facts got out, rather suspecting me of having given them out, I thought. I was very glad to be able to tell him that I could not imagine how they got out unless the newspaper men saw me go with them to the War and Navy Building, which is most probable, or else unless the secretaries themselves gave them out the news. The Washington Post reporter asked me about the sticks, but I refused to give him any satisfaction. I do not know why it is regarded as such importance by him, unless he does not want those who presented him with the sticks to know that he is giving them away, or else there are some of his Cabinet to whom he has not given anything.

It is a very sad time for the intimate friends of the Roosevelts, and it would be correspondingly sad for the Roosevelts if they were not kept busy every minute of their time. She gave a musical of a very informal character Friday at noon, only inviting the Old Guard, as it were, to be present. The occasion was one of general breakdown on the part of many. I suppose the nature of the music had something to do with it. The Buffalo Quartet—violins and cello played selections which were not adapted to enliven any occasion, and was well fitted to bring out any temperamental qualities which might be latent in the audience.

Each friend wanted to take away with her some little recollections of the hostess to feed their hungry hearts in the future. One by one they came to say good-by and each went away weeping.

Mrs. Roosevelt is really greatly beloved by those who know her. She has such poise. That always strikes me as her greatest characteristic. She stood among all those weeping women Friday apparently as unmoved as if she was an iceberg, and yet I knew that her heart was being torn just the same as theirs, yet she retained her dignity and composure through all and never let down once; only later Belle Hagner told me that when she went to her room she had one good wholesome weep, and when I saw her later she was smiling through her tears and laughed at some of the little incidents which went on about her.

CHILLY RECEPTION

Saturday night I accompanied the President to the reception at Senator Depew's, given for the incoming Vice-President and Mrs. Sherman. There were very few persons there, and most of those were either Senators or families of Senators. His reception, I thought, was somewhat chilly, for only a few of the Senators went up to speak to him. Most of those who did not acted most cowardly and slipped out of this room or that hallway so that he would not see them. I said to Senator Bacon:

"Have you spoken to the President?"

"I have not," he said. "I have been too angry with him of late to play the hypocrite now," and as he saw the President coming he slipped behind a portiere so he would not have to speak.

There is no doubt that the feeling in Congress against him is very bitter, but he is not through with it yet, for driving back he told me that he had loaded his gun for the Senate again and was going after some of them on Monday. He has a perfect contempt for their methods and refuses ever to compromise with them. What makes them more enraged than anything else is that he makes them do his will in spite of the fact that they do not want to do so.

Most affectionately as ever,
ARCHIE.

AUNT GIVEN HEALTH ADVICE

Mother Fedwell's Sister from Country Told of Diet for Restoring Lost Pep

BY WINIFRED GRAY
(Food Specialist)

Great was the rejoicing among the Fedwells; Mother Fedwell's favorite sister was coming to pay the family a long-anticipated visit and the children were looking forward to the coming of this lively aunt who understood the problems of the youngsters as well as she did those of her own age, entering also into their frolics with such good will that they dubbed her "one of the best."

When Aunt Florence finally arrived, however, she was far from being her usual genial self. Her spirits seemed forced, her eyes lustreless and her appetite small.

Mother Fedwell took her sister to task at the earliest possible moment. "Now, Florence, tell me all about it. I'm sure you are not well and I want to hear what the trouble is."

"Well, Frances," began the guest, "I'm not well, it is true, but it seems so simple I hate to bother you about it, and yet I am not myself and it troubles me."

TROUBLES BARED

"You see I'm past 50 and I hate the thought of losing my pep, the doctor says it is just acid indigestion;' he has forbidden me to eat sugar and vinegar, but that is the only suggestion he made about diet. My chief trouble is my tongue, it is always coated and often puffed up, and smarts more or less continuously. It takes hours before I can drop off to sleep at night and this irritation is making me very nervous."

Mother Fedwell was apparently lost in thought. "But Florence," she said, "it may be that a little care about your diet is the only thing you need, unless there is something organically wrong."

"The doctor has assured me that there is nothing like that, so if you have any diet suggestions to make I am all attention."

"Before I go into the matter of your diet dear," said Mother Fedwell, "I wonder if you realize what this coated tongue of yours implies. In the old days people thought a coated tongue was a sign of all sorts of diseases. To-day we are coming to feel that the French authority was right when he wrote 'The tongue does not indicate the disease but the state of the patient.'"

HARBOR FOR GERMS

"You know the mouth is especially exposed to germs, for ever so many are taken in with every breath we draw. The saliva prevents the growth of many of these germs, and when some venturesome bacteria do get into the blood under normal conditions the white corpuscles attack and destroy them. In cases where the bodily machinery is thrown out of normal the saliva and the blood do not always succeed in getting rid of the bacteria and a coated tongue is one of the results."

"Another cause of coated tongue is intestinal torpor. Keeping the bowels open is one of the best remedies in the world."

"As to the acid indigestion, try a diet of vegetable soups, celery, lettuce, ripe olives, flaked and puffed cereals, twice cooked breads, such as toasted rusks, muffins, etc.; sweet apples, pears, figs, dates, canteloups, cherries, buttermilk, custards, ices and ice creams made at home, and take a spoonful of olive oil three times a day."

Aunt Florence found this advice interesting and followed it faithfully.

TAX-SLASH RESOLUTION IS DELAYED

House Leaders Decide to Postpone Effort to Cut 1923 Income Levy

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, March 10.—House Republican leaders at a conference today definitely decided not to press the emergency resolution providing for a 25 per cent reduction in tax on incomes of 1923. This means that taxpayers who file their returns this week will not know definitely until the general tax bill is passed whether or not they are to receive their promised retroactive reduction.

The Senate Finance Committee today reached the provision in the House bill which gives the 25 per cent reduction in individual income taxes on 1923 income but deferred action until tomorrow. It is expected that the Fiance Committee will approve this provision as part of the general bill and that it also will receive the approval of the Senate. Enactment of tax legislation in time for taxpayers to receive the benefit at the time of the payment of their second installment on June 15 is in prospect.

Under the retroactive provision of the general bill as already passed by the House and now before the Senate Finance Committee, the Treasury will refund to the taxpayers without the filing of a claim 25 per cent of the total tax in cases where the full amount has been paid. Where the taxpayer is paying his tax on 1923 income by installments the 25 per cent reduction is applied to each installment and a credit given on the latter installments to make up for the full payment of the 15th inst. installment.

Se Avecina el Pánico en Francia

PARIS, Marzo 10.—La baja del franco está provocando consternación rayana en pánico entre las clases trabajadoras de Francia. En los círculos todos de la vida francesa este problema ha hecho olvidar todos los demás, pues afecta por igual al príncipe y al campesino.

A diferencia de los flemáticos alemanes, los franceses son una raza excitable; como todos los latinos, reaccionan en forma rápida y aun violenta en cada una de sus crisis. En estos días todo el mundo se halla nervioso y lleno de irritación en París. Cada alza en los comestibles, cada alteración en el tipo de cambio y cada nuevo rumor contribuyen a aumentar el temor de un amenazante desastre.

Las personas más afectadas son las que, tras de largos años de rudo trabajo y estricta economía, se habían retirado con sus modestas rentas, producto de inversiones en bonos del gobierno. Constituyen estas gentes una numerosísima clase social en Francia. Muchos han estado exportando su capital, pero como es ilegal hacerlo, y además difícil para los que no tiene relaciones financieras internacionales, la mayor parte se han visto obligados a contemplar paralizados este estado de cosas. Día a día ven disminuir sus capitales conquistados a fuerza de trabajo improbo, y llegar el momento en que, a despecho de su avanzada edad y sus ya inexistentes relaciones comerciales, se vean precisados una vez más a ganarse la vida con la labor diaria.

DEPORTES

Boxeo

NUEVA YORK, Marzo 10.—Jack Dempsey, campeón mundial de peso fuerte, sólo una vez defenderá su título el año actual. Esos son los informes que dio hoy aquí John Griffin, promotor de Providence, Rhode Island.

Dijo Griffin que él, en representación de los veteranos de guerras extranjeras de Rhode Island, había ofrecido $500,000 a Dempsey por una pelea con Harry Wills, retador negro; y Jack Kearns, apoderado de Dempsey, le dijo que éste iba a aceptar probablemente un contrato con una compañía de cine, y sólo una vez defendería su título este año, peleando con Firpo en un match de desquite, a principios del otoño.

Polo

Los jugadores de polo que representan la división hawayana del ejército de los Estados Unidos, saldrán hoy para Coronado, pues se han inscrito entre los que se disputarán el campeonato de la costa del Pacífico en un torneo de polo, el 15 del actual. Este equipo se ha hecho muy popular entre los aficionados por su lucido comportamiento en los partidos que ha jugado.

NUMERO 200

Pláticas Diarias en Español por el Prof. R. Guerrero, del Departamento Español de "The Times"

Las "caballerías mayores" son los caballos y las mulas; las "menores" son los borricos.

El castellano, tan rico en fórmulas de cortesía como lo son en modales caballerosos y señoriles quienes le hablan, a cada paso luce aquellas en la escritura, la conversación y el trato social. En el segundo párrafo de la Plática 192 nos encontramos con una formula de que se hace frecuente uso para prevenir que oyentes o lectores de mucho puntillo o susceptibilidad vayan a tomar a ofensa algún juicio que emite el que habla o escribe: "dicho sea sin ánimo de ofender a nadie". Cuando alabamos a una persona ausente delante de otra u otras, solemos anteponer a nuestras alabanzas la cortés expresión: "no agraviando lo presente", o la más cortes aún: "mejorando lo presente"; y así decimos, "Mejorando lo presente, Pedro es uno de los hombres más buenos que he conocido".

En el mismo párrafo puede ver el estudiante dos locuciones idiomáticas españolas de uso frecuente: "quedarse corto" y "no ir a ninguna parte". Cuando el autor del artículo asienta que "las fuerzas vivas de Jerez se han quedado cortas", quiere decir que deberían haber pedido mayor subvención que la que pidieron. Si yo digo, "Juan es todo un caballero, y creo quedarme corto", doy a entender que tiene merecimientos aun más altos que los que menciono.

Al decir el escritor que 30,000 duros no van a ninguna parte, declara que esa cantidad sirve para bien poco. Si digo a una persona: "Por ese camino no vas a ninguna parte" o "Con esa conducta no vas a ninguna parte", le manifiesto que, en mi opinión, sus procedimientos no la conducirán a resultado feliz en la vida o en el negocio particular de que se trate.

Sírvase notar el estudiante la siguiente oración, que hallará en el párrafo tercero de la Plática 192: "el auxilio que preste el Estado no debe bajar de dos millones de nesetas." Innumerables son las personas de habla española, aun entre las que se dedican a escribir para el público, que habrían intercalado un "de" entre "debe" y "bajar", lo que en el presente caso sería un solecismo, pues la frase significa: "es preciso que el auxilio no baje, etc.". Es tan frecuente la lamentable confusión que hacen los que hablan y escriben entre "deber" y "deber de", que puede decirse que no hay ejemplar de periódico en español donde no encontremos algún ejemplo de este solecismo. Tengo a la vista el número dominical de uno de los periódicos mejicanos que se publican en Los Angeles, y me hallo en cuarta plana con dos notas informativas cuya redacción confirma mi aserto. Una de ellas lleva este epígrafe: "Los americanos deben de aprender el español", en el que es preciso suprimir el "de"; otra comienza así: "Ayer debe haberse verificado en la ciudad de Hermosillo, Sonora, el enlace del señor Luis R. del Riego, etc.". Aquí el reportero omitió un indispensable "de". El señor Cuervo, con la precisión que le es habitual, nos expone en estas palabras la doctrina relativa a esa clase de construcciones:

No deben confundirse estas dos frases: "Hoy deben ser las elecciones" y "Hoy deben de ser las elecciones"; la primera connota obligación y entraña este valor: "Es forzoso que hoy sean las elecciones"; la segunda, al contrario, indica mera probabilidad o conjetura, y quiere decir: "Supongo que hoy sean las elecciones".

En la Plática 201 transcribiré los lugares que cita Cuervo en apoyo de la expuesta doctrina, y que darán al estudiante la luz necesaria para no confundir nunca el uso de las dos expresiones que nos ocupan.

Plane Wrecks House, Barely Misses Woman

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

POMPTON LAKES (N. J.) March 10.—A Curtiss military plane with a former war pilot and student passenger, which made a forced landing here last evening, struck and partly wrecked the home of William Hopper. His 90-year-old mother, in the sitting room, narrowly escaped being hit by a broken wire. After breaking in the walls and windows and unroofing the kitchen, the plane plunged into the mud in the garden, a tangled heap of splinters. Maj. Guy MacLaughlin, pilot, and Thomas Lanser, his pupil, of Paterson, climbed down without a scratch.

Maj. MacLaughlin later said that Hopper expected to sue him for $5000 damages, and offered to sell what was left of the plane for 27 cents.

ROAD CLOSED INTO CANYON

Sanatorium Blocks Way Up Millard Gorge

Legal Action Taken to Save Water Supply

Cabin Owners Will Protest La Vina Move

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, March 10.—An attempt to close the approach into upper Millard's Canyon was made today by officials of the La Vina Sanatorium, who stretched a heavy wire cable across the highway just below the sanatorium and extended the barrier on either side of the road by means of a barbed-wire fence. Though the purpose of the barrier is presumably to keep trespassers off the grounds of the sanatorium, it also closes the only automobile entrance into the canyon.

This action is said to have been taken, also, to prevent mutilation of water pipes in the canyon which furnish water to the sanatorium. Cabin owners in the canyon state that they are in no way responsible for the asserted damage and are making a vigorous protest against the blocking of the canyon. They assert that the road has been in service as a public highway for forty-odd years and that it is unfair for the sanatorium to try to own it.

The La Vina sanatorium owns land in and below the canyon, acquiring it before the Forest Service was created; otherwise the canyon would now be government property. The only other entrance to the canyon are by way of steep and tortuous trails, inaccessible to automobiles.

Rumors are current that, because of the water shortage, all cabins below Mt. Lowe and Mt. Wilson will be closed to the public. An appeal to the Forest Service will be made tomorrow by cabin owners in Millard's Canyon to force the sanatorium to remove the obstacle.

Officials of the sanatorium state that they regret the necessity of taking the action, but will put up a fight to protect the water supply. For many years the management has indirectly invited the public to enter the canyon by providing a parking space for automobiles.

POSSESSION OF BADGE TO START QUIZ

Federal Marshal Emblem Flashed by Tijuana Man at Border

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, March 10.—Just how the badge of a deputy United States marshal came into the possession of F. B. Beyer, owner of a number of concessions at Tijuana, is a matter now being investigated by United States Marshal Al Sittell of Los Angeles, who attended the opening session of the Federal Court here this morning.

Beyer was one of three persons who decided to test the order issued by the Treasury Department for the closing of the international border below here at 9 o'clock every night. When barred at the line by Deputy Collector of Customs P. A. Markley of Tijuana, Cal., last Thursday, Beyer displayed what was ostensibly a deputy marshal's badge and demanded entry into the United States after the closing hour. He was permitted to enter, pending a report to higher officials in the customs service.

Sittell declined to discuss the matter other than to say the badge incident was being investigated. It is understood the marshal's office has no record of a badge ever being issued to Beyer.

A few persons visiting the Mexican town have been turned back at the border after 9 p.m., but aside from the "test" case instituted by Beyer and Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Clinton of Los Angeles last Thursay night when the early closing order went into effect, there has been no untoward incident recorded. An unusually large Sunday crowd attending the races and visiting Tijuana got back safely into American territory before the chains were hoisted at the line last night.

TWO DEAD OF POISON FOOD IN COALINGA

Mayor's Wife is Second Victim After Dinner at Growlers' Club

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

FRESNO, March 10.—The second victim of botulinus poisoning during a dinner at the Growlers' Club a week ago Saturday night in Coalinga died early this morning. She is Mrs. Burton Boyle, wife of the Mayor of the oil city. Others who were taken ill following the dinner were reported in much the same condition as they have been since the traces of the poison were discovered with the death of O. D. Canady, Coalinga banker.

Although an autopsy was performed Saturday on the body of Canady, Dr. Kenneth J. Staniford of Fresno, one of the physicians, would not reveal what was found as the cause of the poisoning. He said that the theory that death was caused by botulinus poisoning was confirmed.

Seven others are ill and while their condition, according to Dr. G. T. Mountford of Coalinga, holds out hope for recovery, botulinic poisoning sometimes takes an unexpected course and death comes with slight warning, even when the patient seemingly is gaining health.

The other sufferers from poisoning are Mrs. F. L. Stevenson, Miss Ruth Oller, Mrs. Jacob Ewang and Mrs. Frank Cheney of Coalinga and Mrs. Robert McCormick of Fresno.

According to a statement today by B. E. Whitney, president of the Growlers' Club of Coalinga, revealing for the first time the menu served at the club dinner, the following food was served: Chicken sandwiches, pickles, olives, a legs lettuce and coffee.

E. J. Lea, director of food and drugs of the State Board of Health, was in Coalinga today to make an investigation while Harry C. Moore, food and drug inspector of the Bureau of Chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture, has also been in the oil city checking up on the food to ascertain what contained the poison.

START OUT ON WHEELS TO MOTHER

Children Stranded While at Santa Ana Are Given Railroad Tickets

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SANTA ANA, March 10.—Lonesome for their mother who they had not seen for five years, Charles and Evelyn Phelps, 12 and 16 years of age, respectively, left Riverside on bicycles for San Diego, where their parent, Mrs. Louise Howard, lives. Stranded in Santa Ana a day later, however, the police and the Rev. E. M. Robb, local pastor, raised a fund that carried the children by train to their destination.

The pair came to police attention today when they sought to sell one of their bicycles in order to gain a little money, after a tire had blown. Then it was disclosed Evelyn gained a deposit of $2 on her Riverside school books, which she still retained. Her natural blush and her unflapperish ways won the confidence of the authorities.

The mother, widowed twice, according to the children, left them with their grandmother in Riverside while she sought work five years ago in San Diego. She hadn't returned to the children since.

Police here communicated with the mother before permitting the children to board the train—ticket in hand.

JURY GIVES MRS. LACKEY JAIL TERM

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

GLENDALE, March 10.—Mrs. Marguerite Lackey, 1007 South Mariposa street, charged on two counts with mistreating her 8-year-old niece, Lenore Miller, today was sentenced by Police Judge A. H. Lowe to serve 120 days in the County Jail. Notice of appeal was filed by Attorney Albert D. Pearce.

The charges against Mrs. Lackey specified different offenses, but the jury returned a verdict of not guilty on the first count, and a verdict of guilty on the second, which is alleged to have taken place on February 14, last. The complaint charged she beat the child in a manner liable to endanger her health.

Following a complaint by the child's school-teacher that the little girl's body was covered with black and blue marks, Mrs. Annie E. Yard, welfare worker, called Dr. G. Kaemmerling, city health officer, who stated on the witness stand that the child's body was covered with marks and bruises from head to foot.

Two women were on the jury that convicted Mrs. Lackey. Prominent clubwomen of Glendale, who had interested themselves in the case, were present in court.

During the trial the husband of Mrs. Lackey stated to Chief of Police J. D. Fraser that an anonymous letter that had been sent to his wife contained the warning that "if the Ku Klux didn't look after her probably some one else would."

Mrs. Lackey stated in her defense that she was compelled to adopt severe measures to break the child of habits which, she asserted, would eventually prove injurious to her.

NEED OF CITRUS DRIVE DECLARED

Florida Grapefruit Grower Reviews Production

World Education Necessary To Meet Output

Great Increase Likely in All Sections

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

REDLANDS, March 10.—Dr. R. Phillips of Florida, one of the largest citrus-fruit growers in the United States, who is making a trip to the citrus-growing districts of the world, believes that the industry is faced by the necessity of more education to increase consumption of citrus fruit to keep pace with increased production.

Dr. Phillips owns 2000 acres of grapefruit in Florida. He says that Florida is shipping about 20,000,000 boxes of oranges this year. Within three years, with new acreage coming into bearing and the increased output of present acreage, this will be doubled.

Dr. Phillips has just returned from visiting the citrus districts of Europe and he says that Spain's production also is increasing rapidly with new groves and the rejuvenation of old ones. Spain and Italy are now using the most advanced cultural methods, fumigating and spraying, and the fruit is of fine quality and sufficient in quantity to furnish the markets of Europe with all they will take, he said.

South African production also is increasing speedily and that section intends to ship most of its fruit to England. Dr. Phillips believes the citrus interests of Florida and California must co-operate in marketing the fruit, in increasing consumption in present markets and in expanding the markets of this country and Canada, for they must be depended on to take the bulk of that grown here.

He says there is scarcely any comparison between cultural methods of Florida and California because of a great difference in soil and in climate.

UNITED EASTERN STATES POLICY

Mining Company Head Makes Important Announcement

Arrangements to Perpetuate Well-Known Corporation

Treasury Note Issue Coming; Business News

Marked improvement over the previous year was shown by the United Eastern Mining Company in its 1923 operations, Philip Wiseman, president of the company, stated yesterday in making a summarization of the data that will appear in the forthcoming annual report. Net income from operations totaled approximately $1,269,825 before deletion and depreciation, an increase of 68 per cent over 1922, and the equivalent to 92 cents a share on the outstanding stock. This is comparable to 55 cents earned in the previous year.

The company's mill at Oatman, Ariz., handled 104,800 tons of ore during the year, having a gross value of $2,685,074. The average recovery in the mill was 95.59 per cent, which compared with 96.15 per cent for the previous year.

With respect to ore reserves, Mr. Wiseman said that the company expects to exhaust the ore body in its Oatman properties by June or July. What effect this will have on the dividend policy is dependent, he said, upon the developments in the new properties, and as yet, the directors have come to no decision. In cash, Liberty bonds, and bullion, the company had net quick assets as of January 1, 1924, of $1,200,000, part of which can be utilized to continue dividends if conditions warrant such a policy.

In common with the policy pursued by well-managed companies operating a liquidating proposition, the United Eastern, according to Mr. Wiseman, has been paying regular capital returns to stockholders. Out of the 60 cents paid in dividends in 1923, 73 per cent represented actual dividends and 27 per cent return of capital, the total disbursement amounting to $817,800. In seven years of operation, the company has paid a total of $5,585,300 to its stockholders.

Touching on the progress of the El Tigre property in Mexico, Mr. Wiseman outlined some of the difficulties that have confronted the development of the mine. Faulting of the vein in unexpected places, unseasonable weather, and the troubles incident to operating in a foreign country have combined to deter development. However, he believes that more favorable news may be forthcoming in the next two or three months.

In addition to the El Tigre, the United Eastern Mining Company has also acquired what Mr. Wiseman describes as an attractive prospect also located in Mexico. Other mines are also under consideration, and the company intends to acquire sufficient new ground in the present year to perpetuate United Eastern as an operating company.

At the annual meeting held in Oatman on the 4th inst., all of the directors and officers were re-elected. The official personnel is composed of Philip Wiseman, president; George W. Long, vice-president; C. H. Palmer, Jr., vice-president; R. I. Rogers, treasurer; J. W. Bradley, secretary; J. E. Fishburn, George W. Long, J. L. McIver, Seeley W. Mudd, George D. Nordenholt, C. H. Palmer, Jr., W. K. Ridenour, R. I. Rogers and Philip Wiseman, directors.

STOCK OFFERING

Blair and Company, Inc., have acquired a block of 20,000 shares of the capital stock of Chesebrough Manufacturing Company, (Consolidated) of the par value of $25 each "when issued." Subscriptions for the stock will open today at $52 per share.

Chesebrough Manufacturing Company is one of the old Standard Oil Company group and manufactures the product sold under the trade mark "Vaseline," which has become known in practically every household throughout the United States, and is sold in practically every country in the world.

A meeting of the stockholders of the company has been called for the 20th inst. to effect an increase in the authorized amount of common stock from $1,500,000 to $4,000,000 par value. Of this increase, it is proposed to distribute, as a common stock dividend, $1,500,000 par value. The plan further provides for the reduction in par value of the shares from $100 to $25 each. If this plan is approved by the stockholders, there will be outstanding 120,000 shares of common stock of the par value of $25 each.

C. W. McGee, president of the company, in a letter to the bankers, states that the profits of the company for the six years ended December 31, 1922, averaged annually 21 per cent on the then outstanding common stock. Net profits of the company for the first six months of 1923, after deducting Federal taxes amounted to $312,778 and is estimated the results for the last six months of 1923 will be approximately the same. Cash dividends averaging 14 per cent per year have been paid on the outstanding stock of the company since 1916 with the exception of 1918, when only 10½ per cent was paid. In 1916 a stock dividend of 200 per cent was distributed.

PUBLIC UTILITY INCOME

Total income of the Middle West Utilities Company for the year ended December 31, 1923, was $6,107,721 compared with $4,936,829 in 1922, or an increase of $1,170,882, or 23.1 per cent.

Surplus earnings after payment of prior lien and preferred dividends, interest and administration expenses were $2,082,343, or the equivalent of $11.62 per share on the outstanding common stock. This compares with $9.04 earned on the common stock in 1922 and $8.22 earned in 1921.

Gross earnings of the subsidiaries were $36,185,181, an increase of $6,314,480, or 21.1 per cent.

Earnings accruing to the Middle West Utilities Company from subsidiaries were $4,838,046, an increase of $837,606, or 21.9 per cent.

Cash in bank or in the hands of trustees was $567,103, compared with current liabilities of but $746.

Of the funded debt, $5,281,300 was paid off in 1923. The report states that the company has plans to reduce its funded debt $5,250,000 more in 1924, which would leave it with refunded debt of less than $7,500,000 by the end of the year.

MINING MAN HERE

S. J. Wilson, president of the Richmond Consolidated Company, operating copper properties in Idaho, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday for conferences with local mining men, and is staying at the Alexandria. He reports that his company is making favorable progress in the driving of a 1400-foot cross-cut which is expected to cut the Richmond vein at the 1900-foot level sometime around April 1.

Mr. Wilson states that the Pacific Northwest is displaying considerable interest in the deep development work in the Idaho Couer d'Alene district, which has resulted in two promising strikes since the first of the year.

TREASURY NOTES

The new issue of U. S. Treasury Certificates of Indebtedness, series TM-1925, dated March 15, 1924, bears interest at the rate of 4 per cent and matures in 1925, according to the Citizens' National Company, which is taking subscriptions subject to allotment. The certificates are exempt from all taxation, except estate or inheritance and income surtaxes, and excess-profits and war-profits taxes. The interest on the certificates where the principal owned by an individual or corporation is not in excess of $5000 is also non-taxable.

DIVIDEND PAYMENTS

J. C. Schnell of the Royal Finance Corporation, fiscal agents for the Southern California Meat Company, announces that at the last meeting of the board of directors, a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent was declared, payable April 15, to stockholders of record April 1.

The Southern California Meat Company has announced a plan of expansion which includes a new plant adjoining the present location on Vernon avenue, and a new stockyard to take care of increasing business.

EXCHANGE MEMBER

Tenney Williams was elected a member of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange at a meeting of the members yesterday afternoon. He maintains offices in the Van Nuys Building and has been in the brokerage business Los Angeles for several years.

WESTERN AUTO

George Pepperdine, president of the Western Auto Supply Company, announces that a dividend of 14 per cent has been declared on the outstanding stock for the year of 1923. The preferred stockholders were paid their regular 8 per cent.

During the year, the company opened twenty-five new stores on the Pacific Coast, and erected a building at Eleventh street and Grand avenue. Gross business in 1923 was over $8,000,000.

CALLED BONDS

The bond department of the Bank of Italy has received a list of the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours 7 1-2 per cent bonds, due 1931, that have been drawn for redemption on May 1, 1924, at 107 and interest. These numbers may be received upon application.

BUILDING BONDS

A syndicate composed of Alvin H. Frank & Co. and Cass, Howard & Sanford, Inc., is today offering $175,000 Central Building Company (Pasadena) first mortgage 7 per cent sinking fund gold bonds, due March 1, 1938.

These bonds will be secured by a first closed mortgage on property owned in fee, located on Raymond avenue, Pasadena, one-half block north of Colorado street, and improved with a class A, eight-story and basement office and store building. The appraised value of the security is $354,200, or more than twice the amount of this issue. Application has been made to the State Banking Department for the certification of these bonds as legal investment for savings banks in California, and the issue is offered subject to this certification. The bonds are exempt from California personal property tax and are offered at 100 and accrued interest to yield 7 per cent.

DAILY TRADE TALK

State and municipal borrowings through the issuance of tax-exempt bonds almost reached the $100,000,000 mark in February and, for the first two months of the year, total of such bonds issues is about equal to last year's financing. According to the Daily Bond Buyer of New York, last month's total exceeds that of any previous February on record.

Since the first of the year the municipal bond market has remained firm in spite of the probability of tax reduction legislation which would impair slightly the value of income tax-exemption attaching to State and municipal bonds. Municipal bond dealers look for a reduction in the output of new bonds during the next few months.

The following table, shows sales of long term State and municipal bonds in February and the two months ended February 28 for ten years:

	February.	2 mos. ending February 29.

WEEKLY COPPER MARKET REVIEW

Prices Slowly Advancing to Profitable Basis

Astounding Amount of Metal is Being Cosumed

Japan Outstanding Prospect in Foreign Demand

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS
(Editor Arizona Mining Journal)

The stock market flurry of two weeks ago, when several of the larger companies passed up their quarterly dividends had but a slight, temporary effect on the stock market and no effect at all on copper prices, for the prices have been steadily and slowly advancing to the present point of 14 cents and better. The reason is that fundamentally the copper market is in good shape and that there is now practically a balance between production and consumption.

In expressing himself regarding copper consumption in the United States recently L. S. Gates, general manager of the Utah Copper Company, was extremely optimistic.

"The amount of metal which is being consumed in this country is astounding," he explained. "At first it was thought that this demand would be sporadic and merely continue until abnormal needs had been satisfied. There has been, however, no slump in demand, as was thought would be the case.

"On investigation it has been found that the market has broadened in a truly surprising manner, and that present consumption is going to fulfill normal requirements of industry. A good part of this increase in need for the red metal is the outgrowth of the campaign of education pointing out the superiority of copper for a wide number of uses over all other metals."

A portion of the enormous increase in consumption of copper in this country can be traced to the fact that foreign countries are not manufacturing as they should and that they are calling on this country for the manufactured products. This increases domestic consumption and decreases exports and, as industrial conditions improve in the European countries, it is probable that they will manufacture more copper themselves and buy less in manufactured form.

Due to the fact that these countries have far to go in rehabilitation it is not anticipated that this will make a material difference in domestic consumption. It will be a gradually changing condition and may possibly slow up the rate of increase but probably will not lessen domestic consumption from its present average.

DEMAND AND SUPPLY

With consumption and production practically on a balance at the present time, the action of Inspiration, Anaconda and others in reducing the output to six days in the week will probably have a wholesome effect on the price of the metal for it takes but a slight curtailing of production to make consumption pass it.

An interesting point has been brought out recently by G. H. Dowell, manager of the Phelps Dodge Copper Queen Branch, that it will take seven years for the large producers to get back to the same point in development that they attained during the war and that present or immediately prospective prices of the metal do not indicate profits sufficient to quicken that return. In other words, the loss in the status of the development must be paid for from normal profits rather than surplus or profits over and above a normal return on the investment. Ore reserves suffered greatly during the war and the industry now has that bill to pay.

Japan is the outstanding prospect as a foreign user of copper. There is an enormous amount of construction going on in that country and some spectacular hydro-electric developments. Most of the equipment must be purchased in this country, although the engineering and work is being done by the Japanese themselves. Japan has actually progressed farther in the development of super-power lines than has the United States.

It seems evident that copper prices have turned the corner and, with the proper handling of the market and production by American producers, a decided improvement should be shown during 1924.

SLIGHT IMPROVEMENT IN COTTON FUTURES

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 10.—The cotton futures list closed slightly higher after early irregularity in today's trading. Unfavorable weather reports from the belt had but little effect. Southern selling caused the morning reaction which followed a moderate advance at the start. Heavy short covering and buying by Wall-street interests following the official announcement that the Lancashire labor dispute had been settled caused a sharp advance in the final hour which carried prices from 50 to 70 points above the early low level and some 18 to 38 points above Saturday's final prices.

At the close the list was just under the top and 5 to 32 points net higher. Spot cotton 25.55, up 25 points net.

Convertible Trust Certificates

Rule & Sons, Inc.

HISTORY—Convertible Trust Certificates of Rule & Sons were first issued in 1919. Up to this date 56 series have been issued. Of these issues 46 series have matured and been paid promptly on their due date.

SECURITY—The security consists of Conditional Sales Contracts representing balances due upon automobiles sold on partial payments deposited with the trustee under a rigid trust agreement and guaranteed principal and interest by Rule & Sons, Inc.

ARGUMENT—Financing buyers of automobiles is one of the great money operations of the day. Automobile paper so-called, that is, Conditional Sales Contracts for the purchase of automobiles, has been and is being handled by banks and large financial institutions in ever-increasing volume and has acquired a recognized place in the financial operations of the country.

The Conditional Sales Contract as used in the Rule & Sons, Inc., Trust covering Convertible Trust Certificates has five definite sources of security, any one of which under ordinary conditions should be sufficient. It would be an unheard-of condition that would cripple all at one time.

They are:

(1) The Automobile itself, title to which is vested in the Trustee with right of possession on failure to pay.
(2) The signed obligation of the purchaser to pay.
(3) In most cases the endorsement of the dealer selling the car.
(4) An excess of 5% in contracts deposited in the trust which means that one automobile purchaser out of twenty could be in default without impairing the payment of certificates.
(5) The unconditional guarantee of Rule & Sons, Inc.

GUARANTORS—Rule & Sons, Inc., who are the guarantors of the Convertible Trust Certificates, are a subsidiary of the Pacific Finance Corporation, all of the stock of Rule & Sons, Inc., being owned by the Pacific Finance Corporation.

The Pacific Finance Corporation is one of the largest financial institutions on the coast having paid up capital of over $4,000,000 and is operated by men of powerful financial influence. The Pacific Finance Corporation as the owners of Rule & Sons, Inc., is liable for its commitments.

For the investor who expects to use his money within a short period we recommend the Convertible Trust Certificates of Rule & Sons, Inc.

The yield is satisfactorily high and the security both fundamentally, and from the standpoint of past performance, amply adequate.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Strong Tone

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 10—Indications of continued easy money rates, seen in the Treasury's decision to do no long-term financing at this time, gave a good tone to the bond market today in the face of quiet trading activity. Prices held firm with the exception of Wilson & Co. 7½ per cent bonds, which were subject to selling pressure on the statement of the president that preferred dividends were unimpaired. The issue lost four points and other of the company's bonds were weak.

The action of French governmental and municipal obligations followed closely the movement of the franc, gaining in the early dealings, and weakening as the advance of the currency was checked. Belgian issues also lost ground.

Renewed selling of Liberty Bonds developed on the crowding of the $300,000,000 treasury certificates, but the financing, which had been expected to total $700,000,000, was regarded as favorable for the general investment market.

Although price changes were mixed in the railroad issues, the general trend was higher.

Following are closing quotations on bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange, furnished by Logan & Bryan, 523 South Spring street:

NEW YORK CURB

Oils Unresponsive

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 10.—Failure of the oil shares to make a quick response to higher crude oil prices was used by bear traders as an excuse for another attack on today's curb market, which developed a reactionary trend. In the absence of any public interest, trading was again on a restricted scale.

Oils were the hardest hit. Standard Oil of Ohio broke 3 points to 320; Cheskbrough dropped 3 to 427.

A jump of 13 points to 409 by Ford Motors of Canada was one of the features of the industrial list. Most of the radio issues improved fractionally. Motors were heavy.

Following are the closing quotations on the New York Curb market. Furnished by Logan & Bryan, members of the New York Stock Exchange, 523 South Spring street.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

General Petroleum common was the popular stock in the petroleum list yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, rising on the basis of a well-defined demand to 43½ at the close, which represented a net gain over Saturday of 3-4 of a point.

Union Oil Associates was a close second in the contest for popular favor. The market price advanced to 55, and closed at 54 7-8, a gain over the previous final quotation of 3-8 of a point. U. S. Royalties advanced ½ cent to 23½, while Globe Petroleum fell the same amount to 5½. Shell Union was firm at 18½ and United Oil was unchanged at 28 3-4.

Very little interest was shown in mining stocks. United Eastern sold at 44 cents, Sunnyside at 4 and Richmond Consolidated at 14 cents.

General Petroleum bonds reflected the activity in the stock, the 7s of 1931 selling actively around 104 5-4. Los Angeles Gas 6s of 1942 moved up 1-8 to 98 5-8, a movement which was duplicated by San Joaquin series C 6s of 1950 at 99 1-8. Southern California Telephone 5s of 1947 advanced 1-4 to 91 1-4.

CONTRACT MADE BY OIL CONCERN

Mexican Seaboard Has New Deal With Standard

Additional Daily Deliveries to be 10,000 Barrels

Price Said to be Fifty Cents With Sliding Scale

The Mexican Seaboard Petroleum Corporation, operating in the Cocalilao field in Vera Cruz, Mex., has just completed a supplementary contract with the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey for the delivery of 10,000 barrels of oil per day, in addition to the 30,000 barrels daily already contracted, it is reported by E. A. McKenna, chief geologist for the corporation, who was in the city last week on business.

The contract calls for a minimum price which is said to be not far from 50 cents per barrel, with a sliding scale based on the current posted market quotations. The original contract covered a period of three years, on which basis the supplementary agreement requires the delivery of a total of about 11,000,000 barrels, which, at the minimum price called for in the contract, would be valued at approximately $5,500,000.

Another deal has been made with the Corona Petroleum Corporation, which is a subsidiary of the Royal Dutch Shell interests, for the delivery of 5000 barrels per day, according to Mr. McKenna. This oil and the oil delivered to the Standard will be delivered at Corona and Standard pipe lines in the field, it is said.

Besides these deliveries, the Mexican Seaboard expects to start immediate delivery of about 20,000 barrels per day aboard tankers at Tampico, Mr. McKenna declares. These deliveries will be made at the terminal of the Mexican Continental Petroleum Corporation, which has been acquired by the Mexican Seaboard interests.

All oil involved in these contracts is being taken from the Cacalilao field, in which the Mexican Seaboard owns 30,000 acres, including three entire pools and portions of two others, according to Mr. McKenna. The field is eleven miles long and three miles wide, and is controlled by the Mexican Seaboard, the Standard and Corona companies, it is said. The Mexican Seaboard Petroleum Corporation's total production in the Cacalilao field at present is more than 65,000 barrels per day, with the possibility of much greater production, Mr. McKenna asserts.

Mr. McKenna left Los Angeles yesterday for New York, where he maintains his headquarters. After a short stay in New York he will leave for a tour of inspection of the company's Mexican properties. The Mexican Seaboard Petroleum Corporation is controlled by John Hays Hammond and his associates.

MARKET REVIEW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 10.—It was quite evident at the start of the markets today that organized support for the franc was coming from abroad. The franc closed on Saturday at 3.42c and opened this morning at 3.69 1-2c, one of the most remarkable over-holiday advances of this year. All of its gain was not retained but at least it was evident to the observers of market affairs that France has reached the point where she is not going to sit idly by without lifting a hand in the attempt to save her currency from further demoralization. Just how this will be done remains a problem of the future. There are reports, entirely unconfirmed as yet, of a $50,000,000 three-months' credit in the American market for the French government. There were reports, too, from the other side of the Atlantic that France in retaliation was a heavy seller of sterling. This was not entirely borne out, however, by the day's quotation for that exchange, which, although irregular, did not give any evidence of concerted attack.

What seemed to be evident in both sterling and francs, as well as in some of the minor exchanges, was that a sharp rally was taking place during the early part of the day. This can be counted, of course, the natural sequence of such declines as occurred in francs and sterling and most particularly francs, last week.

The rebuying of exchanges by those who have sold for the decline may always be depended upon to automatically bring about these sharp rallies, especially in cases where the speculation has grown to such tremendous proportions as in the case of the franc.

Stocks, as a whole, lost ground today. This was particularly true of some of the issues which led last week's brisk upturn. The market appeared to be almost entirely in the hands of professionals and the turnover for the day, as a matter of fact, was less than 700,000 shares. The tactics of seeking weak spots in the market appears to be the favored tool in the hands of professional speculators at the moment and they are emboldened by the fact that their efforts do not meet with a great deal of resistance in the run of stocks.

In its present mood, which is one characterized by lassitude rather than apprehension, the market pays but scant attention to the favorable news of the day. It took no notice, for instance, of the increase of 114,724 tons in the unfilled steel orders announced today by the United States Steel corporation. This must be classed as good industrial news especially in view of the recent reports of moderate slowing up in the steel industry. The unfilled tonnage of the steel corporation now amounts to 4,912,901 tons as compared with 4,798,429 tons on January 31, and 7,283,939 tons on February 28, 1923.

LOS ANGELES CLOSE

CATTLE—Estimated receipts, 1600; as has been the case for some time, practically the entire supply of cattle yarded consisted of beef steers and milling she-stock and there met with a cordial reception from local packers. Demand appeared broad and undertone to the deal was quotably strong; instances cited on both steers and slaughter cows that showed an upturn of as much as 25c from the close of last week. Top for the day on steers was 9.00, paid for a load of Colorado bay fats, average 1150 pounds, while several loads of medium and good northern steers cleared within a spread of 7.75@8.65, with a two-load lot of Arizona steers, medium grade, average 950 pounds, noted at 7.50. On Saturday northern steers cleared at a spread of 8.25@9.25, the latter price paid for a load of good Utah steers, average 1160 pounds. Run included a liberal showing of well conditioned northern cows, these selling upward from 6.25, a four-load lot averaging 1070 pounds at 6.50, with the extreme top for the day 7.00; paid for a load of Colorado yearlings, scaling around 1000 pounds, while bulk of the remains and medium cows cleared from 4.50@5.50; with calvers and cutters mostly 3.25@4.75; bulls were in moderate numbers and ruled steady, bulk bolognas, 4.00@5.00; beef bulls upward to 5.50; a few individuals above this figure.

CALVES—1,000; market ruled active and strong to higher, with most advance noted on light milk calves. A spread of 8.00@8.25 took in most of the smoothwaters, from 250 to 500 pounds, while bulk of the milk calves cleared from 10.00@12.25, from 150 to 225 pounds; with a few head picked vealers mixed up to 13.00.

HOGS—1200; moderate receipts coupled with a good active local demand aided sellers in securing 25 upturn of 25@50c on butcher hogs. A spread of 8.25@8.50, with the bulk of 8.00@8.50, took in butcher hogs from 170 to 220 pounds, which made up the day's supply. No packing sows were included.

SHEEP—1000. Market developed a touch of strength on all killing classes. An eight-deck shipment of fed weaned lambs, average 98 pounds, cleared at 14.50, while a few head of shorn lambs sold at 13.75, with a small lot of woolled ewes, 101 pounds, 9.00, with a few head of shorn ewes at 7.00.

LEGION MEMBERSHIP TROPHY TO FLORIDA

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

INDIANAPOLIS, March 10.—Florida led all States in the renewal of American Legion memberships for 1924 and as a result a trophy given by Past National Commander Henry D. Lindsley has been awarded to that State, it was announced at national headquarters of the Legion here. Second place was won by legionaires of Mexico, which is given the same status as a State; Wisconsin was third and Washington fourth.

Grain Futures Vulnerable to Liberal Selling

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, March 10.—Free selling of May wheat by commission houses and local traders, which set in shortly after the opening, found the market in a weakened technical position, and caused a drop of 3c to 1.09¾. Stop-loss orders were uncovered on the way down, with but limited support from 1.11 to 1.10. Under the latter figure buying on resting orders checked the break, but the finish was with net losses of 1@1¼. Corn closed ⅛@⅜c lower in sympathy with wheat, while oats were ⅛@⅜c lower and rye unchanged to ⅛c lower.

The government farm reserve report was due after the close, and had the effect of restricting selling of all grains. The report, when issued, showed 191,000,000 bushels of wheat, 1,135,000,000 bushels of corn, 445,000,000 bushels of oats and 45,000,000 bushels of barley, compared with 155,000,000 bushels of wheat, 1,092,000,000 bushels of corn, 421,000,000 bushels of oats and 42,000,000 bushels of barley last year, and was about as expected. Routine news had little effect. Part of the selling of wheat early was attributed to houses with French connections and was regarded as hedging against cancellation of cash grain in the past few days.

There was some selling of wheat at Minneapolis that was said to be against purchases of Canadian grain. Action of the market since the tariff was raised has been a disappointment to the bulls. May closed at 1.09⅝@1.09, July at 1.10⅛ and September at 1.10⅞@1.11.

Receipts of 377 cars of corn were about half of what was expected, and there was very little grain carried over in the railroad yards, much to the surprise of the trade. The movement has fallen off in practically all sections of the belt, with unfavorable weather and the recent decline in prices a factor. Trade in futures was largely of a local character. May finished at 88⅝@89⅛, July at 81¼ and September at 81¼@81⅝ to 81⅝.

May oats were under pressure and at the low points showed ⅝c under Saturday's finish, with a moderate rally toward the last. Trade continues light and market is easily influenced. Winnipeg was weak and 1¼@1⅝c lower. Receipts, 119 cars. Unfavorable weather over the West is delaying seeding.

Rye showed more strength than wheat, despite selling by the Northwest, local buying being of sufficient volume to offset the pressure. Nothing was heard regarding export demand.

UNFILLED ORDERS FOR STEEL SHOW GAIN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, March 10.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation on February 29, made public today, totaled 4,912,991 tons, an increase of 116,473 tons, as compared with the end of the previous month.

February was the third consecutive month to show an increase in unfilled orders, making the highest monthly total since last September, when the total reached 5,235,758 tons.

The weekly steel trade reviews recently declared that present conditions in the steel industry pointed to a period of sustained activity for the next few months. Railroads, automobile manufacturers and building contractors have been the largest purchasers of steel. February pig iron output was the largest since last August.

THROUGHOUT the world you hear the new hum of the Diesel Engine. In ocean liner, river craft, mines, flour mills, central station water works, pumping stations, ice plants—wherever wheels turn—engineers are installing Diesel engines. Gasoline and steam engines are being replaced everywhere by Diesels.

We are now building Diesel engines to the value of almost $500,000. But, orders and yet more orders roll in. We must immediately expand. We must still further increase the size of our plant—already tremendous. We must further improve our facilities—already great. We must still further add to our force of engineers and mechanics—already, a small army. For the Day of the Diesel is here!

And so, we invite capital. Understand, the bank will lend us hundreds of thousands whenever we ask. But that is not the point. To cope with the present flood of new orders we must permanently increase our working capital.

The shares offered here for public subscription present an ideal investment embodying a high degree of safety with every prospect for large profits.

Put in with us. Whatever you can stow away, act now. The coupon is for your convenience.

We manufacture Diesel Engines—for the United States Government; Standard Oil Company; Hammond Consolidated; Mallory Steamship Company; Golden Gate Ferry Company, and many other great interests. Valued by the American Appraisal Company at more than $1,500,000, our great plant at Oakland was started on a mere $50,000 only six years ago.

RETURN OF PROSPERITY

New additions to the list of money-lending corporations in these parts are typified by American Steel Foundries. After earning $9.55 a share for the common stock and paying $3 the company finds itself with cash and investment securities sufficient to pay common dividends at the current rate for nearly five years. The company now has $20,000,000 working capital and its quick assets are six times its current liabilities. After paying dividends Standard Oil of Indiana just reported the addition of nearly $17,000,000 to the surplus which must be kept busy. The company does not differentiate between bills and accounts payable but the aggregate of these items is less than $30,000,000.

Investment bankers are having difficulty finding anything to sell. Corporate borrowing is dwindling at a rate not accounted for by the record of industrial activity. New issues have been uncommonly scarce in recent days and there is little promise of a change. The total of new financing in this territory was smaller last week than in any similar period in many months.

The municipal market is in a contradictory position in that prices are softer and yields are advancing. The sanitary district of Chicago will offer for the third time next week $5,000,000 4 per cent bonds. Each offering of these has brought a lower price and dealers expect another loss to the district by delay.

Recently $3,000,000 South Park bonds were offered on a 4.25 to 4.40 basis and dealers are still holding a considerable part of the issue. The sanitary district bids rejected offered about 4.54. The date of the next offering will almost coincide with the offering of $10,000,000 State of Illinois soldiers' bonus bonds.

TAX UNCERTAINTY

The municipal market has been affected by uncertainty on the part of investors as to what will be the changes in the income-tax law and how they will affect the relation between the yields on taxed and tax-free bonds.

These things seem to indicate that in the not distant future some progress may be made toward balancing the financial structure of business by the sale of more stocks and fewer bonds. Since 1916 little has been accomplished in this direction. We have been acquiring too many creditors and too few partners.

A majority of the larger banks have special securities corporations organized as subsidiaries some years ago. These have been dormant for some time. Corporation reports and money market conditions suggest renewed activity for them.

LIVED ON GARBAGE, GRANTED DIVORCE

WORCESTER (Mass.) March 10. Mrs. Viola Anderson of Newbury street and her 4-year-old son were forced to live on spoiled canned goods which John E. Anderson picked from the Chandler-street dump, she told Judge Chamberlain in Probate Court. She said also that her husband picked up an old dress on the dump and that she wore it because it was the only one she had. She stated that on one occasion when she had 10 cents to buy a can of milk her husband took the money and she and her child went four days without anything to eat. The husband is a machinist. The judge granted her a divorce.

Chapter 6

WHAT CONGRESS COSTS

There are just eighteen powers given to Congress. They are clean-cut and plain. The last one, No. 18, looks necessary, but it has become the open door through which many other powers not originally given by the States have passed into national control, for the eighteenth has been very liberally interpreted by the United States Supreme Court. This power gives Congress authority to make all laws necessary and proper for carrying the other seventeen powers into execution.

Since April 6, 1789, Congress has held 157 separate sessions. This is an average of a little more than one a year. The first two sessions were held in New York City. The next eleven sessions, ending May 14, 1800, were held in Philadelphia. Since that time—for the last 124 years—Congress has met in Washington.

Congress had great powers given to it. The Supreme Court greatly enlarged them by favorable interpretation. Today Congress is the most important political body in America. Nine of our presidents—John Adams, Jefferson, Van Buren, Tyler, Fillmore, Johnson, Arthur, Roosevelt and Coolidge—as Vice-Presidents have presided over the United States Senate. The presidents of the United States who served in the United States Senate as members were Jackson, Harrison and Harding. Garfield was elected Senator but never served. Andrew Johnson served in the Senate after leaving the White House. No Speaker of the House of Representatives has ever been elected President of the United States, although John Quincy Adams, Pierce, Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley served in the House. To this list can be added such names as Webster, Clay, Calhoun and John Sherman, to mention only a distinguished few of those who have passed on.

All right. Now what does this department of government cost the American people? The legislative department, in Washington's time, cost very little. Congress spent $425,000 during the first four years of Washington's administration. That is an average of approximately $100,000 per year. But there were then only about one-eighth as many Congressmen and one-fourth as many Senators. And each member of Congress received $6 per diem while Congress was in session.

FINANCING THE JOB

Today each Senator of the United States receives a salary of $7500 a year, a private secretary, a stenographer, and at least two large, well-furnished offices in the Senate office building. He also is given a traveling bonus of 20 cents a mile to and from Washington from his home State for each session of Congress. This is a relic of the old days when horse transportation was used and necessarily more expensive than travel is today.

In 1923 the people of the United States paid $2,314,000 for the total expenses of the Senate, of which $762,000 went into the salaries and mileage of the ninety-six Senators. The balance was mostly for help.

The 435 members of the House of Representatives each receive $7500 a year salary, a private secretary and a bonus of 20 cents a mile to and from each session, and at least one large furnished room in the House office building. In 1923 there was paid for the House of Representatives a total of $5,533,000, of which the salaries and mileage of Congressmen took $3,731,000. The rest was nearly all for salaries of officers and employees.

The next big spending bureau of the legislative department is the Government Printing office. There was spent $3,011,000 in the division for 1923. The appropriation for 1924 is increased $100,000; unquestionably there is waste in this particular office. Much government printing today is waste, and much unnecessary.

CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY

The Library of Congress—the most beautiful library in the world—also under the legislative department, received $1,064,000 to carry on for 1923. Today it contains over 3,000,000 volumes. The library is an old one. Established in 1800, it was destroyed by the British in 1814 when the capital was burned. It began again by the purchase by Congress of the library of ex-President Thomas Jefferson, containing 6760 volumes. Jefferson had fallen on days of financial adversity, Congress gave him a check for $23,950 for them. Again, in 1851, it was destroyed by fire. The next year Congress appropriated $75,000 to begin again. From that time it has steadily grown in influence.

Today the collection is housed in the most exquisite library building in the world, which cost approximately $7,000,000. The library itself has the largest collection on the American continent, and third in the world. No department of government is more necessary to government than a well-ordered, well-balanced library. This the present Congressional Library is.

The architect of the Capitol cost a total of $1,221,000 for 1923. The largest item was $642,000 for the Capitol power plant. This looks too high. Light and power are furnished for the Capitol, the House Building and the Senate. Every electric light in every office in the Capitol, the House Building and the Senate Building seems to be lit at all times. This item is cut for 1924 to $439,000. The balance for the architect includes care of grounds and the care of the three buildings mentioned above.

DRAFTING BILLS

In connection with the legislative department of the American government, the legislative drafting service should be mentioned. This service does the bill drafting for all Congressmen and Senators free of charge. It is highly important work. Its object is to frame a bill just as carefully as an architect plans and builds a building. The service cost only $35,000 in 1923. The money was well spent.

To sum up a total of $14,014,000 was spent by the legislative department of the United States for the fiscal year 1923. It is small in comparison with the government's total cost.

For every $1000 which the government spent for that year, the legislative department spent just 41 cents.

In 1923 the United States spent every nineteen days for pensions as much as was spent by this department for the whole year.

Again: The government of the United States spent every eleven days for the Veterans' Bureau as much as was spent by the department for the whole of 1923.

Last year the government spent every thirteen days [illegible] as much as was spent on all the Congressmen and Senators and Congressional Library and Printing Office and botanical gardens, the secretaries, stenographers and engineers combined.

Important as is the legislative department, the people of the United States must look elsewhere for big cuts in government expenses. They cannot be found here.

TREND OF TRADE STEADY, UPWARD

Unprecedented Consumption of Goods Indicated

February Car Loadings Set New High Record

Decline in Franc Puzzling to Finance Market

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, March 10.—Events of the last week have emphasized again certain outstanding tendencies which have been more or less plainly visible since the year began. The factor that American consumption of goods is quite unprecedented in magnitude is strongly indicated by the latest returns of traffic loaded on the railways, which, for the sixth successive week, was shown to have broken all records for the period, including 1923. That production is amply keeping pace with consumption was again shown last week, not only by the rise in iron output for February to the level of a year ago and by 85 per cent of capacity steel production, but by continued testimony to the absence of "forward orders" and a variation of less than 1-2 of 1 per cent in the general price average for February.

The steady recovery on the stock exchange, clearly attributable to repurchases by speculators who sold on the recent "oil investigation scare" indicated alike the financial community's belief in the soundness of the financial situation and its increasing indifference to the extraordinary performances in the Senate. But along with this has come a new and rapid decline in the franc, carrying the price below the 4-cent level whereas it sold at 5 cents on the first day of the year. This happened while other European exchange rates, as a rule, held firm and while Europe's political news was favorable.

FRANC DROP PUZZLES

That the persistent fall of the franc, existing conditions being what they are, is in some ways the most puzzling movement that the post-war exchange markets have presented, dealers in foreign exchange frankly confess.

There is no lack of suggested legislations. But they are mostly the kind of explanations after the fact which Wall Street is bound to produce for financial movements which it did not predict beforehand and does not now clearly understand. How little of certainty they contain may be judged from the fact that they range all the way from the hypothesis that the French people are in a panic over their own situation to Mr. Belloc's theory that the British and German money power is putting down the franc in order to make France give up the Ruhr.

The Paris market itself admits that large sales of francs have been made by the French people themselves; in other words, that they have used their holdings of francs to pay for drafts on London or New York, which would build up sterling or dollar credits. This is no unfamiliar phenomenon, it happened even in prewar gold-standard days, as with our own rise of exchange and outflow of gold in the "silver panic" of 1894 and the movement of rates against France in the "Fashoda scare" over Anglo-French relations in the later nineties. But whereas in those days "the flight of capital" merely meant exchange at the "gold points" and large gold exports, today it means continuous fall in the franc itself, no longer linked by free redemption to the gold standard.

Capital which has moved in this way to another market does not always return at once, even when financial fears have been proved groundless or when remedies for a disturbing fiscal situation are applied. That may be why the French attitude, as indicated by last week's Bank of France statement, showed no evidence of change.

NEW WORDS COINED; SHEIK OBSOLETE NOW

"WILDCAT" IS THE TITLE GIVEN HIM NOW BY FLAPPERS

NEW YORK, March 10.—He isn't a "sheik" any more. At least, he isn't among the flappers who keep right up to the moment, who frequent fashionable hotels, dancing clubs and tea rooms. By them he is known as the "wildcat."

Just as the fashions change so does the vocabulary of the flapper. There's "dumbelladonna," for example. That's another coinage right up to the moment. A "dumbelladonna" is dumbell, feminine. The derivation of the word is more logical than most flapperese, as will be seen by taking it apart—bella, beautiful; donna, woman, and dumb, well, beautiful but dumb.

Investigation brought forth these further additions to the language:

Wet smack—A nice boy.

Mother's ruin—Gin.

Slop—A big party with liquors.

He-deb—The master sex.

Divine, poisonous—Reciprocal terms for tagging youths: "My dear, he's divine;" or, "My dear, he's poisonous."

The dog—A raccoon coat.

Chain up the dog—Check the coat.

A really "divine person" in the world of flappers is a he-deb who wears his hair oiled and wraps himself up in a flapping raccoon ulster.

LOST COW PUNCHERS BEWILDERED IN CITY

DENVER, March 10.—Early yesterday morning police believed they had cornered two bandits when they received a call from 2920 Williams street that two suspicious-looking men were hanging around that address. Officers were rushed there armed for a gun battle. On arrival they found two meek and harmless cow punchers, bewildered by the "big city," wandering the streets in search of their rooming-house. They explained that they had arrived here from their ranch and in trying to find their room became lost.

About 29,500,000 tons of manufactured ice was consumed last year.

This man has found a safe refuge for his contracts, private papers, tax data, inventories, balance sheets and other important documents.

Best Sales Force in City Can Use

More Good Salesmen

BEST because it has substantial, hard-headed, experienced direction; because it is selling type of clean, high-paying security now in demand; because it has tremendous advertising campaign back of it; because it consists of go-getting fools who spurn pampering but demand dignified consideration. If you are a security or specialty salesman and the preceding paragraph conveys my thought to you, if you want to earn $200 to $1000 a week beginning right now, don't waste a minute getting in to see me. Instruction class every morning at 9 o'clock. Complete kitty leads; shrewd assistance. Come today. Only a few real men needed.

Bandit Raids Candy Store; Man Is Robbed

A bandit entered the Nancy Hubbard Candy Shop, 927 South Hill street, last night, commanded two women clerks to line up against the wall and emptied the cash drawer of $75. After thanking the clerks, Mrs. Rose Wilcox and Miss Vaughan Aden, he tipped his hat and walked out.

A short time later, two armed men held up and robbed Joe Cohen, manager of the Chetwood Hotel, 411 East Fourth street, in front of the hotel. They got $22 and a watch and escaped in an automobile in which they drove up to the place.

Detectives Williams and Compson conducted an investigation of both robberies.

VIADUCT PLANS ARE APPROVED

Sanction Bridge for Ninth Street

City to Bear Fourth of Cost of Structure

Other Streets Will be Improved

Coincident with the approval Monday by the State Railroad Commission of the plans for the new bridge across the Los Angeles River at Ninth street came an order from the City Council appropriating $17189 for repairs to the present structure. It will be closed during completion of the repairs. The action was taken following the report on Friday of the Avenue Forty-six bridge over the Arroyo Seco.

The cost of the new bridge, as estimated by the commission's engineering department, will be $68,377. It will be part of a general plan for six new bridges, the others to be at Allen, Macy, First, Fourth and Seventh streets.

CUT FOUR WAYS

Announcement of the approval of the new bridge plans was made at a hearing before Commissioner Eshleman on one of a series of hearings being held to apportion the cost of the work among the city, Salt Lake and Los Angeles Railway, Los Angeles Railway Company and Pacific Electric Company. Those on the Ninth-street bridge are the county, Salt Lake and Los Angeles Railway and Santa Fe Railway. They have advised the commission that they are willing to pay a one-fourth the cost of the bridge.

At the hearing was called for March 8, at which time plans for the Ninth-street bridge have been completed. In addition to those on the Ninth-street bridge, the city is sued by the Los Angeles Railway Company. It is also stated that by the date of the hearing, substantial progress will have been made toward completion of the plans for the remaining bridges of Allen, First, Fourth and Seventh streets.

Those who participated in the hearing included E. W. Camp, attorney for the Santa Fe Railway; A. E. Hatchard, attorney for Salt Lake and Los Angeles Railway; E. K. Haskins for the Los Angeles Railway Company; Frank Bryan, deputy city attorney for Los Angeles; Hugh Wells, attorney for the commission, and Walter T. Watson, transportation engineer for the commission, and Robert E. Hill, general assistant for the commission.

The original hearing early in March, at which the commission announced that it would require the bridges for the entire work, undertaking to apportion the cost, the City Council appropriated $17189 for repairs on the present bridge went an order closing the bridge to traffic.

Action to this effect was taken by the Board of Public Works acting on a report of Chief Engineer Griffin.

BIDS INCREASED

The report points out that the present bridge was built of wood and that twenty-five years ago it had been repaired extensively and that the structure had been thoroughly inspected at least once a year. Because of the original cost of leads and stresses, the report continues, indicates that the bridge was designed for a live load of 2330 pounds per square foot with a factor of safety of 3. Additional weight in the form of asphalt pavement, water mains, etc., has reduced the factor of safety but not to a dangerous point, Mr. Griffin said, the bridge is safe with the added load.

The report continues, that the bridge is in the same time and under the same agreement as the Avenue 46 bridge, which carries a heavy traffic greatly in excess of that which the Avenue 26 bridge will carry. It has therefore been found necessary in rebuilding the structure to erect supports under it.

Following inspection of the bridge, the Pasadena-Dayton avenue bridge is to be made at once, as it was erected many years ago and under the same conditions as the Griffin said, the bridge, Mr. Griffin said, the bridge is safe with the added load.

Iowa Girl Chosen by Painter

Guest at Ambassador, whose portrait is being made by Vienna artist to represent American women.

ARTIST FINDS BEAUTY HERE

Portrait Painter Seeking American Loveliness Chooses Iowa Girl on Visit to City

Prof. Ernest Linnenkamp, Vienna artist, has found his first beauty in Los Angeles. She ought to be a native daughter but as a matter of fact she's from Iowa.

The favored young lady is Miss Faye Martyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Martyn of Waterloo, Iowa. She is spending the winter here with her parents at the Ambassador.

Prof. Linnenkamp, who is one of the best known portrait painters in Europe, was commissioned a time ago by the Amathea Verlag, a publishing house in Zurich, Switzerland, to paint the portraits of the fifteen most beautiful women he could find in America.

The professor has been on the quest for months and Miss Martyn is only the seventh sample of feminine pulchritude he has thus far discovered. The other six are New York society women.

"Miss Martyn is a brunette with blue eyes," said Prof. Linnenkamp. "She is the perfect type of American beauty, slender, graceful, natural, vivacious—in brief, combining all the characteristics that mark the real American girl."

The professor has already been at work on the lady's portrait for a week.

"I am painting the full figure with a typically Californian scene as a background," he explained.

He states that he has been deluged with letters and portraits from aspirants desirous of being included in the bevy of beauties whose portraits he will take back to Europe.

"It's a long job, this selection of beauties," he said. "I hope to find the balance of my quota in Los Angeles, or at any rate in California. But I expect it will take me to the end of the year to do so."

WILL TELL CITY'S PLANS

"Plans for the Future of Los Angeles" will be the subject of a talk by Gordon Whitnall, director of the Los Angeles City Planning Commission, at the regular weekly luncheon of the Advertising Club at the Biltmore today noon.

Vermont avenue at the present time extends as far south as West Manchester street.

POWER BLAST BURNS SIX

Electricity Cut Off for Time When Blaze Follows Explosion at Municipal Plant

Six men received burns, a number were overcome by smoke and the city's electric system virtually was put out of commission for a time when a short circuit a few minutes before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon caused an electrical explosion, followed by a serious fire, in the main power plant of the Municipal Bureau of Power and Light at 211 East Power street.

The injured are: Carl Boyer, George Oakley, Benjamin Cram, Harry C. Giersbach, Henry E. Moser and B. W. Greim. Boyer, with severely burned arms, and Oakley, with lacerations of the back, were considered the most seriously injured.

A blinding flash and a rumble like lightning and thunder of an electrical storm shook the building housing the operating and test rooms of the plant. An oil switch blew out, throwing blazing oil about and starting a menacing fire.

The half-dozen men near the scene of the explosion rushed to safety. Outside, officials of the company gathered the workers who armed themselves with chemical fire-extinguishers, went back into the building and fought the flames until the arrival of the fire department, averting a fire that would have crippled the municipal system for a protracted time. Firemen and officials of the light bureau gave high praise to the volunteer fire fighters, several of whom were overcome by smoke.

The short circuit is believed to have originated when two high-voltage wires became crossed outside the building. The oil switch is used to transfer an electric load from one wire to another and, in this case, contained approximately 100 gallons of oil.

Through an emergency wire system arranged between the two organizations, the Southern California Edison Company almost im-

PORT'S FREIGHT YARD EXTENDED

Congestion to be Relieved in Rail Shipments

Fifty-Acre Tract is Bought by Two Companies

Quarter of Million Paid for Development Plot

Plans for an extensive freight classification and distribution yards to relieve congestion in rail shipments to and from Los Angeles Harbor was revealed yesterday in the announcement by D. W. Pontius, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Electric, that the company acting jointly with the Southern Pacific has acquired fifty acres of land for this development near Watson Station on the Los Angeles [illegible].

Although definite plans have not been drawn up, it is proposed ultimately to build fifty miles of trackage to accommodate 5000 cars at the harbor. An amount approximating $1,750,000 will be expended on this work, it is said.

According to Mr. Pontius, the purchase represents an outlay of $250,000 and this land, in connection with ten acres previously acquired, will be developed. The property is two and three-quarters miles north of Wilmington, between Dolores and Watson stations.

At present all distribution and classification work is handled on sidings and small yards near the harbor. Much congestion causing delays in arrival and delivery of freight by rail as well as loss of time to vessels handling the cargo is experienced. Rapid strides in the growth of harbor business has necessitated taking this action, it is said.

With the new yards in operation, it was pointed out, freight traffic will be speeded up and the confusion relieved. Trains will be able to unload their freight at the wharves and be taken to the yards for car classification in rapid time.

Much of the wasted time now experienced in switching trains to make room for incoming or outgoing freight will be relieved.

That Los Angeles is fortunate in having such land available for classification yards of ample size near the harbor, was the statement of officials. Other harbor cities, it was explained, are at a loss for distribution space as the cities have built up immediately around the harbor.

INDICTMENT OF KITTLE SOUGHT

Aviator and Seven Others Accused in Robbery

Dare-Devil Received Theft Plunder, Police Say

Convicted Men Declared Innocent of Crime

Indictments against Hubert Kittle, daredevil aviator, and another suspect on charges of receiving stolen property, and against six other men on charges of robbery, are to be asked of the county grand jury today when that body resumes its investigation of the asserted "railroading" to the penitentiary of three Mexicans said to be innocent of the robbery of the First National Bank of Arcadia.

Kittle, who has been held incommunicado since his arrest several days ago, was arraigned yesterday afternoon in Justice Forbes's court and the amount of his bail was set at $10,000. The bond, it was understood, was to have been furnished later in the evening by a surety bond company and Kittle was to be released.

STATEMENT REFUSED

The arraignment followed a conference Kittle had with Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Wright, at which he refused to make any statement to the authorities without the consent of his attorneys. Attorney Richard Kittrelle, one of Kittle's counsel, declined to grant the statement pending the return to Los Angeles of Attorney Paul Schenck, the senior counsel.

Though Dep. Dist.-Atty. Burke, who has prepared the indictments, declined to discuss the identity of the men against whom the robbery indictments are to be asked, it is understood that they include the names of six men said to have actually participated in the bank robbery. One of these men is now serving a life sentence for another crime.

VICTIMS OF FRAME-UP

The three men now serving terms for the robbery of the Arcadia bank are Salvadore Mendevil, Brulio Galindo and Jose Hernandes. They were convicted and sentenced to San Quentin and not until after their commitment to prison were the authorities convinced that the convicts were innocent victims of a "frame-up" to protect the guilty ones. Two of the officers who played a prominent part in their prosecution are now assisting in every way to have the three Mexicans liberated.

Upon the returning of the indictments against the men believed to be actually guilty of the crime, there are only two courses

ATTORNEY NAMED TO BENCH

Governor Announces Appointment and Voices Praise of Collier, Who Did Not Seek Place

Frank C. Collier, prominent Los Angeles attorney, was appointed judge of the Superior court of Los Angeles county yesterday by Gov. Richardson. Mr. Collier's appointment was made to fill the vacancy occasioned recently by the elevation of Judge Paul J. McCormick to the United States District Court bench.

According to reports from the Governor's office Mr. Collier was not seeking the position and accepted the appointment only after he was importuned to do so.

Commenting upon his appointment, Gov. Richardson said, "Several days ago I offered the appointment of judge of the Superior Court to Mr. Collier and was pleased this morning to receive his acceptance. He was not a candidate and accepted with considerable reluctance.

"The people of Los Angeles county are fortunate in securing the service of a man of the high integrity, fine energy and superior ability of Mr. Collier. He has been active in connection with the Bar Association in trying to purge the bar of dishonorable members."

Mr. Collier, who is senior member of the law firm of Collier & Labarere with office at 639 South Spring street, was born in Colorado in 1878. He came to California in 1901. He attended the public schools, was graduated from high school in San Diego and later received his degree at the law school of the University of Michigan. Returning to San Diego, he practiced law there for a time. He then went to Prescott, Ariz., where he practiced for a while, later returning to California.

His appointment to the Superior bench is looked upon in local law circles with high favor. During his work in the city he has been particularly active as a member of the grievance committee of the Bar Association.

His practice locally has been devoted almost exclusively to general civil matters. Mr. Collier is married, a Thirty-third Degree Mason, and resides at 1133 Pine street, South Pasadena. It is expected that he will arrange his personal affairs and take the oath of office in about two weeks.

WILBUR SILENT ON CABINET

Chief Justice of State Refuses to Affirm or Deny Offer of Post by President

Arriving in Los Angeles from Washington last night, Chief Justice Wilbur of the State Supreme Court admitted that the matter of a Cabinet position had been the subject of a conference he had had with President Coolidge at the White House last week.

Justice Wilbur was in the city only long enough to step from the Sunset Limited to the Lark, bound for San Francisco.

He recently has been mentioned for the post of Attorney-General in the event of the resignation of Atty.-Gen. Daugherty. Within the past few days, however, it was also rumored that the Justice is being considered for the post of Secretary of the Navy, vacated by Secretary Denby yesterday.

To all questions of a specific nature put to him last night, Justice Wilbur said that he is not in a position to reply.

"While it is true that the subject of a Cabinet position was discussed between the President and myself, I cannot say whether or not any position was offered to me," he said.

"Will you, then, set at rest reports that you are being considered for the position of Secretary of the Navy by either affirming or denying them?" he was asked.

"I cannot affirm or deny either of the reports," he said.

"If either post is offered to you, will you accept?"

"I was trained to serve my country and if the opportunity should be offered me to serve in the Cabinet, I most certainly should have to accept," Justice Wilbur replied.

SERVICES CONDUCTED FOR WRITER OF NEWS

Funeral services for Frank Custer Kingsland, former newspaper man, who shot himself Thursday after writing his own death notice for publication, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the chapel of Gulick & Moses. Failing health after an automobile accident was the reason he gave for shooting himself.

TWO ARE KILLED BY TRAINS

Man and Little Girl are Victims; Four Pedestrians Probably Fatally Injured

A man and a little girl were killed by trains and four pedestrians, two of them small boys and one an aged man, were probably fatally injured, in a series of traffic accidents yesterday in and near Los Angeles.

Pauline Hurley, 3 1-2 years of age, of 507 Ocean avenue, Seal Beach, was running with outstretched arms to meet her father across the street when she was hit by a Pacific Electric Long Beach-Seal Beach train.

Her father, John Hurley, was on his way home from work and had called across the street to his daughter. The girl's body was terribly mangled. Officer Blunt of the Long Beach police made an investigation. The train was operated by Motorman J. E. Hoover. The body was taken to the Mottell undertaking rooms, Long Beach.

John Blair, 40, of 646 Williamson avenue, and a fellow employee at the Union Pacific roundhouse were struck by a switch engine as they walked home from work. Blair was almost instantly killed. His friend, Alfred Vesper, was knocked off the track by the impact and was not even cut or bruised. The dead man's body is at the Receiving Hospital.

Arthur Shellhouse, 5 of 823 Sanborn avenue, was struck at the intersection of Normal avenue and Hoover street by an automobile driven by an unidentified man. He received cuts, bruises and possible fracture of the skull and was taken to the Receiving Hospital.

According to witnesses, the driver stopped the car after it had struck the boy but left as soon as he had learned the hospital had been called. He is reported to have told bystanders that he would

SPERRYS TO BUILD GREAT FLOUR MILL

Six-Acre Tract Bought as Site for New Plant to Cost Million

Announcement was made yesterday of the purchase of a six-acre tract in the central manufacturing district by the Sperry Flour Mills, Inc., as the proposed site for a $1,000,000 grain mill. According to Roy N. Bishop, chairman of the board of directors, the property is at Fruitland and Maywood avenues and was sold for $120,000.

When the new plant is completed it will be the third largest in the United States and will have a total daily capacity of 1200 barrels, an increase of more than 400 barrels over the output of the original plant which burned recently at Seventh and Alameda streets. Architect Coulshot of San Francisco has been commissioned to prepare the plans and to supervise the construction operations.

Negotiations for the sale of the company's holdings at Seventh and Alameda streets are now under way.

The Sperry Flour Mills organization has sixteen plants on the Pacific Coast and operates a chain of more than thirty-five offices. Cities in which larger plants are located include Fresno, Stockton, Vallejo, Portland, Tacoma, Spokane, Ogden, Dayton, Wash., and Creston.

REGARD POWER CUT UNLIKELY

Electric Conferees Against Drastic Action

Committee Named to Decide Need of Economy

Water Supply Held Ample Until After July

The possibility of a power shortage due to the shortage of water used to generate electricity was considered here yesterday at a hearing of corporation and municipal electricity producers before Commissioners Seavey and Brundige of the State Railroad Commission.

It was decided to appoint a committee, composed of spokesmen for the city and private electricity elements in Southern California and headed by Lester R. Ready, chief engineer of the Railroad Commission, to make a report before the end of this month on the possibilities of the situation and whether radical curtailment is necessary. The rains of a week ago, it was brought out, have relieved the situation to an important extent.

The proposal to create a power administration, as was done for the northern part of the State in the drought of 1918, 1919 and 1920, was considered unnecessary at this time, or later on if the expectations of the power corporations are realized. But in event that naming a power administrator is necessary later, the committee in the meantime will be laying the groundwork for a more unified action. The threatened shortage is greater in the south than in the north chiefly because of the difference in the growth of the two electric businesses, which in Southern California has been about 30 per cent in the last two years and in the northern part of the State only about 10 per cent.

FACTION INJECTED

The otherwise amicable proceedings were somewhat disturbed by Dr. John R. Haynes of the Los Angeles Bureau of Power and Light, who attempted to reflect on the conduct of the Southern California Edison Company, which, asked for an economy of power in certain outlying districts, but its vice-president in charge of operation and construction, G. C. Ward, yesterday declared, the company now could meet all demands if reasonable economy were used. He therefor considers a power administration unnecessary for the present, at least.

But Dr. Haynes, as evangelist of municipal ownership, continued to heckle the corporation experts until W. P. Matthews, counsel for the Edison Company, declared Dr. Haynes was attempting to take advantage of the present situation to break the city's contract with the corporation by which electricity is supplied on an exclusive agreement begun two years ago and to continue for ten years. Dr. Haynes also mentioned the mysterious steam electrical generating plant his bureau wishes to construct, which if used would violate the contract with the corporation. Mr. Matthews declared; adding that the Edison Company had not yet failed to live up to its part of the contract and did not expect to fail.

Dr. Haynes then oratorically declared that some time back there had been a failure in the Edison supply to the city, but was reminded that this had been due to a high windstorm even as the present difficulty in Southern California is due to nature's failure in supplying the usual amount of rain and snow. Dr. Haynes then sat down.

SITUATION RELIEVED

The greatest part of the present difficulty is due to the demand for power to work irrigation pumps, and yet all agreed that agriculture and manufacturing should be the last to be curtailed by any restrictions. The Edison Company spokesmen showed evidence that the recent rains, while of only one and three-quarters inches had materially relieved the situation, not only because of the water supplied the company reservoirs but also because of the natural irrigation and agricultural land, which has caused a sudden and general decrease in the demand for electricity.

There was considerable evidence that the situation is not critical except in what it may possibly bring later on. Mr. Ward of the Edison Company pointed out that there may be more rains, and that even with no more rains the run-off of snows from the mountains

SPEEDIER JUSTICE GIVEN

Crime Commission Shows Time Taken by Trials Halved in Year; Fewer Given Probation

The Crime Commission of Los Angeles yesterday issued the following statement: A survey of conditions pertaining to the enforcement of law in the Superior Courts of Los Angeles county just completed by the Crime Commission of Los Angeles shows two outstanding facts. These are:

First, the life of the average case has been reduced almost 50 per cent in the last year; second, there has been a substantial reduction in recent months in the percentage of cases in which persons convicted of felonies, or who have pleaded guilty to felony charges, were given probation instead of being punished.

STEADY DECREASE

Considering first the element of time in bringing to trial persons charged with crime:

The first survey made by the Crime Commission dealt with conditions existing in the courts in the months of March, April and May, 1923. This investigation, covering all cases appearing in the court minutes during that period, showed that between the filing in the Superior Court of an information charging a person with crime and the returning of a verdict by a jury there elapsed on an average of 110.6 days. The next survey completed by this commission dealt with the months of June, July and August of the same year. It was found that as to cases appearing in the minutes in this period the average time between the filing of an information and the

INCE PURCHASER OF LABORATORY

Producer Said to Have Paid $250,000 for Plant

Printing Unit to be Moved to Culver Studio

Patents, Secret Processes Included in Sale

Purchase of the Hollywood Laboratory Corporation by Thomas H. Ince, motion-picture producer, was announced yesterday by H. D. Lyman, builder of the laboratory. The purchase price paid by the producer is said to be about $250,000.

Mr. Ince will reassemble the equipment of the Hollywood Laboratory at his studio in Culver City, it is said, where he plans to erect one of the most complete motion-picture laboratories in the United States.

The holdings of the old corporation are said to include valuable patents and secret processes for the making of transparency titles, art backgrounds, still photographs, and other photographic art features. Formerly the laboratory was operated on a commercial basis and was at the service of all producers. Mr. Ince is said to have agreed to allow other producers to avail themselves of the process as under the old organization.

One of the feature units of equipment in the Hollywood Laboratory was the patented title printer, said to have been constructed at a cost of $50,000. This printer is said to be the only machinery of its kind and is described as including several printing patents and equipment for the use of the secret process in the making of transparency titles and art background.

SHIP SALVAGE LAND BOUGHT

Greatest Marine Wrecking Concern in Country to be Established at Long Beach

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, March 10.—The Pacific Coast operating base of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Corporation, the greatest marine salvage and wrecking concern in the country, will be located at Long Beach Harbor.

This was disclosed today in the announcement by City Manager Windham that the corporation had purchased ten acres of land at the harbor for $250,000 on which it will erect a number of warehouses. It will maintain here a fleet of salvage and wrecking vessels to be employed along the Pacific Coast and as far west as Hawaii.

The land purchased by the salvage corporation is part of the 240-acre site bought about a year ago by the Pacific Coast Steel Company. It is on the north side of Channel No. 3 and east of the Graham Brothers property at the harbor.

The corporation has been in existence for more than fifty years and has handled many of the most important salvaging projects along the Atlantic Coast. At present it has the contract for salvaging destroyers wrecked off Point Honda.

The negotiations for the land were transacted through D. M. Reynolds of Los Angeles, an official of the Pacific Coast Steel Company, and representatives of the salvaging corporation. Among the directors of the corporation are some of the leading financiers and shipping men of the nation.

go to the police station and report the accident. After waiting three hours for the motorist to report the police commenced a search for him.

Injuries which may prove fatal were received by Robert A. Watkins, 80, of 627 Alpine street in a traffic accident at Ord street and Broadway. The aged victim was struck by an automobile driven by M. Farris of 1342 West Ninety-eighth Place. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where physicians stated he was suffering from a fractured leg and shock.

Because of his advanced age, his condition is critical.

Arthur Bromilow, Jr., 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bromilow of 5514 Manor Drive, Inglewood, was run down and possibly fatally injured yesterday afternoon by a car driven by Russell Rent of 533 Stepney street. The boy was playing in front of his home and is said to have run directly in the path of the machine. He was removed to the Inglewood Hospital, where physicians stated they believed his skull to be fractured.

Mrs. J. J. McConvey, 40 years of age, of 719 South Oxford street, was perhaps fatally injured at Seventh street and Hartford avenue. She was struck down by a car driven by Mrs. Anna E. Barnhill of 960 South Oxford street and sustained a basal skull fracture and a fractured collar bone. She was removed to the Receiving Hospital and later transferred to the Sisters Hospital. Her condition is said to be critical.

Mrs. Barnhill was not held. She told police that Mrs. McConvey had stepped directly in the path of her machine after coming around the rear of a street car.

JUSTICE HERE IS SPEEDED UP

jury verdict was 98.6 days. A third survey of this commission dealt with the months of September, October and November, 1923, and whowed that the time had been reduced to 35.5 days. A survey just completed covers the months of December, 1923, and January and February of the current year. This shows that on an average in the period just covered there elapsed between the filing of an information and a jury verdict only 58.2 days. By this means the Crime Commission has obtained knowledge as to exact conditions for a full year. In the last quarter of that year by comparison with the first quarter the life of the average criminal case in the Los Angeles Superior Courts has been cut 52.4 days.

There has been a great improvement also in recent months in the matter of granting continuances. In the months of March, April and May, 1923, on an average there were 1.35 continuances of a criminal case before it reached a jury. In the months of December, 1923, and January and February, 1924, there were 1.02 continuances. This shows an improvement of nearly 25 per cent.

SPEED NECESSARY

The Crime Commission believes that this cutting of time is of the greatest importance and feels that it must cause a great deal of satisfaction to all law-abiding citizens. This commission from the beginning of its activities has been of the opinion that speedy trials for persons charged with crime were a necessity if crime was to be reduced in Los Angeles. Investigation of conditions in Los Angeles and in other large American cities led to the belief that a defendant should in the interests of justice, both for the community and him, be brought to trial, unless unusual circumstances obtain, within thirty days.

This commission, therefore, after ascertaining that on an average cases were dragging in the courts of this county and that there were many unnecessary delays which operated to the advantage of criminal attorneys and guilty men and to the disadvantage of the tax-paying public, began an endeavor to reduce the element of time. In this the Crime Commission met with the hearty co-operation of th judges of the Superior Court. Additional courts were provided and the judges have all expressed themselves as favoring as speedy trials as are consistent with the substantial rights of accused persons.

PROBATION SURVEY

Taking up now the matter of probation:

The Crime Commission has taken at all times, in common with other citizens, a very keen interest in the administration of the probation law of this State. This commission, as it has stated in previous reports, believes there are numerous cases in which probation may properly be granted. It believes that where an offender is extremely young, or where there are extenuating circumstances as to the manner in which the crime was committed, or the circumstances leading up to it, or, in other words, where it appears that the defendant may be reclaimed and made a useful member of society, it is the part of wisdom to grant probation.

On the other hand, it does not believe that where a defendant has shown systematic premeditation and preparation, where the crime has been committed with unusual cruelty or brutality, or where the defendant was armed and therefore a potential murderer, he should be granted probation.

That the public might know the exact facts with relation to the administration of the probation law, the Crime Commission has made two surveys covering the work of the judges of the Superior Court. One of these surveys dealt with the months of September, October and November, 1923. The facts brought out were published by the Crime Commission shortly after the survey was completed. The survey for the latter period has just been completed and the facts shown are now made public. In the months of December, 1923, and January and February, 1924, there were 80 applications for probation granted and 174 denied. The percentage of applications granted was 31.5; that of applications denied, 68.5.

DENVER DISMISSED

In the months of September, October and November, 1923, the Superior judges granted 58 applications for probations or 32.4 per cent. The reduction in the number of applications for probation granted is most apparent in the months of January and February of this year. In January the percentage of applications granted was 22.35 per cent and in February, 27.5 per cent.

It should be borne in mind that there are a number of cases where the judges of the Superior Court denied defendants permission to file applications for probation.

During the periods covered by the surveys above referred to there was no permanent record kept of such denials. The Crime Commission is desirous, and has been desirous, at all times of including in its figures such denials of permission to file applications and an endeavor is being made to work out an arrangement by which records in these matters will be kept.

Hardly less important is the matter of dismissal without trial of felony cases in the Superior Courts. This commission has recognized at all times that there are numerous cases which circumstances make it proper and advisable to dismiss, but feels that all possible care should be taken to see that all defendants who might reasonably be expected to be convicted by juries should be brought to trial. A substantial improvement in this element of law enforcement may be noted by comparison of the figures of the last three months. In the month of December, 1923, there were fifty-nine cases dismissed. In the months of January and February, 1924, there was a sharp reduction, the number of dismissals in each of these two months, being exactly the same, or forty. This reduction in the number of dismissals shows a greater efficiency on the part of the District Attorney's office, this commission believes, inasmuch as the majority of dismissals are made upon the recommendation of the District Attorney and the courts almost invariably take such action as is desired by that official.

FINED FOR GAMBLING

Forty men arrested on gambling charges appeared yesterday before Police Judge Chambers. Nine pleaded not guilty and their cases went over; thirty-one pleaded guilty and were fined $10 each. All were arrested by the vice squad in raids Sunday night.

SMOKE SCREEN EXHIBITION

First Demonstration of Air Fleet on Pacific Coast Arranged for Clover Field on Sunday

Final arrangements for the farewell banquet to the round-the-world flyers were announced yesterday, together with news that the first demonstration on the Pacific Coast of an aerial smoke screen will be given at Clover Field Sunday as part of the big flying program that will precede the departure of the flyers.

Capt. H. N. Nelsen of the army air service left Aberdeen, Md., Saturday in a DeHaviland Four, carrying the smoke screen apparatus, and will arrive here for the performance. The aerial smoke screen is declared to be the most spectacular of air feats. The plane drops behind it as it flies a curtain of dense black, which would hide it completely from a pursuing plane.

NOTED ATHLETE

The screen is similar to the smoke screen laid down by navy destroyers but is produced by a different method. Capt. Nelsen is a California flyer and was formerly a noted athlete at the University of California.

The banquet, which will be at the Miramar Hotel, Santa Monica, at 6:30 p.m. today, will have as guests of honor the four round-the-world pilots and their mechanics; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Clover, parents of Lieut. Greayer Clover, for whom Clover Field was named, and Donald Douglas, designer and builder of the four air cruisers.

INFORMAL DINNER

The dinner will be largely informal and there will be only three speakers. These are Maj. F. L. Martin, commander of the round-the-world squadron; Lieut. C. C. Moseley, commander of Clover Field, and Mayor Steele of Santa Monica.

The army reserve officers who flew seven planes to San Diego for the air circus there Sunday, returned to Clover Field yesterday. The two round-the-world planes remained over a day and will return today. At the same time the last two planes will receive their finishing touches at the Douglas aircraft factory and will be flown to Clover Field. They were to have been delivered yesterday, but remained at the factory for minor changes.

should prevent any serious difficulty until after July.

George M. Wills, general superintendent of the Southern Sierras Power Company of Riverside, which has suffered more than the Edison Company, said there had been a curtailment of 25 per cent among his consumers but that the recent rains helped, although not so much as they helped the Edison system. He said he didn't think a shortage on essential uses probable until after May 1 when the run-off from the mountains will take place. This company has been getting assistance from the Edison Company. In fact, all of the power corporations in the State have been helping each other by an exchange of power, so far as possible, for the general benefit of the State.

CO-OPERATION GIVEN

Contrasted with the attitude of the local Municipal Power Bureau was the declaration made by Addison B. Day, vice-president and general manager of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation. This concern is not affected in the least by the situation since its electricity is manufactured by steam. Mr. Ready, who presided, asked Mr. Day if his corporation would abide by any restrictions in the use of light should it become necessary later on, and Mr. Day replied that while his concern had used steam equipment against just such an emergency and that such an emergency would work to its advantage by contrast with other concerns, his company would co-operate in any general economies if the situation becomes really serious. In this way the corporation would be creating a shortage that did not really exist, but Mr. Day said it would do this to its own injury but for the common good of Southern California. Any restrictions would have to be generally observed, and yet all the municipalities and corporations would enter them voluntarily in similar fashion as they did in the World War period.

It was Arthur G. Arnoll, assistant secretary and manager of the industrial department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who suggested a committee investigation before any action on the matter of an administrator. There was some discussion of the advisability of the power supplying elements refusing to take on new business, but Mr. Arnoll objected to this.

"This is a city of 1,000,000 population, many who work with their hands," he said, "and in any preference manufacturing should be like agriculture—both are creators and should be the last to suffer. If necessary, I know our residents will dim the light in their homes before letting agriculture and manufacturing suffer."

J. J. Duel of the California Farm Bureau similarly urged that agriculture be protected, pointing out that a whole crop can be lost because of the failure of one irrigation. He will serve on the investigating committee.

Dr. Haynes attempted to show that the Edison Company was two-faced, since at the meeting it declared the situation was not serious and yet had sent out requests into some rural districts for economies. It, however, was brought out that these requests had been sent out before the recent rains, whereupon Dr. Haynes tried to belittle the benefits of the rains.

"Poof," he exclaimed, with a wave of his hand, "what is an inch's rain? Nothing!"

Mr. Matthews replied that the rain had been of nearly two inches, and that it had amounted to a great deal in its effect on electrical production, as the Edison Company's charts and data showed.

Mr. Ready said that the power companies of the State already were exchanging current so far as is practicable. The difficulty is that there are two frequencies used in California: In the north it is of 60 cycles; the Edison, municipal Los Angeles and Pasadena basis is 50 cycles, and San Diego is 60 cycles. Exchange requires frequency changing plants, several of which already are in operation, but there is a limit for mechanical reasons to the co-operation. The Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation had been lending its surplus steam-generated electricity, except at the peak hours of the day, to the Edison Company, and the Edison Company in turn has lent to the Southern Sierras Company and sold to the city under contract.

POWER IS CUT OFF BY BLAST

mediately took up the work of the municipal lines. At 5 o'clock the Edison company was supplying practically the entire city and was still helping at 6:30 p.m.

Officials of the Power Bureau declared that an accurate estimate of the damage done was impossible last night but it was believed that it would amount to several thousand dollars.

Several of the injured men were treated at the Receiving Hospital and others, not so seriously burned, received medical attention at the power plant and were taken to their homes.

POWER SAVERS WASTE LIGHTS

Conferees Silent Regarding Economy as Sunlight is Let In

At the Railroad Commission hearing on power conservation yesterday much was said about unnecessary waste of electric light. Reasonable economy was urged by all.

Near the close of the meeting somebody discovered that every electric light in the room was burning and that every shade of the many windows was drawn and that such had been the case since the meeting began.

The lights promptly were snapped off, the window shades raised and California sunlight most eloquently flooded the room. For the rest of the meeting nothing further was said about light economy.

JAZZ NUMBERS ENLIVEN RADIO

Bill Hatch and Arthur Hill Prove Popularity

Programs of Music on Ether Lulled to Sleep

The "Music Trust" Firms Resign from Body

"Short and snappy" described the single hour that The Times radio was on the air yesterday. After Raymond Hill brought a flattened smile into play with his saxophone pieces of jam, "Not Here, But There—Fifty Miles from Nowhere."

Bill Hatch on the piano, true to his name, hatched out a series of his own compositions for the occasion and had it not been for the soothing influence of Ferris B. Hite's talk on "Truth in Advertising" and the dignified presence of Perry Waldner at the microphone, in all probability the radio world have been marooned by the tide of laughter. Near the end of the program Arthur Hill introduced a number, "Buck Wheat Blues." Bill Hatch introduced his own composition, "Radio Lullaby," which has great promise of popularity. One listener-in remarked that this hour was "An Oasis of Pep in a Desert of Gloom."

MEN DESCRIPTIVE

According to multitudes of letters there are thousands who when their receiving sets wired so that the listener can retire and let the radio sing them to sleep. Frank Wellman, jazz tenor, who broke on the air Wednesday night, recited a poem through the mail addressed to him that indicates radio is very popular. Here it is:

Just way between the sheets,
Lulled by the strains of the air,
Thrill at first I am dreaming—
Oh, no, 'tis your voice so fair,
Stirred by its softness and sweetness
And its gentle appeal to me,
I hang ears and seems bewitched
And listen in ecstacy.

REGULATIONS FILED

The fad "Music Trust" is on the wane was indicated by the refusal of a notice that the publishing houses, Waterson, Berlin & Snyder and Will Rossiter have resigned from the organization that has tried to put a muzzle on radio. This substituted the event by broadcasting a recent hit of Waterson, Berlin and Snyder, "Dream Daddy." That members of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers resent the broader interpretation placed upon their out-of-date copyright laws by certain officials of the society is denied.

Those who were pleased with Bill Hatch should be sure to hear Bill Hatch and Charlie Wellman on the air Wednesday night. Charlie Wellman is going to remain in Chicago for a few days and all who cannot get eastern stations on their sets should not miss the opportunity to hear this popular performer.

Man Asserts Death Threat Made by Trio

An asserted attempt to kill Frank Dilio of 1331 Henry street was under investigation yesterday by Hollenbeck division police.

Dilio informed police that while he was returning home late Sunday night three Italians in an automobile overhauled him. One of them leaped out of the machine and stopped him, Dilio stated. The man was armed, Dilio said, and accused him of being a police informer.

Dilio denied this, he said, but the three men seemed determined to kill him.

"This is as good a time as any to 'bump him off,'" one of the men in the car said to his companion on the sidewalk. "Let's get rid of him and beat it," according to Dilio.

Dilio said that when he heard this he decided to take a chance. He tore himself from the grasp of the man holding him and fled, leaping over a number of fences and going straight to the Hollenbeck Police Station.

WOMAN SEEKS BALM BASED ON HER ARREST

Elizabeth Dudley, who said she was secretary for a number of years to one of the officers of the Southern California Gas Company, yesterday filed suit for $20,000 damages against Frank and Emily McKenzie, alleging the defendants conspired to cause her arrest on a charge of petty larceny. Miss Dudley asserted she was arrested at the instance of McKenzie December 14, 1923, but that she was acquitted of the charge in Police Court. She stated she had lost her position because of her asserted false arrest and that her reputation had been damaged by the alleged action of the defendants.

Follette Case Bribe Charges Off Calendar

Charges of bribery against Channing Follette, former presiding justice of Los Angeles township, were ordered off the calendar yesterday by Judge Keetch, upon motion of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ostrom. Follette was convicted of perjury in Superior Court recently, following an investigation into the furnishing of asserted "straw" bonds for Sam Johnson and J. Gilbert, then accused of grand larceny in connection with an asserted bunko case. He has appealed this case.

The bribery indictment charged that Follette, through another person, attempted to bribe Charles Reimer, an investigator for the District Attorney, to influence him in connection with the charges against C. V. Lindquist, then accused of subornation of perjury.

Follette was tried on a charge of forgery in connection with the making of the asserted "straw" bonds, but was acquitted.

Man Arrested in Asserted Knife Attack on Girl

Joe Coljok was arrested late Sunday night and lodged in the City Jail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. The suspect is asserted to have attacked Miss Lena Frazier with a knife near her home at 1514 Pleasant avenue.

Miss Frazier managed to elude him, according to police, and fled screaming to a neighbor's house. The suspect was cornered by a number of men in a vacant lot and held at bay until Patrolmen Bozar and Gorman arrived.

The officers stated that Coljok refused to give up his knife and that they were forced to wrest the weapon from him and take him to jail.

THE EASY MONEY

The Teapot Dome scandal is said to have hung up Sinclair's oil negotiations with the Italian government. By this time the Italian officials are certain that they should have more money.

THE SHELL GAME

Eggs have been selling at low prices, but are now advancing on the report that Explorer Roy Chapman Andrews was asking $5000 apiece for his dinosaur eggs. If he can get that for eggs that are 10,000,000 years old the fresh ranch offerings should be worth a heap of money.

RED GASOLINE

It is being urged by one of the States that all commercial gasoline be colored red in order to prevent its being mistaken for kerosene, water or synthetic gin. There are hazards about the use of gasoline that might be lessened if there was a standard color for it. But if the juice should be pinked the bootleggers would be selling it for dago red instead of Holland gin.

BURNT HUSBANDS

A southern lady poured kerosene over her sleeping husband and then touched him off with a match. Now she is accused of trying to get rid of him, although she explains that she only wanted to start a bonfire. But it seems that using husbands for bonfires is also against the law. Legislatures have been quite diligent in providing laws for the protection and preservation of husbands. A wife may scorch a steak, but she cannot burn a husband at one.

WEALTH AND TAXATION

The people of the country are paying nearly $8,000,000,000 a year for taxes of all kinds, but it is conceded that the forthcoming government report on the wealth of the country will show Americans to be worth a full $400,000,000,000. If the people pay only one-fiftieth of the actual value of all property as their annual tax bill they are presumed to be well off, but that is no reason why the government should not make a serious and sustained effort in the direction of economies. It is undoubtedly true that the people are paying more for taxes than they should. Thrift is not practiced in political circles.

MAY HAVE SLUMPED

The loyal champions of William Gibbs McAdoo assert there is no foundation in the gossip that their leader has lost any of his strength with the so-called labor vote. The railway brotherhoods are declared to be still for him to a man, but it is felt that there has been considerable defection on the part of the Federation of Labor—especially of those workers who are clamoring for a modification of the Volstead Act. When he was in a Washington hotel Mr. McAdoo is said to have bluntly announced to some interrogators: "I am dry." If he had winked at the time it might have been interpreted as a high sign to the bootlegger, but the candidate was said to have been severely in earnest.

OLD AND NEW WAGE

The average wage of factory employees in New York State is now $28.90 a week. Before the war it was $12.55. The workers are getting more than twice as much as in other days, but the Lord knows they need the money. The situation in New York is fairly representative of the rest of the country. We are paying the highest wages of any nation in the world and American workers are living better than the toilers of any other race. The two naturally go together. Some economists assert that wages are too high for the good of the country, but they will never be able to convince the working man of this conjecture. On the part of capital there is not so much objection to the wages paid as to the amount of labor delivered. Some of the bosses say they kick at paying $2 an hour for florid conversation.

CATCHING COLDS

Catching cold is the favorite sport in America and, according to the medical journals, scientists are trying to find out how many ways it can be accomplished. But they are trying to beat the game. The common everyday variety of cold is blamed for about 87 per cent of the unhappiness and discomfort of America. It keeps people apologizing and it impairs efficiency in every department of human effort. Courtships have been wrecked upon a nasal reef. Everybody speaks flippantly of a cold—except the man who has one. He may feel as miserable as a novice in a hair suit. Now several thousand investigators in the medical profession are classifying colds and collecting evidence concerning them. They lead into so many other things that the importance of trapping them when they are young cannot be overestimated. They should be snared in their incipiency—before they have had a chance to assume the dread proportions of pneumonia, pleurisy, lumbago or other physical embroilments. If science can catch colds before the patients catch them the world will be as fair and sweet as a Pasadena morning. If the doctors can check colds on the first day much can be forgiven them.

"THE TIMES" AND BOULDER DAM

The widening and deepening interest in the Southwest and in the country at large in the project to control and conserve the waters of the Colorado River is gratifying and encouraging to those who have for many years advocated the project and urged its consummation. The interest now being taken in this great undertaking is particularly gratifying to The Times because this journal has steadfastly and consistently advocated the project since it was first suggested and has devoted hundreds of columns of space to informative articles and maps setting forth the advantages to be gained and urging that the work be undertaken with all reasonable speed.

Only a few of the people now actively interested in the project have been in touch with all the developments. For the benefit of those who have not followed the Colorado River discussion during the past ten years or so and because of various misleading and false assertions The Times herewith presents in epitomized form a restatement of its position on the project in its various phases.

The Times is and always has been wholeheartedly in favor of adequate control of the Colorado River to the end that flood menace be permanently removed, additional water be provided for irrigation and hydroelectric power generated on a large scale.

Because the Colorado River is an interstate and an international stream The Times believes that the government of the United States should build, or in any event control, any dam or dams that shall be built, such control to be exercised either through the Federal Power Commission or some special commission to be created for the purpose.

The Times accepts the compact arrived at by the Colorado River Commission and believes it is a wise and logical move preparatory to the actual undertaking of the work.

The Times believes that river control should be effected: primarily to protect Imperial Valley from the flood menace; secondly, to provide additional water for irrigation and thereby increase production; thirdly, to generate power for the use of the whole Pacific Slope and for the electrification of transcontinental railroads.

The Times assents to the theory that the river, completely controlled, will provide water enough and power enough for all the uses to which water and power can be reasonably applied.

The Times goes as far as government engineers and other engineers in declaring for the Boulder Canyon dam site as the best available site on the river for the initial dam. When the additional surveys under the direction of the Department of the Interior confirm the reports now at hand and government engineers and other eminent engineers, including William Mulholland, pass final judgment in favor of the Boulder dam site The Times will unqualifiedly accept that judgment. Selection of a dam site is a matter to be determined by competent engineers rather than by politicians.

Again relying on the judgment of Mr. Mulholland and other competent engineers, The Times favors the construction of a high dam at Boulder Canyon, i.e. 600 to 700 feet, one that will be adequate to take care of the silt, to conserve an adequate supply of water and capable of generating a considerable volume of power.

The Times, as stated many times, believes that the project is so big and of such vital importance to the whole West that it should be undertaken and carried through on its merits without being handicapped by local or irrelevant projects or schemes.

The Times is opposed to the Swing-Johnson bill now pending before Congress mainly because it attaches to the measure a provision for the construction of an all-American canal. Relying upon the judgment of engineers in whom it has confidence, The Times believes the canal proposed would cost an enormous sum and would impose far too heavy a burden on the Imperial Valley lands. The hardships that would be entailed by the construction of an expensive canal through the sand dunes would fall on the land owners on the American side of the international boundary line and would not adversely affect, as has been erroneously stated, lands in Mexico.

The Times, similarly, would deplore the attachment to the general project of any other local project in any way that would handicap the main program.

The Times favors and supports Mr. Mulholland's plan to bring water to Southern California by means of an aqueduct from the Colorado River on a basis fair and equitable to other Southern California communities and in accordance with such fair and legal agreement between States as shall be decided upon.

The Times is opposed to any effort by the Los Angeles Bureau of Power and Light or any other interests to construct and exploit a dam on the Colorado River financed by the city of Los Angeles and exploited for Los Angeles to the exclusion of the rights of other communities.

The position of The Times, it will be noted, is supported in important phases by resolutions passed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and by the California Development Association and by the following statement made in the March number of the California Real Estate by Frederick Faulkner, manager of the California State Approved Land Settlement Association:

> Thus it is made plain that Boulder Dam, or its absolute equivalent in size and efficiency, is the heart of the plan to conserve and control the waters of the Colorado River. That completed and the lesser phases of the problem will be comparatively simple. All lesser questions, such as an all-American canal, low level dams, theories of amateur and other engineers out of distinguished employ, political controversies between individuals and groups of individuals, are utterly inconsequential when ranged alongside the prime and vital question of a dam capable of holding at the minimum a season's flow of the Colorado River. The intrusion of these smaller and incidental issues to the embarrassment and delay of the construction of such a dam is therefore harmful, destructive and reprehensible.

JACOB M. SCHNEIDER

Experience has taught the world that wherever there appears a big commercial or industrial institution somewhere in a silent chamber within is concealed a big man. Such establishments do not grow of themselves; they are the visible expression of the invisible activity, vision and resourcefulness of a human brain.

Such a man was Jacob M. Schneider, the head of the mercantile establishment known as the J. W. Robinson Company. For more than a quarter of a century he was president of the company, which kept in the forefront of the remarkable growth and expansion of Los Angeles during that period. His name and activities were associated with many interests and movements that have contributed to the metamorphosis of Los Angeles from a village to a metropolis.

Jacob Schneider possessed character, vision and faith in Los Angeles. He was ever building for the future, never content with half-way measures of success. About him were associated men who grew with him, to whom he intrusted responsibilities and who are trained and equipped to continue the work which he initiated and directed for almost a generation.

Los Angeles is great because it has been rich in men of the caliber of Jacob M. Schneider. The old generation passes, but on the foundation that it builded other men are completing the edifice that is now the pride and the glory of the Southland.

PERILS OF PROSPERITY

Before the days of big business, when a statesman had served his people at Washington, he withdrew to the home of his ancestors and passed the remainder of his days in dignified association with his memories. Now he goes to Washington to satisfy his ambition and, after spending all his money in social splendors, he takes some dinky throne in the Temple of Mammon in order to keep his family from the hardships and vicissitudes of poverty. The undersecretaries in the various departments of the government are largely alert and promising souls who serve the nation only for the prestige it gives them in the business world.

It is considered perfectly proper for a Cabinet officer to accept a portfolio with the idea of later turning his publicity to advantage in some profitable connection in the realm of finance. Almost any responsible officer in the Treasury Department can step into a bank presidency. Our attorney-generals usually pass into an environment of assured competence when their public duties are ended. They spend their declining days in furnishing aid and comfort to a few billion-dollar corporations.

All this is defended upon the explanation that a man who serves the government does not get much salary and is compelled to spend what he does receive in maintaining his prestige and standing. Therefore, when his official connection has ceased, it is a duty he owes his family and his fellows to make those business attachments that guarantee the largest immediate return. It is sometimes hard for an outsider to understand why a man who has been a specialist in some high government office should be worth $50,000 or $100,000 a year to some corporation that makes no use of him save for the name and influence.

Nobody blames a man who gets the top of the market for his services and yet it would hurt American ideals to find that Daniel Webster was getting $100,000 a year from the Universal Oil Company or that Patrick Henry was under a $50,000 retainer to the shipping trust. Our political morals are at the ebb. We love to think of the old-timers who kept themselves aloof from the contacts of Mammon, but we expect the present-day statesmen to have a keen perception of his value and to reach out and grasp all he can. That is human nature as it appears under the modern searchlight.

PROPHETIC WORDS

We do not read the great poets nearly enough nowadays. They have stored up treasures of cheer and inspiration on which we could draw so easily, but in the modern hurly-burly we forget them. Take these lines of Keats's, for example:

"And there are other spirits standing apart
Upon the forehead of the age to come.
These, these will give the world another heart
And other pulses. Hear ye not the hum
Of mighty workings in the human mart?
Listen a while, ye nations, and be dumb."

Could anything be more comforting to the man who sincerely believes the world is growing better steadily and ardently hopes it is on the verge of the age when it will organize to banish war and the causes of war?

Those lines were written in 1817. Since then the world has made great advances toward human justice and human betterment. The men then standing on the forehead of the age to come have seen their dreams realized, or their descendants have. The men who then derided their visions as yearnings for the impossible, who declared that so long as human nature existed selfishness and might must rule the world, have died and been forgotten. The forward march of right and reason has been steady, even though they still have a long, long way to go.

The spirits now standing on the forehead of the age to come are not so lonely as they were. They are becoming an innumerable host. And the world will keep on advancing, as it always has advanced.

HOW IT STARTED

BY JEAN NEWTON

"Better Half"

The origin of this term, so popularly used in a sense of witticism by a husband referring to his wife or by a wife referring to her husband, dates back several hundred years.

We find its earliest recorded use in the well-known pastoral poem, "Arcadia," written by Sir Philip Sidney during the short interval which he spent in disfavor and retirement from the Court of Elizabeth. It was published posthumously by his sister in 1590.

In "Arcadia" we find these lines:

"My deare, my better halfe, I find
I must leave thee now."

RIPPLING RHYMES

THE SCOFFLAW

The scoffaw took his morning drink of dark and deadly rum and said in bitter tones, "I think the last disgrace has come, for, called a scoffaw, strike me pink, I shudder and succumb. I've emptied many a jug and vat and faced men unafraid, but when a faked-up word like that is on my person laid I sit me down upon my hat and call for lemonade. They've called me soak and bitters-hound, they've called me vag and bum; such raw and ribald names abound for those who lap up rum; and still upon my bootleg round the dealers saw me come. They've called me every beastly name the lexicons provide, but I have had small sense of shame, have even held some pride; but I must quit my sinful game when 'scoffaw' is applied. I have the true musician's ear that discords shock and bruise, although it has been dulled by beer and bootleg brands of booze; and 'scoffaw' fills my soul with fear and jars me to my shoes. It is a harsh, discordant word that flouts descriptive pens; and it recalls, wherever heard, the song of guinea hens or that less-famous jackass bird that haunts the jungle fens. So I must quit my evil course and cut out gin and beer, and strive to be a driving force of righteousness, it's clear, lest some one, in a whisper hoarse, says 'scoffaw' in my ear."

BELGIUM AGAIN THE PAWN

BY EUGENE J. YOUNG

Napoleon, who set out to dominate Europe, met his Waterloo in Belgium. William of Germany coveted control of Belgium and this greedy desire cost him his throne. Pages of history contain many records of vast ambitions dashed on the plains of this little country.

Premier Poincare and Marshal Foch for years have been pictured by European writers and cartoonists as emulators of Napoleon; desirous of establishing the domination of continental Europe which he failed to gain for his country. Are Poincare and Foch now to meet their Waterloo in Belgium?

For at this moment Belgium is again—as it has been many times before—a pawn in a great game of statesmanship. How that pawn moves may decide the fate of the plans for a general settlement of the problems which have vexed Europe since the peace conference. The last four years France has seemed to have the power to move that pawn as it pleased. Recent events have taken away that power, at least temporarily. Should anti-French statesmen gain the chance to move the pawn the whole balance of Europe will be altered and France will have to think seriously of compromising her vast designs.

Prospect of Upset

What has happened to offer prospect of a decisive upset in the political situation can be briefly put thus:

France, playing on fears of German revenge, some three years ago, drew Belgium into a definite military alliance whereby this neighbor was divorced from its old entente with Britain and practically made a vassal of the Paris government.

Belgium made possible the occupation of the Ruhr district by supporting France, not only in the Reparations Commission, but in the military advance. Despite every pressure, the Brussels government has since upheld that policy.

The London government has used every possible inducement to get Belgium to change its attitude. Germany has seconded these efforts by offering special favors in reparations and other settlements. The Vatican, backed by Italy and Spain, has exerted influence in the same direction. In vain, until now.

And now the Belgian Parliament has rebelled against an economic treaty which Paris was trying to force upon the country. The pro-French ministry has been overthrown by a majority which has set out to resist French control of the country. That majority is undoubtedly backed by an anti-French majority of the people. France tried to get too much and has created a situation which even the Paris statesmen admit is serious.

Belgians Fearful

The treaty which brought about this condition is a typical example of that French psychology which leads the nation to extreme use of power, so often with fatal results.

Belgium has a tariff for revenue only. France is protectionist. Under the present tariffs imports from France are double the Belgian exports to that country. This adverse balance of trade has tended to keep the Belgian franc below the French franc. As this is written they are quoted: French 4.18 cents, Belgian 3.44 cents. Not content with this advantage, Paris, secure in the feeling that Belgium was bound by the necessity of upholding its big neighbor, undertook to impose heavy reductions of Belgian duties on French wines, perfumes and other luxuries, while only slight reductions of French tariff duties on Belgian products were to be granted in return.

Belgians saw a further disadvantage for their finances. But this was not the great objection. As the powerful General Flemish Alliance put it, many of the people feared "French commercial interests would practically dominate our commercial system" and "such treaty would be the first step toward a customs union with protectionist France and dangerous to the political independence of the country."

Further behind was the knowledge that the Rhur and Rhineland can never be fully exploited for the benefit of France—as powerful French industrial and political interests plan they shall be—without employing the Belgian railroads and canal system as outlets to the North Sea. Germany wafted Belgium in order to get these outlets. French imperialist ambitions turn to the same direction.

Outside Statesmen Active

Statesmen of other nations who were seeking a way to force France to consent to a settlement which will permit Germany to recover were not slow to take advantage of this situation. They brought strong pressure to bear on Belgian leaders and political factions. Lord Curzon was the leading figure in this movement until he fell, and the new Labor government in London has apparently followed in his footsteps. For centuries it has been British policy to guard the independence of Belgium, making it a buffer state against the Austrian and later Prussian advance to the Southern North Sea; and also making it a place of entry for any necessary operations against France. The British were able to point out that they had proved they would defend Belgium without annexation.

What America has said is a secret; but it has been bruited about Belgium that since the war we feel we have a vital interest in the independence of the country and would have something strong to say if Germany ever again should attempt invasion.

Berlin has proffered guarantees that she will respect the independence of the country, do all in her power to repair damages done in the war and atone for outrages; never again declaring a treaty of guarantee to be merely a "scrap of paper."

Thus heavy blows have been delivered to the strongest French argument—the peril of another invasion. As the Flemish [illegible] the population (mostly [illegible] is traditionally pro-[illegible] been necessary only to [illegible] roads on the Walloon [illegible] Catholic and [illegible] French.

Vatican's Influence

The campaign to [illegible] object has been helped [illegible] the influence of the Vatican [illegible] in lies one of the most [illegible] developments of [illegible] in late years.

Belgium turned from [illegible] France in 1920—as I told it [illegible] time—because Leger [illegible] busily engaged in trying to [illegible] a combination in Germany [illegible] which would divide the [illegible] peoples and practically [illegible] political power of the [illegible] This combination was to [illegible] Britain, a revived Germany [illegible] was to include Austria, [illegible] dominated by pro-Catholic [illegible] ed by Nitti, Greece, the Balkan [illegible] vian countries and other [illegible] ages. The attempt of [illegible] George to force Catholic [illegible] to surrender to papal [illegible] alarmed the Catholic world [illegible] made up its quarrel with [illegible] tican, became again the [illegible] the church and united on a [illegible] erful combination that [illegible] George's plans very [illegible]

But, as so often before, [illegible] prevailed. She undermined [illegible] insts the Catholic states [illegible] them for her own purposes. The Vatican [illegible] sent to the schism and [illegible] coolness again. France [illegible] new combination with [illegible] Entente (Czecho-Slovakia, [illegible] Slavia and Rumania). [illegible] lean drew general [illegible] Spain, Austria and [illegible] the republics of South and [illegible] America.

British Conservatives [illegible] hastened to undo the [illegible] by Lloyd George by [illegible] George visit the Pope, [illegible] the English Church has [illegible] ing more friendly [illegible] the Roman Church—and it [illegible] marked that negotiations [illegible] carried on with Cardinal [illegible] leader of the Belgian Church.

Hurt by Cartoons

This changed attitude [illegible] nalised last July by the [illegible] tion of the Pope in the [illegible] situation. He prevailed [illegible] many to stop the [illegible] was making to [illegible] the occupying forces and [illegible] nuncios at Paris and [illegible] proach the government [illegible] them to do nothing [illegible] hinder or delay it [illegible] standing with Germany [illegible] sent a courteous [illegible] moderation. Poincare [illegible] intervention. That [illegible] the French government [illegible] Catholics, not only [illegible] side Belgium.

The visit of Aristide [illegible] de Rivera to Rome, the [illegible] ance made between [illegible] Italy and the [illegible] it was directed against [illegible] bitions awakened [illegible] folly of its recall of [illegible] Hasty efforts were [illegible] up differences; and [illegible] breach of [illegible] healed by [illegible] Church a standing [illegible] lar to that it has [illegible] States.

But, so far as the [illegible] gium was concerned, [illegible] ance came too late. [illegible] vote on the [illegible] Catholic party in Parliament [illegible] wide open and [illegible] members joined [illegible] lists to overthrow the [illegible] of Premier Theunis and [illegible] French policy.

Whether Paris will [illegible] woo Belgium back [illegible] seen. If that is [illegible] France will find [illegible] of control of the Rhineland [illegible] mission. She has lost [illegible] through the support of [illegible] and the lukewarmness [illegible] If she loses it—and [illegible] the Rhineland Commission [illegible] she can bid goodby [illegible] tions to absorb the [illegible] Rhineland.

vasion. As the Flemish section of the population (mostly Protestant) is traditionally pro-British, it has been necessary only to make its roads on the Walloon section, Catholic and traditionally pro-French.

Vatican's Influence

The campaign to accomplish the object has been helped greatly by the influence of the Vatican. Much in lies one of the most interesting developments of European politics in late years.

Belgium turned from Britain to France in 1920—as I told at the time—because Lloyd George was busily engaged in trying to set up a combination in Central Europe which would divide the Catholic peoples and practically wreck the political power of the Vatican. This combination was to consist of Britain, a revived Germany which was to include Austria, and be dominated by non-Catholics headed by Nitti, Greece, the Scandinavian countries and other small ages. The attempt of Lloyd George to force Catholic Poland to surrender to soviet Russia alarmed the Catholic world. France made up its quarrel with the Vatican, became again the defender of the church and rallied such a powerful combination that Lloyd George's plans were wrecked.

But, as so often before, France presumed. She undertook to dominate the Catholic states and use them for her own political purposes. The Vatican refused to assent to the schemes and there was coolness again. France secured a new combination with the Little Entente (Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania.) The Vatican drew around itself Bavaria, Spain, Austria and Hungary and the republics of South and Central America.

British Conservative statesmen hastened to undo the harm done by Lloyd George by having King George visit the Pope. Likewise the English Church has been making more friendly relations with the Roman Church—and it is remarked that negotiations have been carried on with Cardinal Mercier, leader of the Belgian Catholics.

Hurt by Curtness to Pope

This changed situation was crystallized last July by the intervention of the Pope in the Ruhr situation. He prevailed upon Germany to stop the "sabotage" which was making so much trouble for the occupying forces; and he denounces at Paris and Brussels approach the governments and urge them to do nothing which will hinder or delay a speedy understanding with Germany. Briand sent a courteous reply promising moderation. Poincare rebuffed the intervention. That curtness by the French government estranged Catholics, not only outside but inside Belgium.

The visit of Alfonso and Queen de Rivera to Rome, the close alliance made between Spain and Italy and the plain intimation that it was directed against French ambitions awakened France to the folly of its rebuff of the Pope. Hasty efforts were made to patch up differences; and in January of the breach of nineteen years was healed by giving the Chamber of Church a standing in France similar to that it has in the United States.

But, so far as the effect on Belgium was concerned, the reconciliance came too late. In the recent vote on the commercial treaty the Catholic party in Parliament voted wide open and enough of the members joined with the Socialists to overthrow the government of Premier Theunis and the pro-French policy.

Whether Paris will be able to woo Belgium back remains to be seen. If that is not accomplished France will find herself deprived of control of the Reparations Commission. She has held this control through the support of Belgium and the lukewarm assent of Italy. If she loses it—and the control of the Rhineland Commission—she can bid goodbye to her ambitions to absorb the Ruhr and Rhineland.

All of which gives real hope that the Dawes Commission will be able to do something concrete.

WH Gland Discovery Make Us a Race of Wonder Men?

Recent wonders that have been worked by gland "magic" lead some to believe we shall soon witness a race of wonder men. Recent press dispatches tell of one specialist who has observed great benefits in 1500 cases under treatment; of another leading physician who reports success in 9 cases out of ten, with records kept of over 500 patients taking the glandular treatment. Men from 35 to 75 years of age have regained youthful vigor, strength and "pep" to such an extent that they can perform athletic feats that would put to shame many a young man of twenty.

Through the recent scientific discovery, Glandogen, it is now a simple matter to take glandular treatment. Glandogen is prepared in convenient, compact tablet form, and combines the important elements of vital glands of healthy young animals with other efficacious ingredients. It is prepared in two different forms—one for women and one for men. Glandogen can be procured at Chambers Drug Co., 1st and Broadway; Henderson-Chambers Drug Co., 3rd and Hill; Haney-Chambers Drug Co., 6th and Los Angeles and 7th and San Pedro; in Long Beach at Oakland Drug Co., 211 Pine Ave.; in San Pedro, Wilmington and Torrance at Beacon Drug Stores. DR. O. S. MARDEN TAKEN BY DEATH

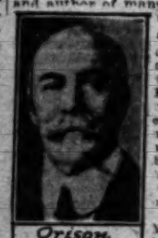
Success Magazine Founder Here for Winter

Ends Comes Before Only Son Can Reach Bed

Own Life Was Inspiration for Many Books

Dr. Orison Swett Marden, founder and editor of Success Magazine and author of many books on personal efficiency and longevity, died yesterday at 2 a.m. at the Clara Barton Hospital. Death came from the effects of an illness that caused an operation to be performed last Monday. He was 75 years of age.



Orison Swett Marden

Although Dr. Marden had been in failing health for several months he was not thought to be in danger until last week. He came here from New York the latter part of January to spend the remainder of the winter with his wife and two daughters. When it became known that he was critically ill, his only son, Orison Swett Marden, Jr., a sophomore in New York University, was sent for. The son will be unable to reach here before Thursday.

LIFE OF SUCCESS

Dr. Marden was born in Thornton, N. H. In 1897 he founded Success Magazine of which he was editor until 1912. After retirement from active connection with the magazine he devoted his attention to writing and at the time of his death had written forty-eight books of optimistic philosophy which have been translated into twenty-five languages.

Dr. Marden's experiences formed the background for his writings, which sought to inspire persons to attain success and happiness. Orphaned at the age of 7 he became a "bound-boy." Through hard work he saved enough to start his education. He took his bachelor of arts degree in the University of Boston and achieved eight university degrees, including those from the Harvard schools of law and medicine.

Among his best known books are "The Secret of Achievement," "Cheerfulness as a Life Power," "Winning Out." "Self Investment," and "Character, the Grandest Thing in the World."

TO BE CREMATED

Mr. Marden was president of the Andine Club, oldest writers' club in New York, for a greater number of years than any other officer and was one of three men on whom honorary membership was conferred. The others being Theodore Roosevelt and Lyman Abbott.

Honors of many kinds came to Dr. Marden during his life in recognition of his writings. He had been honored by potentates and notables of foreign countries, including Queen Victoria, Alfonso of Spain and the Emperor of Japan, who learned English from Dr. Marden's books. Fifteen of his books were translated into German while others are used as textbooks in schools in Spanish-speaking countries.

In accordance with Dr. Marden's request, the body will be cremated. Services will be conducted at the Los Angeles Crematory Thursday at 2 p.m. Mrs. Marden will return to New York with her son, and the younger of the two daughters, Laura, now a student in the Hollywood School for Girls. The older daughter, Mary Newell, will remain here to be graduated in June from the Hollywood High School.

Autoists Bound to Mexico City Will Stop Here

Members of the Hawley expedition, who left Portland last Saturday in what is believed to be the first attempt to travel from the United States to Mexico City and back again by automobile, will arrive here Thursday. The four young men who compose the party will remain here until Sunday night, when they will depart on the second lap of their long trip.

The expedition is sponsored by Willard P. Hawley, Jr., vice-president and general manager of the Hawley Pulp and Paper Company of Foreland; Earl C. Brownlee, Oregon newspaper man; Bud Straight, chief electrician for the company, and H. H. Brownell, motion-picture photographer, are the other members of the party. Motion pictures will be taken by the party both going and coming. The schedule calls for the return of the party to Portland within two months. A public farewell was tendered the members of the party when they left Portland. They carry letters from Secretary of State Hughes, Gov. Walter M. Pierce of Oregon and Mayor Baker of Portland.

The custody of two minor children was granted to Johnson, while the court took the matter of awarding a divorce under advisement.

Violators of Alien Law Get Terms in Jail

Jail sentences imposed on Raymond Gonzales, Jesus Gonzales and Francisco Garcia by Federal Judge Bledsoe yesterday marked the first success of the United States Immigration Department in its effort to check asserted illegal operations of "wildcat" stage lines operating between the Mexican border and Los Angeles. The three defendants, formerly associated in the Gonzales Stage Line, 400½ North Main street, were sentenced to serve eight, two and four months respectively in the Orange County Jail after they pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to violate the immigration law.

The case originated in the Los Angeles immigration office when A. E. Burnett, district director of immigration, learned that Juan Hernandez, now held for deportation, had been smuggled from Mexico through El Paso to Los Nietos.

According to Harry B. Bles, immigration inspector, the department has been trying for some time to obtain evidence of asserted activities of various stage lines in bringing contraband aliens into the United States. The Gonzales line has been out of business since the arrest of the proprietors, according to Inspector Bles.

Driver of Death Truck to Serve Term in Prison

George Thomas, 26-year-old truck driver, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of George Parone, 56, a flagman for the Southern Pacific, yesterday was sentenced by Judge Crail to serve from one to ten years in San Quentin penitentiary.

Thomas was indicted by the county grand jury on counts of manslaughter, driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated and failure to stop and render aid after an accident. He pleaded guilty to the first count and the remaining charges were dismissed on motion of the District Attorney.

According to the police, Parone died of injuries he received December 4, 1923, when he was struck by a truck driven by Thomas. The probation department reported that Thomas had admitted drinking three pints of whisky prior to the time the accident occurred.

LEGAL BATTLE ON OVER SEWER

Los Angeles and Venice Ask Restraining Orders

Temporary Decrees Brings on Unique Conflicts

Two Rulings Sanction and Forbid More Work

A legal war over the construction of the proposed north outfall sewer was precipitated yesterday with the filing of two suits for injunctions, for by the city of Venice, asking that Los Angeles be restrained from continuing with excavating and other work in certain streets of the beach city, and the other by the Los Angeles municipality seeking to enjoin the Venice authorities from interfering with the progress of work on the sewer.

Both of the petitions were taken before Presiding Judge York, who granted each of the litigants a temporary restraining order, made returnable before Judge Smith the 17th inst. The temporary orders are of a conflicting character, due to legal reasons pointed out from the bench.

The complaint filed by Venice was directed at the City Council, the Board of Public Works, City Engineer Griffin and others, and set forth that the city was about to proceed with excavating work on several streets in Venice without first having obtained any franchise, easement or other legal right to prosecute the work. The streets mentioned are Vista del Mar avenue, San Antonio street, New avenue, Moscow avenue, Bolt avenue, Sterry avenue, Patterson avenue, Gillis avenue, Napoleon avenue, Waterloo avenue, Redlands avenue, Freeman avenue, Fleming avenue, Rees avenue, Sherman avenue, Fowler avenue and Pershing Drive. The action was prepared by the law firm of Fredericks & Hanna.

WARNING RECITED

The suit was supported by an affidavit of Acting City Manager Griffin of the beach city, who set worth that the officials of Venice had notified Los Angeles several months ago that the city would first have to obtain a legal right to excavate or undermine the streets before continuing with the work. This notice was said to have been ignored, and the plaintiff was not cognizant of the city's intention to work on the streets until ten days ago, Griffin said. When apprised of the situation, the affidavit continued, the Board of Trustees of the beach municipality voted to take action to prevent the proposed extension of the sewer through the district. It was in line with this action that the suit was said to have been prepared.

The action filed by Los Angeles was directed at Mayor Gerety, the Board of Trustees and Chief of Police H. H. McCausland of Venice.

The assertion was made that the city proposed constructing a sewer right of way a distance of 3800 feet through the city of Venice, a large portion of which was run through a tunnel. The plaintiff claimed it had permission to proceed with the work from the Beach Land Company, which was said to have dedicated the land in question to public use, reserving the right of construction of streets, mains and sewers.

ASK RIGHT TO WORK

Progress on the tunnel was said to have continued uninterrupted until last Saturday, at which time the Police Chief of the beach city was declared to have taken steps to prevent the employees of the plaintiff from entering the tunnel. The city asked that it be allowed to continue with the work on the ground that a temporary cessation of its activities would mean the destruction of the tunnel through the sifting in of sand.

In granting a temporary restraining order to each of the parties involved, Judge York created "a unique situation in legal procedure." The judge said he was compelled to grant the conflicting orders as each of the litigants had made an affirmative showing of asserted facts in support of the contentions set forth in the petitions. By means of the orders, the city of Venice is restrained from interfering with the city's work on the sewer project, while Los Angeles is at the same time restrained from continuing with the work of building the sewer right of way.

SERIES OF BATTLES

The new legal battle over the outfall sewer is only one of a series that date back to the summer of 1921 when residents of Venice brought suit for an injunction to restrain the city from permitting sewage to flow into Ballona Creek near Culver City. The plaintiffs in that action stated that the sewage found its way into Playa del Rey lagoon and thence through the canal system of the beach city.

The case was heard before Superior Judge J. Perry Wood, who granted the injunction with certain remedial measures in favor of the city. The plaintiffs later caused the members of the Board of Public Works to be cited into court for contempt for asserted failure to comply with the terms of the injunction. Judge Wood subsequently fined the members of the Board of Public Works.

This action tended to speed up work on the proposed outfall sewer, the City Council immediately voting sums for preliminary work. Another angle of the Ballona Creek controversy developed when landowners of the district filed damage claims against the city on the ground that the outfall into the creek was disadvantageous to property values and the life and health of the residents of the contingent territory.

VOCATIONAL BUREAU URGED FOR SCHOOLS

A well-equipped vocational bureau as part of the school system of every community was advocated by Mme. Anna Till, psychoanalyst, in a lecture on "Education," given at the Ebell Club. "There should be a vocational bureau equipped with every facility and scientific device for testing the physical, intellectual and emotional make-up of children," said Mrs. Hall.

"The present century is the most progressive in history in all that pertains to the harnessing of the forces of nature and making them obedient to the will of man, but society is very short-sighted as yet in its attitude toward the development of human resources."

LAW ENDS YOUTHFUL ROMANCE

Court Awards Bride of Six Days to Custody of Her Mother

The law stepped in yesterday and ended the romance of James Thompson of 3614 St. Charles street, and his bride of six days, Helen Dorothy McCann. The youthful love affair of the couple was brought to an abrupt conclusion when Judge Archbald of the Juvenile Court awarded the custody of the young wife to her mother, Mrs. Daisy Louise McCann of San Francisco, an actress.

Mrs. McCann sought the custody of her daughter in a writ of habeas corpus, which she sued out on the ground that Thompson had illegally abducted and married the girl.

The girl had been living with her grandmother in this city at the time she became acquainted with Thompson, it was said. It was brought out that Mrs. McCann had separted from her husband nine years ago, the court awarding her custody of her daughter.

Mrs. McCann stated her daughter and Thompson had procured a marriage license at the Courthouse, the 4th inst., the girl representing herself as 18 years of age. The mother declared she had not given her consent to the match and it was indicated she would bring action to annul the marriage.

Why physicians approve of Agrilin

FOR years two substances, Agar-Agar (Japanese Sea Moss) and Mineral Oil, have been used by physicians for constipation because unlike physics and cathartics, they contain no irritant drugs.

When Agrilin, an emulsion of these two substances, was finally perfected, it was tested in hundreds of hospital cases with splendid results. Agrilin was then recognized by the medical profession as the ideal mechanical corrective that could be safely used by anyone without fear of harmful after effects.

A drugless way to relieve constipation

AGRILIN is a snow-white, creamy emulsion. It is tasteless and odorless. The Agar-Agar corrects the tendency that mineral oil has to seepage when used alone. But Agar-Agar accomplishes far more than this.

It has the remarkable property of swelling or increasing in bulk. This, in combination with mineral oil, softens and lubricates the waste matter and prevents it from becoming dry and compact. The intestinal tract is encouraged to help itself.

Give up your favorite physics or cathartics for a time, and you will soon know for yourself the splendid results that AGRILIN can produce without drugging the system.

MOTHERS

WHEN you take Agrilin yourself or give it to children you can be sure that it contains nothing that will upset digestion or irritate. The regular use of Agrilin produces normal action without griping. Agrilin can easily be given to infants. It looks and tastes almost like milk or cream.

Deep down in the turquoise blue waters of Japan are found marine gardens of the remarkable sea moss (Agar-Agar) that when added to mineral oil produces a perfect remedy for constipation.

The Seymours' beautiful home at La Crescenta is the rendezvous for lovers of music and art, and a number of the masterpieces of this clever, world-famed artist are among the treasures of the house.

For Engaged Couple

One of the most beautifully appointed affairs of the week was the dinner party with which Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Preuss entertained Saturday evening at their home in Laughlin Park in honor of Miss Cecile McLaughlin and Richard St. John, whose engagement was announced recently. The house was artistically decorated with a profusion of orange blossoms, gypsophilia sprays and white flowers and foliage. The place cards, favors, ice creams and tiny "Petit Fours," carried out the bridey motif honoring the charming young bride-elect and her fiance. Following the dinner dancing and mah jongg were the entertainments of the evening. Among those enjoying the party were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O. MacGowan, Mr. and Mrs. Granville MacGowan, Mr. and Mrs. William Erie Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Marion Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Gray Jeffras, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weeks Banks, Miss Eleanor MacGowan, Miss Elizabeth Taylor, Miss Olga Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox Drake, Miss Carmelita St. John, Guy Earl, Richard St. John, Dr. John Schmoele, Howard Cunningham, Aldrich Peck and Mr. Grandon.

BALDNESS—No. II.

Yesterday I gave you an illustration and told you something of the skin and hair, preparatory to telling you about baldness. I told you about the hair follicles, with their little nipple-like projections (the inner papillae) at the bottom, from which the hair grows.

When hairs are pulled or fall out, the hair follicle with its papilla remains, and grows a new hair if it is virile enough to grow new hair. So the whole question of retaining the hair depends upon keeping the hair follicles in a virile state.

The little papilla over which the hair root fits like a cap, and the whole hair follicle are liberally supplied with nerves and a network of blood vessels. If the hair follicles are given their due share of healthy bood they are going to continue on their job of making hair. Some hairs are being shed all the time and new hairs should take their place—and they will, as I said, if the hair follicles are given a fair chance to do their work.

Most men who are bald try to blame it on inheritance. "It runs in the family," they say. Now the authorities say it is true that baldness does seem to be inherited and there probably is no doubt that there is some basis for this belief. However, I believe that belief in the inheritance of baldness, just as in the inheritance of fat, has been too long made the scapegoat for a lack of care of the scalp and general nutrition. I [illegible] that if the scalp is given a[illegible]ttention from childhood, it can be prevented, or at least delayed many years.

Last week, in my article on dandruff, I gave you directions for the general care of the scalp. I will review them briefly today, best beginning in order the scalp should be thoroughly cleansed by a brisk brushing with a scrubbing motion. The dandruff scales, or what are a normal accumulation, are thus dislodged and do not accumulate to clog the hair roots and to furnish a breeding place for germs.

This brushing of the scalp should be accompanied by a thorough brushing of the hair backwards, and a massage of the scalp to bring the good circulation of the hair papillae from which hair grows, and to stimulate the nerves.

Pulling the hair is also an exercise for the scalp. It is accomplished by running the fingers and closing the hand. This gives exercise to these hair follicles with their hair papillae at the bottom.

All these measures should be taken every day. The scalp is about the only part of the body that does not get some attention during the day from the activities. In these measures are very important, but five minutes a day should be given to the normal scalp, and more time than this if there is dandruff or a beginning of thinning of the hair.

If there is dandruff in the form of disease (any scaliness of the skin can be seen,) special measures has to be applied besides the general care of the scalp. In my text books on diet, I have stated that 10 per cent of baldness is due to dandruff, so you can see that the prevention of dandruff means the prevention of baldness in the large majority of cases.

If you have [illegible] on dandruff you may send me a stamped envelope if you will send a self-addressed stamped envelope in care of this paper.

Now, as for the other [illegible] eral nutrition on the hair, you often find heavy [illegible] hair on those who [illegible] not normally nourished [illegible] or too fat or too [illegible] perhaps consider [illegible] persons as having [illegible] strong and vigorous hair [illegible] with perhaps large [illegible] erous blood vessels [illegible] We know, however, that [illegible] debilitating disease the hair is to fall out.

It is found in [illegible] tories that diet has a [illegible] fect on the fur of the [illegible] for experimental purposes [illegible] unbalanced diet, or in [illegible] one—especially one [illegible] tamins and [illegible] fur becomes rough [illegible] There is no reason [illegible] as do other [illegible] from improper diet.

HELD GUILTY IN BANKRUPT ACT SCHEME

Former Store Proprietor Convicted in Plot to Cheat Creditors

Harry Stein, former proprietor of the Value Garment Company, charged with conspiracy to violate the national bankruptcy law, was found guilty yesterday by a jury in the court of Federal Judge James. The jury was out eight minutes following a two-day trial. Stein will be sentenced next Monday afternoon.

The Value Garment Company operated last year with offices in the Union League Building. At bankruptcy proceedings brought by creditors Stein's assets were shown to be about $400, while his debts were approximately $16,000. In September Stein was arrested in Chicago on an indictment charging him with concealing assets in violation of the national banruptcy law.

Evidence introduced at the trial went to show that Stein bought about $12,000 worth of merchandise on credit and then shipped it to Chicago and New York before he had paid for it. He sold some of the merchandise here at less than the wholesale cost, according to evidence.

Three others indicted with Stein have not been arrested.

OPERATION ADVISED FRIEND SAID "DON'T DO IT!"

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First. Proved Good Advice

Chicago, Illinois.—"Just a few lines to let you know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was married going on for three years, and went to a doctor and was taking treatments twice a week for pains every month. I used to lie in bed three or four days with them and the doctor would call and inject something into my arm to put me asleep so I would not feel the pains. At last she said I would have to be operated on if I wanted any children. Well, I just happened to go to see a friend with her first baby and I told her I was going to the hospital, and she said, 'Don't do it! You go and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you won't need any operation.' So my husband got me a bottle right away. Now I have two lovely children. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every woman. It has helped me and a lot of my friends."—Mrs. A. McANDLESS, 1709 South Morgan St., Chicago, Illinois.

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.—[Advertisement.

Measure Seen Curbing Talk Advocating Crime

Address is Answer to Stand Taken by Ministers

"Free speech is the constitutional right of American citizens, but to advocate the repeal of a law which holds individuals responsible for words which inflame to murder and theft is, in effect, to take issue with the very spirit of our Constitution, which guarantees to all men the right to live and to retain property accumulated by legitimate methods."

This statement was made yesterday by Dept. Dist.-Atty. John J. Hill in an address at the First Congregational Church before the Congregational Ministers' Union, headed by Rev. A. S. Donat.

The meeting was called as a result of the recent industrial conference conducted at the First Congregational Church, when a score of ministers of various denominations adopted resolutions favoring the repeal of the Criminal Syndicalism Act.

AIDED BY WOBBLY

The resolutions passed at the conference last week were drawn up by Rev. C. J. Taft, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, and by an I.W.W. recently released from jail. The resolutions, after being adopted, were sent to the Church Federation for approval or rejection. They were approved by the social-service committee of the federation, of which Dr. E. P. Ryland is secretary, and then handed to the executive committee, which will take action on the matter at the meeting today.

Although yesterday's meeting was called in order that Congregational ministers might hear the opposite side of the question, Mr. Taft was present and was allowed an equal amount of time with Mr. Hill to present his case for the repeal of the law.

Mr. Hill read the text of the Criminal Syndicalism Act, made effective April 30, 1919, declared that the act was urgent at that time and said there is no reason why it should be repealed.

ENEMIES OR ORDER

"The foes of our Constitution and of order government—namely, the I.W.W.'s—who are fighting for the repeal of this law, are the men who did everything possible to hamper the program of America during the war and who today would destroy every vestige of civil liberty," said Mr. Hill. "Between 1914 and 1917 they destroyed more than $50,000,000 worth of property in this State and openly boasted of their success in their official organ, Solidarity.

"The whole program of these men is to obtain by force the control of all industry," said the speaker. "It is not their advocacy of a change in political and social affairs for which they are prosecuted, but the criminal means by which these changes are advocated. The I.W.W. contends that freedom of speech has been violated by this act, but the highest tribunal of the State has passed on its constitutionality. We must learn to discriminate between free speech and license."

Declaring that there are twenty-two branches of the Marxian and Prudohmme schools of Socialism and anarchy in Los Angeles, Mr. Hill said that these schools are teaching ideas totally foreign to American ideals.

SEEKS LEADERS ONLY

The District-Attorney, he said, realizes that many youths become members of these organizations in ignorance of the antisocial poison they contain and that therefore the District-Attorney has no wish to prosecute and imprison these men but rather to ferrit out and punish the leaders.

Rev. Clinton J. Taft, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, declared that the Criminal Syndicalism Act has worked a hardship on many men who were not deserving of the treatment they had received. He also cited the opinions of men who advocate the repeal of the law.

"What part of the law was used to prohibit free speech?" asked Dr. Frank Dyer.

"It would take a long time to explain," replied Mr. Taft, "but the law was invoked to suppress utterances of the I.W.W.'s concerning their doctrines, and many were arrested for selling papers which the United States government had allowed to go through the mails."

At this point Dr. H. C. Culbertson, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church, asked permission of the chairman to indulge in a little free speech of his own.

"Mr. Chairman, several years ago William McKinley was shot and killed because an irresponsible writer wrote an editorial that inflamed the mind of a man. The punishment of the assassin did not bring back the spirit of his victim, who was loved by the people of the land he served so well."

The minstrel's union, of which Mr. Donat is president, will meet next Monday morning at the Ambassador Hotel Theater and the chief speaker will be Dr. C. F. Aked.

Another Wilson Gang Suspect Is Held in Chicago

Another of the twenty-seven indicted here in connection with $1,000,000 mail robberies of 1921, in which Herbert Wilson, now serving a life term in San Quentin for murder, was asserted to have been the leading spirit, was taken into custody in Chicago yesterday, according to dispatches, with the arrest of Kenneth B. Anderson, member of a brokerage firm.

Following Anderson's arrest, United States Commissioner Glasg at Chicago, ordered him removed to Los Angeles for trial. The accused broker will fight extradition, it was reported, and plans to appeal from the commissioner's order. It is understood that postal authorities responsible for the indictment, do not hold that Anderson was directly involved in the mail robberies, but that he assisted in the disposal of the stolen property.

BEACH CITY BALL PARK SUIT FILED

Writ to Enjoin Further Expenditure on Project Sought by Taxpayer

Seeking to restrain the City of Long Beach from continuing work on a ball park at Recreation Park in the Beach City, John A. Rodgers, a taxpayer, yesterday filed suit in the Superior Court to enjoin the Long Beach city officials from spending further sums on the project.

Rodgers, who is known as one of the principal litigants in the legal maelstrom revolving about the proposed municipal gas plant of Long Beach, also asked that expenditures made under the terms of a resolution adopted by the Beach City's Council January 2, last, be rescinded "on the ground that the resolution was contrary to the provisions of the city charter.

The resolution authorized City Manager Windham to spend not more than $5000 for the construction of a grand stand and diamond in the park, it being stated Windham would place orders for materials without first advertising for bids.

Rodgers complained that the resolution was illegal inasmuch as it was asserted not to be an emergency provision and also that the total outlay would run in excess of the amount prescribed.

It is understood the Council of the Beach City passed the resolution in question to provide a training camp for the Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast League.

FIGHT OVER CHILD ENDS IN ADOPTION

Patsy Grace Moran Taken by Asserted Father Who Denies Paternity

The controversy over the paternity of 3-year-old Patsy Grace Moran was settled yesterday when Stanley C. Moran, former Chicago business man, appeared in Judge Fleming's court and legally adopted the child as his own.

The battle over the girl's paternity was precipitated when Moran filed suit for annulment of his marriage to Gladys V. Moran, former actress and model. The suit was based on the assertion that he was not legally divorced from a former wife at the time he married Mrs. Moran.

Moran admitted being the father of Stanley C. Moran, Jr., but denied on the stand that Patsy Grace was his daughter. His contention was that the girl was his wife's child by a former marriage.

Mrs. Moran answered her husband's annulment suit by instituting a cross-complaint for separate maintenance. In supplementary affidavits and papers, she charged that she had lived with Moran as his wife previous to their marriage in Iowa in 1921. She said that she and Moran attended a party in Columbus, O., at which liquor flowed. After the affair was over, she said, she found herself in Moran's company, and the assertion was made that Moran told her then that they had been married. In view of this asserted representation, she said, she continued to live with Moran as his wife for several weeks. It was due to this asserted relationship that she held Moran to be the father of Patsy Grace.

The case was partly tried before Judge Fleming last month, the court stating that in the eyes of the law, Moran was the child's father, as it was shown in the evidence that he had taken the child into his home as his own. The annulment-separate maintenance action was taken under advisement.

Police Bonds Are Backed by Wilshire Club

Resolutions expressing confidence in Chief of Police Vollmer and indorsing the $1,600,000 police bond issue on the May 6 ballot for new police stations will be read to the City Council this morning from the Wilshire Men's Club of the Wilshire Methodist Church.

The resolutions urge the establishment of new stations in Lincoln Heights, Sawtelle and Los Angeles Harbor district in addition to the other districts as recommended by Chief Vollmer. Erection of a central station harmonizing with the character and importance of the city also is urged and the work of Chief Vollmer highly praised.

Heavy Boots Drag Seaman to His Death

Losing his balance while painting the hull of the yacht Ylarba yesterday at Los Angeles Harbor, William Felch, 24 years of age, seaman, fell overboard and was drowned. The body was recovered in twenty-six feet of water more than an hour later by Capt. Steve Watson, skipper of the yacht.

The heavy rubber boots Felch wore were responsible for his inability to rise to the surface, Capt. Watson declared. The police used a pulmotor for more than an hour in an unsuccessful effort to resuscitate the victim.

The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Cleveland Company. An inquest will be conducted tomorrow morning.

YEGGS STEAL SAFE

Strong Box Carted Away and Rifled of Contents

Yeggs stole a safe from the John Scaff pool-hall at 511 Central avenue early yesterday morning, carted it away to the end of the Pacific Electric car line at Mayflower and Randolph streets and there opened it. They obtained $218 in cash, a government check for $65 and an automatic pistol.

The safe was found by some boys later in the morning.

WOMEN INDORSE AIM OF CONTEST

National Federation Club Leader Approves

Mrs. J. C. Urquhart Also in Favor of Plan

Thousands to Write Oration on Constitution

Has your school enrolled in the National Oratorical Contest? If not write at once to A. F. Blanks, oratorical contest director, Los Angeles Times.

Five thousand Los Angeles high school students have already been registered as entrants in the National Oratorical Contest, according to a report received by Prof. A. F. Blanks, contest director for The Times yesterday.

"It is probable that this number will be considerably increased during the present week," said Prof. Blanks. "I am informed by the high school principals that they estimate that possibly 50 per cent of the 20,000 students in Los Angeles will enter. The interest in the contest is constantly growing, many students already being at work on their orations."

CLUB WOMEN APPROVE

The wide-spread interest in the contest plan is nowhere more marked than among the women of the country. A reflection of this is seen in a letter written Judge Martin J. Wade, U. S. District Judge from Iowa, now in Los Angeles, by Mrs. Anna J. H. Pennybacker, chairman of the department of American citizenship of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Pennybacker has for years been prominently identified with women's organizations whose aim it is to promote the general welfare of the nation and her suggestion that the federation, which is the largest women's organization in the world, should back the contest, may be taken as expressing the general sentiment on the part of the thinking women of the country toward the movement. Her letter, addressed to Judge Wade, reads as follows:

PLAN EXCELLENT

"I have just received from Mrs. Winter (president of the General Federation) your letter to her concerning the Oratorical Constitutional Contest. I can see no reason why the General Federation should not recommend this excellent plan. Will you please send me copies of the plan as outlined in the letter sent Mrs. Winter? This letter was sent out from the Times-Mirror Company. Kindly suggest also, what you think the federation might do to assist in the project."

The sentiments expressed by Mrs. Pennybacker are shared by Mrs. John C. Urquhart, president of the California Women's Federation, representing some 75,000 women in the State.

"The oratorical contest plan, involving as it does a study of the Constitution on the part of the young people, has my hearty approval," said Mrs. Urquhart. "The members of the Women's Federation always advocate the thorough study of any subject that may serve to clear up a situation. At this time when a multitude of problems confront our nation it occurs to me that nothing could profit us more than to familiarize ourselves with the fundamental principles on which our government is based."

JURY TO OPEN HARBOR QUIZ

Indictments May Follow Investigation Today of Transactions in City Department

The grand jury is scheduled today to begin its investigation into the municipal harbor department, including the admitted acceptance of suits of clothes by Edgar McKee, who was removed last week as president of the Board of Harbor Commissioners, from men who were seeking contracts, leases and other grants from the Harbor Board.

Dist.-Atty. Keyes has been personally investigating the entire matter for nearly a month, and has questioned a number of officials, former officials and others who have knowledge of conditions in the harbor department, which has supervision over the $45,000,000 city properties at the port and which, during the next twenty-four months, will spend $15,000,000 on new wharves, docks, dredging and other facilities.

It is for the purpose of examining carefully the operations of the harbor department to ascertain if the people's investment at the harbor is being managed efficiently and for the public interest that the present investigation was started. If it is found that officials have been guilty of criminal acts against the public interest in connection with the administration of their public trust, indictments will follow.

MANY WITNESSES

Among the witnesses who will be called before the grand jury are Capt. Lewis Hansen of the Los Angeles Harbor district, land agent for the board, who declares that former President McKee demanded a fifty-fifty split of the commissions on all land transactions handled for the board by Capt. Hansen; Walter S. Maxwell, who was agent for some land purchased by the Harbor Board and who has admitted giving former President McKee a suit of clothes; Public Works Commissioner Arthur Eldredge, who as city efficiency director, conducted an exhaustive survey of the harbor department and reported that in many ways the department was not being efficiently managed; former Harbor Commissioner Richards, who had spread upon the official records of the commission the statement that the then president, McKee, was untruthful, and many others who have given preliminary statements and important information to the District Attorney.

Dist.-Atty. Keyes yesterday afternoon secured important Harbor department information from Assistant City Attorney Clyde M. Leach, legal adviser of the Harbor Department, and Mr. Leach is expected to be an important grand jury witness. The grand jury's investigation is expected to continue for several weeks.

ALLEN CONFIRMED

The City Council yesterday confirmed the Mayor's appointment of Walter E. Allen as a member of the Board of Harbor Commissioners to fill the unexpired term of C. J. Colden, Mr. Colden having been appointed and confirmed as president of the commission to succeed Edgar McKee, removed. Eight members of the Council voted in favor of the confirmation of Mr. Allen. Councilman Mushet asked to be excused from the Council and returned after the vote was taken. After the session, Councilman Mushet said:

"I wish to explain my position. Under ordinary circumstances I should have voted for Mr. Allen. Everything I have heard about him has been in his favor. But his appointment has grown out of the ignominious and ruthless dismissal of Mr. McKee while under fire. I have not yet recovered from the shock given to my sense of American fair play by the McKee removal. 'With what measure ye mete it shall be measured to you again.' Had I been in the Council chamber when the Allen matter was voted upon my negative vote would have been one of protest. It would have been the only way left for me to express my deep humiliation at circumstances surrounding the McKee removal."

OBJECTS TO CYKLER

President McGuire of the Board of Public Works said yesterday that Emil Cykler, now president of the Pan-Pacific Construction Company, which has been awarded a $500,000 dredging contract by the Harbor Board as well as a contract for more than $100,000 worth of patented concrete piling, has been suggested for appointment as consulting engineer for the $12,000,000 outfall sewer, a position to which H. A. Van Norman was appointed. President McGuire said that Cykler had visited him and shown his recommendations as to his experience as an engineer. Mr. McGuire declared:

"When the Board of Public Works was discussing available engineers for the sewer job, I said to Charles H. Treat, then president of the board, that if we appointed Cykler it would mean that Frank Reese would have his hand in building the $12,000,000 sewer, as Reese is Cykler's friend. President Treat agreed at once that Cykler, because of this connection, would not do, so the commissioners immediately went to see Chief Engineer Mulholland of the Water Department and made arrangements to secure a loan of the services of Van Norman for the sewer work."

Frank Reese declined yesterday to comment on the reported plan to place Cykler on the job as the engineer for the building of the $12,000,000 outfall sewer.

BOY SCOUTS FUND DRIVE UNDER WAY

Workers in Campaign for $100,000 Have First Report Luncheon at Noon

At noon today, in the ballroom of the Alexandria, workers in the campaign in behalf of the Boy Scouts of Los Angeles will lunch with the citizens' committee fostering a $100,000 fund, and officers of the Los Angeles district council, reporting the success achieved in the first three hours of a four-day canvass.

Field workers, of whom there are 333 business men, yesterday pledged themselves in writing to "go the limit" and at a meeting in the Biltmore were armed with literature, subscription cards and a map of their respective districts. They start at 9 o'clock this morning on their work in behalf of the scouts. Admittedly the first day will be devoted to obtaining funds from those business men and institutions thoroughly familiar with the value of scout training, both to the boys and as a community asset, and the need of money with which to enlarge the organization ranks with thousands of new recruits.

Three "generals,"—George F. Bradley, Robert A. Heffner and Malcolm McNaghten, will be assisted in the command of the field force by the folowing captains:

Arthur Letts, Jr., Charles Morgan, Jr., James J. Gee, H. B. Learned, A. H. Woodbine, Chief of the Fire Department Ralph J. Scott, Robert Granger, Roland Le-Mille, F. W. Howard, S. B. Edgerton, Ralph Reynolds, Percy W. Jones, R. W. Whitten, Dan B. Miner, A. J. Robbins, Robert M. Moulton, Andrew Mullen, Clinton E. Miller, George Rice, Jr., R. H. Curtiss, R. F. Bostwick, Earl F. Snowden, John F. Torrey, Charles F. Turner, Richard Alter and W. I. Tupman.

Fifteen business men of Hollywood yesterday afternoon formed a local auxiliary to work with the Los Angeles citizens' committee. Boy Scouts are particularly well known in that section of the city for their community services and have received strong indorsement from organizations here.

in this 12-story
Hollywood Skyscraper,
Own an office you can rent, occupy or sell at a profit!

Note

The money received from the sale of office units is not to be used in connection with the construction of the building. The Guaranty Building has already been financed by a large California bond house and the present owners.

Pay $500 now-balance of $4500 over a period of 15 years.

The ownership of one or more offices in a centrally located office building is one of the most attractive investments on earth. Could you imagine anything more secure, or with greater potential investment possibilities?

Hollywood Boulevard at Ivar is the logical business center of Hollywood—the "Seventh and Broadway" of the film capital. Business frontage at this point has increased four hundred per cent in the past three years—and Hollywood's real growth is yet to come.

The Guaranty Building will be completed according to schedule in October. The building has been financed by a large California bond house and the present owner.

The Guaranty Building and Loan Association of Hollywood (the present owner) will retain the entire ground floor and basement and the eleven upper stories will be sold to individuals and corporations.

The sale of offices in the building to date evidences the appeal that this type of investment makes to thoughtful investors and renters of office space.

This is the only opportunity of its kind in the history of Los Angeles—and there may never be another.

Bankers and realtors agree that Hollywood has a marvelous future. Its ultra-modern business district has a tremendous tributary territory—including the great Wilshire and Beverly Hills sections and that vast empire, the San Fernando Valley. Ultimately a million population will depend upon Hollywood's business district. What will the Guaranty Building be worth then? Compare present valuations at Seventh and Broadway with those of 10 years ago. History will repeat itself at Hollywood Boulevard and Ivar Avenue.

Office rent is loss!

Office OWNERSHIP is PROFIT!

Why anyone should continue to rent an office (particularly those who rent in Hollywood) when he can own a Guaranty office on practically the same terms as rent, is beyond comprehension.

Office rentals, the same as house rentals are absolute losses. Rent money never comes back. A Guaranty office is a high grade investment—one that will return a generous income if leased, and an attractive profit if ultimately sold.

President Garfield Brings Distinguished List

Famous Big Game Hunters Among Passengers

Angelenos to Embark for Cruise of Orient

Sportsmen, soldiers with distinguished records, capitalists, artists, social leaders and just plain folks were among the travelers arriving from New York and Havana yesterday aboard the Dollar liner President Garfield on her initial voyage in the new American-flag around-the-world service. The 21,000-ton craft, former pride of the United States lines, also has a complement of officers of unusual distinction.

Eighty cabin passengers, thirty-eight of them for Los Angeles, were aboard the giant visitor when she came in at daylight, and thirty-eight Angelenos will embark on her for the world cruise when she sails for the Orient tonight.

Two distinguished travelers who came in on the President Garfield were Mr. and Mrs. P. Albert Poppenhusen, big-game hunters from Chicago. They have scoured the Rockies and Canada and Newfoundland to British Columbia for trophies and now are en route to Calcutta and Delhi, which will be the base of their expedition into the Punjab.

Others of prominence who are making the globe-circling tour from New York are Mrs. Frances H. Osborne, New York social leader; Commodore George C. Beresford of White Plains, N. Y., and Miss Gertrude A. James.

Capt. Kenneth B. Lowry of the President Garfield is on his present command after being executive officer of the world's biggest ship —— the Leviathan. Purser Charles G. Hadicke, veteran Pacific Mail officer, is known in every port on the Pacific as Count Charlie. The steward, Jack Reynolds, has been twenty-two years in service, while Chief Engineer E. C. Whitwam is known on both coasts for his service with the Alaska Steamship Company, the Garland Lines and the Green Star Line.

Fifteen hundred tons of Southern California canned goods for the Orient will be in the holds of the President Garfield when she sails westward tonight, the fourth of seven sister ships in the Dollar world fleet.

PORT HERE TAKES LEAD FOR COAST

Shipping Board's Figures Reveal Los Angeles Has Record Eastern Trade

During the year 1923 a total of 12,201,252 tons of intercoastal cargoes of the United States passed through the Panama Canal, and of this amount Los Angeles received or shipped 8,574,567 tons, or 70 per cent of the total.

These figures have just been compiled by the trade extension department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce from the quarterly statements issued by the United States Shipping Board. The figures for the last three months of 1923 have just been received from the research department of the Shipping Board at Washington.

Westbound commerce, which is made up of general merchandise of all kinds, amounted to a total of 2,593,887 tons, of which Los Angeles received 1,129,391 tons, or 44 per cent. San Francisco, the next largest port on the Pacific Coast, received 338,413 tons.

In eastbound tonnage Los Angeles originated an overwhelming amount on account of the petroleum shipments going from Los Angeles to Atlantic and Gulf ports. Of a total of 9,606,345 tons of eastbound intercoastal commerce, Los Angeles shipped 7,445,276 tons or 77 per cent.

This left only 2,163,069 tons originating at all the rest of the Pacific Coast ports, including all of the lumber and grain from the Pacific Northwest.

In the last half of the year Los Angeles received 45 per cent of all westbound cargoes and shipped 80 per cent of all eastbound cargoes.

Shipping Board statistics are figured in long tons of 2240 pounds.

ST. JOHN TRUSTS IN ST. PATRICK

Film Comedian's Plea for Alimony Cut Comes up 17th Inst.

St. John will try again on St. Patrick's Day to get his alimony reduced.

Some months ago Judge Clock awarded Mrs. Lillian St. John $1500 a month alimony and a divorce from Al St. John, motion-picture comedian, and then went for a trip in the Orient. Yesterday the husband appeared before Judge Summerfield, declared trying to pay the alimony was ruining his health, that his finances would not stand it, and that he was broke. He pleaded for a lessening of the strain.

Judge Summerfield will conduct a hearing in the matter on the 17th inst.

LOVE PACT THEORY IS SCOUTED

Woman Killed Officer and Herself

Mildred Pearl Schutze

A MAD infatuation for Detective Lieutenant F. L. Pratt, which turned into despair at her realization that they could not be married, was the motive which drove Mildred Pearl Lloyd Schutze to send three bullets into the officer's body and then to end her own life, Captain of Detectives Home declared yesterday.

The theory that the couple might have entered a suicide pact was dismissed by Capt. Home with the statement that his investigation has failed to disclose anything relating to such a contract.

As far as the police are concerned the investigation into the murder of the officer and the suicide of the woman is at an end, he said. There will be no inquest, he declared, and Coroner Nance has already issued a certificate for the burial of the couple.

Capt. Home declared he did not believe the note found near the woman's body, which first led to the theory that the detective and Mrs. Schutze had entered into a death contract was genuine.

The shooting took place Sunday night at Avenue 35 and Pasadena avenue. The officer and Mrs. Schutze were on their way home after having spent the morning at Detective Lieutenant Pratt's ranch.

They had stopped the car and were talking earnestly, according to the police theory, when Mrs. Schutze whipped out a revolver and shot the officer three times, killing him almost instantly.

The woman then proceeded to the home of her former husband, L. P. Schutze, at 3584 Griffin avenue, and, retiring to a rear bedroom, swallowed the death potion. She left a note indicating a possible suicide pact.

The body of the detective is at the Wilshire mortuary, while that of the woman is at the Highland Park mortuary. Funeral services for the officer have not yet been

DRUG CAMPAIGN DINNER TONIGHT

Hundred District Leaders to Confer

Educational Work Program Planned

County Appropriation for Work Sought

Tonight at a dinner-conference at the Elks' Club more than 100 district directors will meet for a discussion of final plans pertaining to the International Narcotic Education Association's campaign in the residential section of the city.

Ingall W. Bull

The campaign, which will open Sunday, continuing throughout the entire week, will be city-wide in scope and its purpose is to enroll members and to enlist support for the big program of educational work which the association, under the presidency of Capt. Richard Pearson Hobson, is sponsoring.

Ingall W. Bull, Exalted Ruler of Elk Lodge No. 99, is chairman of the residential district for the campaign and as such will preside over tonight's special gathering of district directors.

DIRECTORS INVITED

Members of the association's board of directors and board of trustees have been invited to be present, these including United States Dist. Judge Bledsoe, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Charles C. Chapman, George I. Cochran, Arthur H. Fleming, Edward A. Dickson, Irving W. Hellman, William G. McAdoo, A. B. C. Dohrmann, John G. Mott, J. W. Jameson, Alphonso E. Ball, F. W. Braun, A. A. Daugherty, Mrs. F. W. Farwell, H. C. House, Harry Chandler, Malcolm McNaghten, G. G. Young, Will D. Gould and Bishop B. W. Stevens.

Among the speakers at the dinner-meeting will be Capt. Hobson, John G. Mott and Mr. Bull.

Under the chairmanship of Mr. Bull an organization of 1000 or more prominent men and women will make a thorough canvass in the city's residential section, the campaign set-up including 120 group directors and under these a precinct director assigned to each of the city precincts.

Headquarters of the association are in the Chamber of Commerce building.

INDORSEMENT GIVEN

Capt. Hobson, having surmounted the first obstacle in his efforts to procure for antinarcotic educational work an appropriation of $5000 from the Board of Supervisors, will make an effort to bring the matter to the further attention of the board today. Capt. Hobson appeared at the board yesterday, but the press of other matters prevented the board from reaching the request of the Narcotic Education Association.

The education committee of the Chamber of Commerce unanimously indorsed the request for the appropriation and a recommendation voicing this indorsement will be forwarded to the directors of the chamber at their meeting Thursday evening.

The County Council has passed upon the legality of such an appropriation by the county, holding that it could be made through the County Health Officer, although the money, should it be appropriated, will be used for purely educational purposes. It is the intention of the Narcotic Education Association to use the money, together with an additional $5000 city appropriation, to disseminate the Standard Bulletin No. 3. The two appropriations, according to Capt. Hobson, would make it possible to put a copy in each of the 200,000 homes in the city.

LOCAL SUIT ON DOHENY CASE NEAR

Motion for Injunction and Receiver Expected to be Filed Monday

A motion for an injunction and a receiver probably will be filed with the United States District Court in Los Angeles next Monday morning by the government against the Pan-American Petroleum Company. The action is planned in connection with recent exposures relative to oil land leases held by Doheny interests. The proceedings in Los Angeles will relate to lands in Kern county.

Charles N. Williams, clerk of the District Court, received a telegram yesterday from Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, special counsel appointed by President Coolidge to prosecute the cases whereby the government plans to set aside leases to oil land held by the Department of the Interior, asking if they could be heard next Monday morning on a motion for an injunction and receiver concerning Kern county lands. They said they expect to file a bill in equity here at that time.

In reply to a telegram from Clerk Williams saying they could be heard then, the special counsel said they would be here Monday, provided they were not detained longer than they expect to be at Cheyenne. It is understood they left Washington so as to reach Cheyenne early this week.

E. L. Doheny will arrive in Los Angeles soon to decide whether or not he shall surrender his thirty-year lease on 1200-foot frontage and seven acres of Pier I of the municipal wharf at Los Angeles Harbor, the legality of which has been attacked by attorneys of the Municipal League.

Because of the grave question raised as to the right of the Board of Harbor Commissioners to lease any part of Pier I to anyone, Acting City Attorney Whitehead recommended to former Judge Charles Welborn, attorney for Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum Company, to which the commissioners granted the lease, that the company surrender the lease and accept a revocable permit. This arrangement was approved by the lease, and now awaits Mr. Doheny's approval.

Former Judge Welborn notified Acting City Attorney Whitehead yesterday that Mr. Doheny will arrive in Los Angeles soon.

The company already has expended or contracted to spend more than $1,000,000 in pipe lines, oil tanks, wharf and fire protection wall surrounding the seven-acre site, which is to be an oil export station from which the city expects to receive at least $30,000 a year in revenue from oil shipments over the wharf.

Attractive Display Visited by Thousands

Demonstration Building of Electrical Interests

ELECTRICAL HOME OPEN ANOTHER WEEK

Twenty-three thousand persons had inspected the Hollywood electrical home at Cahuenga avenue and Odin street up to noon Monday, committees reported at the luncheon of the Los Angeles Electric Club at the Biltmore yesterday. On Sunday alone 3200 visitors stood in line waiting their turn to pass through the building and there was still a waiting line when the home closed for the evening at 10 o'clock.

Because of the interest and attendance it has been decided to keep the home open for another week. The original closing date fixed was the 17th inst., but those in charge do not believe it will be possible to show the home to those desiring to see it within that time and arrangements are being made for the additional week. Attendance is increasing daily and the committee expects to receive a total of 75,000 visitors before the closing.

LIGHTING ATTRACTS

The exterior lighting of the electrical home is attracting exceptional interest. The powerful flood lights throw the white building, with its picturesque architectural lines and striking awnings, into bold relief against the background of the Hollywood hills, so that it may be seen for a number of blocks.

More than fifty household devices by which electricity may be made to lighten household duties are on display and very general interest is being shown in the thorough instalation of convenience outlets which permit an electrical attachment practically at any point desired in any room.

The home is being sponsored by the organized electrical interests of Los Angeles, represented in the California electrical co-operative campaign by the Electrical Club and the Los Angeles Contractors' and Dealers' Association.

SCHOOL IDEALS TOPIC

Dr. R. B. Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, was the speaker at yesterday's luncheon of the Electric Club, speaking on "The Dynamics of Education." Unless men in high places in our government get down to business, Dr. Von KleinSmid said, there is the possibility that the people may lose faith in a democracy. "This is got a time to monkey with government," the speaker said, maintaining that the important factor in the education of the period is not how many students are in the schools and universities, but what they are being taught and the character and ideals of the men and women who are teaching them. There has been enough he said, of the education of destruction and the perplexities of the time call for the education of construction.

"I am mostly interested," he said, "in the character of the men and women who are teaching the 22,000,000 boys and girls who daily attend our schools. Our problem is not alone to overcome illiteracy, but to be sure that in doing so we teach constructive effort and ideals. The teachers of today must be sound and sane and helpful, devoted to the weal instead of the woe of mankind."

LAND PROJECT ON PROGRAM

Officials of the Pahvant Land Company wil be in charge of the program of the Commercial Board luncheon at the Biltmore today. Marius De Brabant, assistant general traffic manager of the Union Pacific System, will be chairman of the day. S. A. Greenwood will speak on "Utah's Southwest Empire," and Dr. George P. Clements, manager of the agricultural department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, will discuss "The New Wisconsin of the West."

PETS FREE TO JOURNEY

Leading Canines, Cats and Canaries May be Shipped by Partial Lifting of Plague Quarantine

Prominent visiting dogs-about-town with important engagements in Asheville, White Sulphur Springs and other eastern spring resorts sighed with relief yesterday when it became known that hoof-and-mouth disease quarantine regulations had been so altered as to permit their passage through Arizona, Nevada and Utah.

For a time it looked as though nothing but a trip via the Panama Canal could save the spring itineraries of these canines and their masters and mistresses. Immediately upon the outbreak of hoof and mouth diseases in California strict embargoes against animals of any kind from this State were placed by neighboring States. Dogs, cats, parrots, canary birds, rattlesnakes—all were barred at the State line.

Fair women wept at railroad stations, strong men cussed, harried baggage masters faced nervous prostration and drawing-room reservations were cancelled.

"Why I've seen whole parties of eastbound tourists turn in their tickets and leave the station because we couldn't check the dog," one baggage master said yesterday. "One man came in here last week with an airedale. He was in a big hurry to get back to Philadelphia. When he found out he couldn't check the dog he postponed his trip until Wednesday, and went out to find a boarding place for his hound."

Regulations have been lifted now so that it is possible to get pets through the quarantine under certain conditions, it was announced yesterday. Southern Pacific and Santa Fe passengers are allowed to check them with the understanding that Arizona inspectors will examine them at Yuma or Needles, and if they find cause dip them in disinfectant.

The Union Pacific has to meet the regulations in Utah. This State requires a permit from its own authorities for each animal destined for a point within the State, but do not interfere with those destined for points beyond.

WOMAN MISSING FOR MONTHS SAID TO HAVE RECENTLY LEFT NORTH BEND

Louis Heense Takes Pleasure in Telling of Recovery from Serious Stomach Trouble, Gives Tanlac Full Credit

"Well, sir, it's a man's duty to boost a good thing, but in the case of this Tanlac, I not only consider it a duty, but a genuine pleasure," is the enthusiastic manner in which Louis Heense, well-known resident of 2207 92nd Ave., Oakland, Calif., endorses the famous treatment.

"For over a year, I suffered constantly from stomach trouble. I never had a good appetite, and what little I did eat usually had me in downright misery for hours after my meals. Chronic constipation was also pulling me down and I got where I had no strength or energy and never felt right.

"Nothing reached my case until a friend told me about Tanlac and the way it took hold was a wonder. It gave me a keen appetite, eliminated my troubles entirely and built me up so I not only work better, but feel finer than ever. I'm for Tanlac, good and strong."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

WARFIELD SAYS WEST IS IDEAL

Veteran Actor Proud That He is Native Son

Failure for Closed Shop in Theater Forecast

Motion Pictures Praised as Adjunct to Stage

"I wish I never had to go back East again," said David Warfield, veteran actor, yesterday when telling how much he liked California and especially Los Angeles.

Mr. Warfield, who arrived at the Biltmore yesterday morning, is in Los Angeles to appear in the "Merchant of Venice" at the Mason Theater.

"You know I'm a native son," he went on. "I was born and spent the early part of my life in San Francisco and I have always loved California."

The actor said he had played in Los Angeles the first time thirty year ago.

"I appeared at two evening performances and one matinee at that time," he said. This time Mr. Warfield will be here two weeks.

He shook his head when the closed-shop-for-actors controversy was mentioned. The Actors' Equity Association of New York, virtually an actors' union, has announced that it will bar all actors not in the union from appearing on the stage after next June, when its present agreement with the theater managers expires.

"I don't know what will be the outcome," said Mr. Warfield. "That the managers will oppose the closed-shop system is a foregone conclusion but how far they will get is something nobody knows."

He suggested that in some respects the A. E. A., which was organized some five years ago, has done much good.

"There were certain inequalities on both sides ironed out by forming this organization," he said. "The theaters have been handled on a more business-like basis since. But now the actors are going a step further and demanding a closed shop. It means complete unionization and it is doubtful if unionizing the art of acting can be made a success."

PRAISES THE SCREEN

Speaking of the motion pictures and their influence on the legitimate stage, Mr. Warfield said he considered they had done the theaters a lot of good.

"The pitures have inspired interest in the stage among thousands who had never given it a thought," he said. "Seeing the screen productions has made them want to see theatrical performances. And the entertainment furnished by the pictures in every nook and corner of the country has been of untold value in making life more pleasant."

He touched briefly on the subject of undesirable plays which have come in for much criticism in New York recently.

FROWN ON BAD PLAYS

"We've always had such plays and probably it will be impossible to stamp them out entirely so long as the public will pay money to see them," he said. "I don't believe conditions in New York have been worse this season than in former years and, in any event, there is a growing disposition on the part of the profession to frown on bad plays. No reputable manager will put on a suggestive performance."

He said the New York newspapers largely have discontinued their policy of permitting violent criticism of off-color productions.

"They have concluded that the best plan is to ignore them," he explained. "Nothing will draw the crowds so quickly as to announce that a play is improper and the papers are beginning to observe that principle."

Moslem Nobleman and Protege of Dempsey Get Acquainted as Employees on Ship

Constantine Raises Achmed Effendi, 28 years of age, height 5 feet 1 inch, survivor of the Smyrna fire and massacre in 1922, member of the Turkish nobility, master of eleven languages, honor graduate of Le Mans (France) University, and freight clerk of the Dollar liner President Garfield.

What's in a name, anyway?

"The Long and the Short of It," passengers on the Dollar around-the-world liner dubbed them during the run around from New York for the dapper little freight clerk and the husky, handsome radio man were chums and companions on the cruise.

Constantine Raises's life has been a bookful of thrills. His father was a member of the household of Abdul Hamid. When the Young Turks came into power he took his family and fled to Smyrna. Fortune smiled then until the massacres of 1922, when the Raises family lost its lands, property and all personal effects. They escaped, through a subterfuge, on a French steamer to Piraeus.

Constantine eventually came to New York, where for the last two years he has been secretary to Herbert Bayard Swope, editor of the New York World, and head of the Pulitzer School of Journalism. Two months ago he decided to become a seafaring man and this globe-circling jaunt on the President Garfield is his first attempt.

Contrast him and his life with John Doe, New York youngster who joined the United States Navy when he was old enough, learned the radio game and was still at it on the Clyde liner Comanche when he met Jack Dempsey on board. Dempsey took John Doe under his wing, but the call of the salty breeze was too strong—he went back to his key and the sputtering arc.

"You can't keep a good man down," remarked John Doe as he picked up Constantine Achmed Effendi with one hand and set him on a rope locker.

BOND IS FORFEITED IN DRUG CHARGE HEARING

Federal Judge Bledsoe yesterday issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Anthony J. Bruno, charged with violation of the Harrison narcotic law, when the latter failed to appear for arraignment. The court ordered Bruno's bond of $15,000 forfeited, and placed him under a new bond of $50,000. Three charges of violating the narcotic law are pending against Bruno in the Federal court.

You still have one of California's Greatest treats to see

Dear Friend

Los Angeles has no doubt charmed you. You have been impressed by its bustle and unceasing activity, its hospitable air, and its numerous attractive suburbs. Now you will want to see California's other great city --San Francisco, only a night's ride or a beautiful all-day trip by rail from Los Angeles.

The California Coast is for the most part mountainous. 500 miles north of you, a rift in the mountains allows the waters of California's greatest rivers to find the sea. There is the Golden Gate! And on her sun-swathed hills, surrounded on three sides by sparkling water--San Francisco.

People who have seen the world love San Francisco. For here the Riviera of the Mediterranean is recalled to them. Here they are reminded of the piquant Latin countries, and the dreamy Orient. San Francisco's foreign quarters are reminiscent of old Europe and older Asia. Then there are the alertly modern business blocks and residential districts that have the air of 1924.

San Francisco's fabled hills are without peers. Her busy cable-cars ascend them joyously, spreading glistening roofs or jewel-like lights below you in profuse array. From Twin Peaks you have an airplane thrill and view; from lesser hills you glimpse the sparkling bay or ocean and the "contra costa" cities in the gleaming sun. If you love variety, San Francisco will win you.

In an afternoon you'll see palatial homes and flowered bungalows--dashing surf, colossal rocks--the broad, flat beach--a sky-line road--golf clubs on the ocean heights--home-dotted valleys deep in the hills--skyscrapers and Oriental pergolas--great vessels and smart panting tugs--fine piers and Fisherman's Wharf--huge factories and metropolitan shops--restaurants of half-a-dozen nationalities--civic buildings in a twenty-million dollar group--tunnels that bore through mountains to new residential parks--tall eucalyptus trees in even rows--flower beds in abandon of color and cheer --street flower stands--quaint foreign cousins in intriguing dwellings. You'll be in San Francisco all the time!--and still have many interesting things to see.

Nowhere is there greater diversity of fascinating interests, more appealing variety, more compelling individuality. You may walk where Kipling walked, and lounge where Stevenson rested in his favorite park. You may pace the streets of Mark Twain. You may enjoy the walks that Bret Harte found enjoyable, and breathe the clean sea air Jack London loved so much.
